2202. A Book in folio, consisting of divers Miscellaneous Tracts & Fragments, written by different Hands, now Bound-up together. They are,

1. The Case of Anthony-Ashley Cowper Earl of Shaftesbury, argued on both Sides; with His Lordships own Speech, in Banco Regis, Term. Trin. anno 29 Caroli II. upon the Illegality of the Return of a Warrant from the House of Peers; by Virtue of which, he was imprisoned in the Tower of London: with the Opinion of the Court thereupon; whereby he was re-manded to his Prison. fol. 1.
2. Expressions collected from Greek & Roman Authors, &c. chiefly relating to Great Britain & its Inhabitants. They seem to be of the Hand-writing of the learned Mr. William Camden, in Order to be inserted into his Britannia. fol. 11.
3. An imperfect Copie of Cookes Baronage; with the Armes only Blason'd in the Margin. fol. 13.
4. Certayne breiffe Instructions of an Atturney in the Common Place, or Court of Common Pleyes: written in the time of Qu. Elizabeth; & torn in the Beginning. fol. 49.
5. Copie of a Letter from Mr. Frauncis Knowlles to his General, who (perhaps) was Sir Francis Drake then on a Voiage to the Indies. The Writer, being in Custody, desires a Trial; & dates his Letter aboard the Lettice Lecester, the 6 of January. fol. 54.
6. Part of a Journal kept by a Servant to Captain Knowles on board the Lettice Leicester. fol. 55.
'Tis great Pitty that this Journal should be so mangled as it is; in it was a particular Detail of the said Captains & others Sufferings, because they declined to take certain Oaths which the Generall would impose upon them, and all others under his Command. Here was likewise interwoven Relations of the Actions at the Canary-Islands, St. Jago, St. Domingo, Carthagena, &c. during this Voiage.

2207. A Book in folio, consisting of certain Tracts now bound together. vizt.

A Collection of severall Speeches & Treatises of the late Lord Treasurer Cecill; & of severall Obseruations of the Lords of the Councell, giuen to K. James concerning his Estate & Reuenue: in the yeares 1608. 1609. & 1610. These are,

1. A Letter written by some of the Lords of the Councell to the King, A. D. 1608. touching meanes to aduance the Kings Revenues by vnvsuall meanes: so as the King would take the Act vpon Himselfe, & be their Protection. fol. 2.
This looking somewhat extraordinary, I soon run this Letter over, & perceive that these noble Lords acting by speciall Commission from his Majesty (who by his continual & excessive Bounties to every begging Courtier, had run Himself into great Debts & Want) had looked into every Branch of his Revenue that yet remained; & deliberated upon means of improving the same, so that His Dignity & Family might be kept & maintained in their due Splendor. Yet, in the mean time, they insinuate their Advise, that he would hold his too bounteous Hand for the present.

Num. 2207. — 2208.

2. A Collection of such things as Robert Cecil late Earle of Salisbury thought fit to offer to his Majesty, vpon the necessity of calling a Parliament, A. D. 1609. fol. 12.
3. His Lordships first Speech deliuered to the Lower House of Parliament. fol. 15.
This was at Whitehall, the King and Peers being present; and in many Words setteth-forth the Kings wants, & the Causes of them, with the necessity of fresh Supplies.
4. A Letter from G. D. to his Friend A. W. at Middelburgh, aduertising him of the Occurrences in the Parliament; and withall, sending him a Coppie of the late Lord Treasurer Cecil's Speech. fol. 46. b.
5. Curiae Cancellariae Prærogativa et summa Autoritas. fol. 52.
6. The Fines of all manner of Writts & Patents. fol. 85.
7. Of the several sorts of Courts. fol. 87. b.
8. An Argument exhibited by the Lord Keeper in Parliament, proving that Noble Mens persons be attacheable for Contempts committed by them in the Queenes Majesties Court of Chancerye, in disobeyinge the Decrees made there, in Matters examineable in the same Courte. fol. 94.
9. Of the High Courts of Justice in England; & especially of the Chancerye-Courte, & of the Lord Chancellour that judgeth there. fol. 95.
10. Ordinances made by the Lord Keeper Coventry, with the Aidinge & Assistance of Sr. Julius Cæsar Master of the Rolls, anno 11 Caroli 1. for the Redresse of sundry Errours, Defaults, & Abuses in the High Court of Chancerye. fol. 114.
11. The Abuses (and Remedyes) of the High Court of Chancery; presented vnto the Lord Keeper, by George Norbury. fol. 119.
12. The Cause betweene the Master of the Rolls, & the Six Clerkes. fol. 157.
It appears, that the 3 of December, 1637. the Master of the Rolls (then Sr. Dudley Digges) did, by Petition, complain to the King of great Incroachments & Usurpations made by the Six Clerkes, upon the Rights & Profits of His & other subordinate Officers Places; besides other Things practised by them to the Subjects general Grievance; for which they were found faultie by the Commissioners & Complained of in Starre-Chamber. This Petition being referred to the Judges, the several Complaints of the Master of the Rolls, & several other Officers in Chancery were Pleaded by Council, & largely Answered by the said Six Clerks.
13. Petition of the Under-Clerks of the Six Clerkes Office in Chancery, to the Lord Keeper Coventrie, against the said Six Clerks, their Masters. fol. 197.

2208. A Book in folio, consisting of divers Miscellaneous Tracts, now Bound-up together. They are,
VOL. II.

Num. 2208.

1. Count Arundells Apologie: as beinge restrained for acceptinge the Honor of Comes Imperij, without the Queens Leave, in Reward of his noble Service done, in Ayde of the Emperor against the Turke. Wherein are expressed the cheife Priviledges belonginge vnto the same Honor; and his Reasons for acceptinge the same. fol. 1.
2. A booke of Instructions for Mr. Henry Anderson Alderman of London, Sheriue of the Poultry-Compter, in 43 & 44th yeares of Qu. Elizabeth. A. D. 1601. fol. 9.
3. A Breife of what was deliuered by Don Francesco de Castro Extraordinary Embassador of the Catholicke Kinge; in the first Audience he had from the Doge of Venice. fol. 17.
4. The Answere of the Duke of Venice, to the Embassage of D. Francesco di Castro. fol. 18.
5. A Letter written by Cardinal Peron i April, 1697. to the Kinge of France; wherein he doth recount all the Occurrences of Cardinal Gioiosa, concerninge the Agreements betwene Pope Paulus v. & the State of Venis. fol. 20. b.
6. A Comparifon of the Answares made by the Kinges of France & Spaine to the Pope, upon the Advertifement of his Excommunicating the Venetians. fol. 33.
7. A Discourse vpon the forcible Reasons which might incite the Catholicke Kinge rather to the Enterprife of Englande, then that of Flanders. fol. 37.
These 5 last Tracts were Translated out of Italian by John? Bowyer Esq;
8. The Fourme & Manner of Keeping the Parliament in Englund. fol. 58. (Is this Hookers?) Then follow, the Arguments upon the Arguments of Term. Mich. 3 Caroli, at the Kings Bench-Barre, concerning the Lands. & Liberties of the Subject. fol. 64. vizt.
9. Sir Dudley Digges his Introduction. fol. 65.
10. Mr. Selden his Arguments; which, by Command of the House of Commons, was made (at their first Conference with the Lords) touching the Libertie of the Person of euery Freeman: out of Presidents of Records, & Resolutions of Judges in former tymes. fol. 68.
11. Mr. Littletons Speech. fol. 94.
12. The Objections of the Kings Counsell (i. e. Robert Heath, then Attorney General, &c.) with the Answere thereunto, at the two Conferences, touchinge the same Matter. fol. 109.
13. Sir Edward Cooke his Speech; reported by the Bishop of Lincolne, 9 Aprilis. fol. 116. b.
14. The Substance of Mr. Attorney Generalls Objections, made before a Committee of both Houses, at the Argument that was made by the House of Commons, at the first Conference with the Lords; out of the Presidents of Records, & Resolutions of Judges in former Tymes; touching the Libertie of the Person of every Freeman: and the Answers & Replies then presently made by the House of Commons to those Objections. fol. 128. b.
15. The Protestation of the Commons assembled in Parliament, anno 1 Jacobi 1. die Mercurij 29 Junij, 1604. in an Humble Address to his Majesty, touching their Rights & Privileges. fol. 156.
This Copie seems more to be regarded than some others that I have seen; not only for its Correctness, but for its large Initial Letter, a Text-M. which (I suppose) was cutt in Wood & Stamped upon the paper, purposely to distinguish such Copies as might be demed Authentic, from others transcribed by ignorants or Enemies.

16. An English Treatise De Sepultura. fol. 167.
17. Instructions to be kept by the Land-Captaynes, as by the Captaynes that have Charg of Shipping: by Don Martin de Padilla, Captayn General of the Gallies of Spaigne, & of the Navy Royall, & of the Catholique Kings Armie, in this Expedition, Dated, in the Groyn, 1 October, 1597. fol. 185.
18. A Recital of the Cælestiall Apparitions of this present Trigon, now in being: vizt. A. D. 1619. fol. 192.
Here the Author, who seems to be a German Calvinist, describes, Astronomically, the Appearance of the new Star, A. D. 1604. together with the several Comets which appeared afterward, to that great one in A. D. 1618. The Signification of all which he largely describes as an Astrologer; and venting his Notions & Wishes as Certainties and Prophecies from God: he stands guilty of many falsities; and these his idle Dreams are now worthy of no more Regard than to be heeded as Landmarks, & cautions to deterre others from attempting to sett themselves up as privy to the secret Councils of the most High.
19. A Relation of the carriage of the Marriages that should have been made, between the Prince of England & Anna the Infanta Major of Spayne: and alsoe after, with the younger Infanta; by Sr. Charles Cornewallis. fol. 211.
The Prince of England here mentioned, was Prince Henry; & the Time when these Matters were on foot, was in, and about, the Year 1611.
20. A Discourse of Mr. John Selden, to the Lord Keeper Sr. Francis Bacon, of the auntient Mention, Conjunction, or Division of the two greate Offices of Chauncellour, & Keeper of the Greate Seale of England, written in anno, 1617. fol. 228.

2209. Codex chartaceus in folio, quo continentur, festinante calamo scriptæ
Notulæ de quibusdam antiquis Nominibus & Familijs, seriatim collectæ ex Recordis Scaccarij Dni Regis ex parte Rememoratoris Regis remanentibus; incipiendo cum Henrico Tertio, et sic ordinatim procedendo, per totum fere Regnum R. Edwardi 1.

2210. A Book in folio, consisting of several Traets, mostly Heraldical, written by different Hands, & now Bound together; being,
 1. The Appointment of Attendants & Horses for the King (Henry VIII.) & the Queene (Katherine of Spain) to Canterbury, & so to Callais & Guisnes; to the Meeting of the French King. fol. 1.
 2. Ordenances for all Officers of the Household of K. Henry VII. as it seemes. fol. 5.
 3. A Callender of the Rowle of the Barrons; as it was delyuered my Lord Stafford, by Mr. Swallow of the Exchequer. fol. 23.
This is of the Hand of Thomas Knight Chester-Herald, & seemes to relate to their Lands, which had reverted to the Crown.
 4. List of the several Honors in England; as they appere in the Booke of Offices, down to ann. 14 Rich. II. Copied by the same Thomas Knight. fol. 25.

Num. 2210. — 2211.

5. The Names of Barronyes, & of their Owners, from the Reign of K. Henry III. to that of K. Richard II. both inclusive. fol. 26.
This is also written by the same Thomas Knight.
6. Imperfect Catalogue of our English Earles, & of the Times of their Creation: sett down (perhaps, from Cookes Baronage) according to their Titles, successively. fol. 30.
7. Escoccheons for the Armes of the English Nobility, temp. R. Eliz. divided according to their several Quarterings, & filled-up by William Smith Rouge Dragon, with the Names of those Families whose Armes each of them Quartered; the Armes themselves being omitted. fol. 57.
8. A Table of the English Nobility; wherein (by several Columns) are shewn, their Titles or Dignities; their Surnames & Times of Creation; their Vicounties or Baronies; Armes; Crests; Supporters; & Mottoes. fol. 66.
The last of the Barons, is the Lord Cottington, Created, 7 July, 1631.
9. Armes of many old English Knights, hastily tricked (perhaps by Robert Glover Somerset-Herald) fol. 73.
10. Armes of King Edward I. of his Nobility, & Knights; hastily tricked by Tho. Knight, Chester. fol. 81.
Many of these follow one another in the same Order, as in the last Article.
11. Armes of old English Knights hastily Tricked from the booke of Mr. Doctor Carew, by the same Tho. Knight. fol. 85.
12. Armes of the Knights of every Shire in England; in the tyme of K. Edward the First; hastily Tricked by Thom. Knight. fol. 87.
13. Armes with, and without Crests, of English Gentry, mixed; Tricked within Printed Escoccheons, sixteen in a Page: as also, Crests without Armes, tricked upon like Escoccheons; by some Painter. fol. 110.
14. Atchievements of some few English Nobility, hastily Tricked by Jacob Chaloner. fol. 141.
15. An Imperfect Treatise of the Institution & Rudiments of Armory. fol. 148.
It seems, the Author designed this for the Press.
16. Armes in Blason of Cokesey, & Huddington, with their Quarterings. fol. 191.
17. Stemma Comitum, ac Ducum Geldriæ. fol. 191. b.
18. An Heraldical Fragment entituled Napolemachia, seeming to have been written by the Hand of Sir Richard St. George Garter. It shews the Descent of the Kings of Naples & Sicily. fol. 192.
19. Armes of West Lord La Ware; Descent & Armes of Tanner of Cornwall; Descendants from John Jeffon of Darentre, in Com. Northampt. Armes of Kemp, with Quarterings & Crest. Armes of Spyer of Huntercombe in Oxfordshire, & his Matches. fol. 194. b.
2211. A thin Book in fol. relating to the Free-Schole at Harrow on the Hill, and to the Hospitall of St. Katherine near the Tower: as containing,
 1. A Receipt given for two Deeds delivered to Audrey Linsey, Executrix to her Brother Mr. Will. Greenhill, 31 May, 1680. fol. 2.
 2. Petition of Leonard Stockdale to the Parliament, (in the Rebellious times, I suppose:) praying, that the Governors of the Lands belonging to the Free-Schoole at Harrow on the Hill,

Num. 2211. — 2213.

- Founded by John Lyon deceased might be called to an Accompt, as to their Administration. fol. 4.
3. Litteræ Patentēs Elizabethæ Reginae, quibus Licentiam concedit Johanni Lyon de Preston infra Parochiam de Harrowe super Montem in Com. Midd. Yeoman, quendam Scholam Grammaticalem de uno Pædagogo, & Sub-Pædagogo, infra Villam de Harrowe, de Novo Erigendi, pro perpetua Educatione Puerorum & Juvenum Prædictæ Parochiæ; ac duos Scholares infra Universitatem Cantabr. nec non duos Scholares infra Universitatem Oxon. liberaliter dotandi et manutenendi; certâq; Vias Communes tam inter Edgeware & London, quam in alijs Locis, reparandi et emendandi, &c. Teste, &c. 19 die Februarij, anno Regni 14. fol. 6.
This is also translated into English.
4. Orders & Rules made the 18th of January, ann. 33 Eliz. by the above-mentioned John Lyon, to be observed by the Governors of his Lands, &c. given in Charity. fol. 15.
5. Decree of the Lord Chancellor Ellesmere, upon a Bill of Complaint exhibited by Sir Henry Hobart Attorney General, against the Governors of the Lands & Possessions of John Lion: whereby the said Governors were ordered & adjudged to repair the High-Ways between Edgeware & London, & Harrow on the Hill & London; Made, 23 April ann. 9 R. Jacobi I. fol. 23.
In the said Bill was likewise a Complaint against All Souls College Lord of the Manor of Kingbury in Com. Midd. or some other who occupied there a Close called Cogdale-Close, left by William Mulberry, towards amending the High Way from Bushye-Heath in Com. Midd. to London: But no further mention is made of it in this Decree.
6. A Rental of the Lands belonging to the Free Schole at Harrowe. fol. 33.
7. Form of the Commission given by the Governors of John Lyons Lands, to William Grey Merchant-Taylor and John Lyon of London, Gent. whom they appointed Surveyors of the same. Dat. 21 April, 1659. fol. 33. b.
8. A Catalogue of the Books (with their Valuation) belonging to somebody in whose Hands this was, the 18th of November, A. D. 1657. fol. 34.
Then follows,
9. Letters Patents of Queen Elizabeth; wherein, by Inspeximus, are recited those of K. Henry VI. concerning the Liberties & Privileges which He granted to the Hospital or Free-Chapell of St. Katherine near the Tower of London, at the Instance of the then Warden or Master Thomas Bekyn-ton Doctor of Laws, & his Secretary; as afterward, Bishop of Bath & Wells: it being Founded by K. Henry III. & Eleanor his Queen. fol. 35.
It ends abruptly; I suppose through the Transcribers Laziness; or because his wretched Ignorance was discovered.
2212. An Heraldical Book in folio, wherein is contained, One Volume of an Ordinary of Armes Tricked with- in Printed Escocheons, 20 in a Page.
Note, the greatest part of the Names of those Persons or Families who bore these Armes not being sett down, this Collection is not of that Use that it might have been.
2213. A thin Heraldical Book in folio, which seems to have been copied by Sir William Dethick Garter; & contains, the following Collections of antient

Num. 2213. — 2216.

- English Armes; all Blasoned in French; & Tricked, or intended to be Tricked in the Margins.*
1. Armes of K. Edward I. his Nobility, & of the Bannerets. fol. 1. as marked with black Lead.
2. Armes of English Knights, according to the several Counties wherein they resided, in his Time. fol. 3. b.
3. Ces sont les Noms & les Armes abatues des grants Seigneurs. fol. 22.
4. Armes des Seigneurs & Chevaliers à la Tournay aupres la Ville de Dunstaple, l'an 16 du Roy Edward III. fol. 24.
5. Armes de la Retenuance du Conte de Lancastre, dans la France. fol. 25. b.
6. Les Noms & les Armes des Seigneurs & Nobles Hommes qui estoient aveque le Roy Edward I. à la Seige de Karlaverock en Escocce; l'an de Grace, 1300. fol. 28.
7. Armes of many old English Knights found in a piece of an old Rolle, sette in the old Book of Armes. fol. 29. b.
8. Tables to the Armes abovementioned. fol. 31.
2214. An Heraldical Book in folio; Written & Tricked by several Hands: wherein I find,
1. A Collection of English Armes, Mixed; four in a page. fol. 1.
2. Another Collection of Armes, Mixed; nine in a page. fol. 187.
As to these Armes, I know not well what to say. Some of them seem to have been taken from Visitation-books of Counties, & others from Grants of the Kings of Armes: but here they are; and, some of them such as, perhaps, may not easily be found else-where.
3. Part of an Alphabetical Table to these Armes; ending after the Letter E. fol. 255. b.
This Table should be completed; & others Made or Finished, for other good Heraldical MSS. in this noble Library; but then, by reason of the barbarous Spelling used by Apprentices & other Ignorant Persons, who have been sett upon works of this kind, which require much Experience, Care, & Accuracy; they ought all, (beforehand) to be over-looked, & corrected with Judgement.
4. Some few Medicines; as for the Cure of Weakness in the Back; To keep the Conduit safe, &c. at the beginning: which I think scarcely worthy of mention.
2215. A thin Heraldical Book in folio; wherein I find,
1. An Alphabetical Table to the following Tract.
2. Armes of the Kentish Gentry hastily Tricked; perhaps most of them at the Visitation of this County, A. D. 1619. &c. By the Crosses made at very many of the Escocheons, with Red or Black Chalk; it may seem that they have, from hence, been ENTERED into some other Book.
2216. A Book in folio, written (as I suppose) by some young Practitioner in Doctors Commons; & giving
1. Formes of many Instruments made, upon emergent Occasions; chiefly in the Courts of Dr. Gilbert Sheldon Archbishop of Canterbury, & of Henry Compton late Bishop of London.
It would not have been troublesome for me to have putt down some of the more Remarkable Cases at sufficient Length: but when I considered that the Collector, who amassed these Proceedings together, looked not upon them as an Historian, but intended only to make use of them occasionally as Precedents, & hath therefore, almost wholly omitted the Names of Persons & Places; or only mentioned them by their Initial Letters: I thought it better to omitt them; especially since there is

2. A Table of the Contents of this Book; at the End.

2217. A Book in folio, consisting of many Traëts & single Papers now Bound up together. They all relate to Parliamentary affairs; particularly to those transacted in the years, 1627 & 1628. and are,

1. The Kings Speech the first day of the Parliament, A. D. 1627. fol. 1.
2. The Lord Keepers Speeche for Explanation of the Kings Speeche, the first day of the Parliament; viz. 19 Martij, A. D. 1627-8. fol. 2.
3. The Speakers Speech to His Majesty, upon his Election. fol. 1. A.
4. The Kings answer to the Speaker, by the Lord Keeper; 19 March, 1627. fol. 4.
5. The Lord Keepers Reply to the Speaker. ibid.
6. The Parliaments Petition to the King for a Fast. fol. 6.
7. Their Petition to the King against Papists. fol. 7.
8. The Heads of his Majesties Answer. fol. 8.

2224. A Book in folio, written by divers Hands; that is, either by the Command, or by the Hand of John Robarts Earl of Radnor, Lord Privy Seal, &c. wherein are contained, Transcripts or Extracts of the moſt Material or Curious Paſſages Entred into the Journal of the Houſe of Lords, ſitting at London during the Civil War; from the 9th of December, 1643. to the 22d of February, 1645. both incluſive: ending abruptly in the Treaty of Uxbridge. Theſe Materials are not taken juſt as they lay in the Journal, but are putt ſomewhat regularly together; and his Lordſhip hath often added his own Notes or Observations; which, perhaps may be met with no where elſe. That this Collection was not made by his Lordſhips Father Richard Robarts Baron of Truro, who ſided with the Parliament (& from whom to them is a Letter, at fol. 66. b.) appears by the Lord Privy Seals Hand (which is well known in this Library) appearing in many places of this Book: but that it was done after the Reſtauration, is manifeſt from what follows, which I read in fol. 32. "Earl Northumberland, who "was the great Inſtrument of the New Model, & compli'd wholly with the Independent party, about this Time: and who, "very Honorably, after the ſaid Houſe of Peers was ſhutt-up with a Padlock, by the "Republicans; & when the Lord Robarts "was ſent-for out of Cornwall, by Meſſengers "from Them, and by that Power was confined to the County of Eſſex: the ſaid Earl "of Northumberland did (in open Terms) at "the Chancery-bar, voluntarily come & take "the Commonwealth-Engagement, in the "Sight of all the People, viz. I will be true " & faithfull to the Commonwealth of England, without a King & Houſe of Lords. "Yet, upon the Reſtitution of his Maſteſty, "this Earle was made a Privy Councellour, " & Lord Lieutenant of the Countys of Suſſex & Northumberland; whether for thoſe "honorable Atchievements, or for what other "Caule, men may inquire".

2228. A Book in folio, being an antient Copy of a Treatise thus entituled,

The Monarchie of Man: a Treatise Philosophicall & Morall; wherein some Questions of the Politicks are obviously discust; by Sir John Elliot K^t. Prisoner in the Tower.

This Gentleman not having his ambitious Demands gratified to the full, turned to be a most bitter & implacable Enemy to his Sovereign K. Charles 1. against whom this work seems to be most especially written. Thus, in his Paragraph (pag. 31.) Whether Lawes have an Influence upon Princes?

he says it is a "Question involved in Difficulties,

"as lying within that Misterie, the Prerogative of Kings: Which is a Point so tender,

"as it will hardly bear a mention. We may "not therefore handle it with any Roughnesse,

"least it reflect some new Beame of Terrour

"on our Selves; but with what Caution we "may, yet without prejudice to Trueth—safe"ly render the Opinion which we have, with"out Suspect of Flattery. And in the next

"(which wee shall joine together, makeing

"but one joynt subject of this question) the "Discussion will be easier, if we turn our

"Disquisition, & thus state it; What Power

"the King has upon them? Wherein there is "such a Confluence of Flatterie, conducing

"to our Prejudice; such Labour to make a

"Monarchie unlimited, an Absoluteness of "Government without Rule; soe much Affection, or Corruption rather, specified; such

"Distorsion & Perversion of Authorities

"to that End; Learning made prostitute to

"Fallacie; Religion turn'd to Pollicie; Heaven brought down to Earth; Light trans-

"form'd to darknes; as to attempt against it "is now to Row against the Tide, against the

"Streame and Current of these Tymes to seeke

"a Passage vnto Trueth." I omit what is written further, in pag. 38. &c.

This Sir John Elliot, as I have heard, in Confederacy with St. Henry Vane, Mr. Hamden, Mr. Pym, & another; out of private Malice & Revenge, did contrive the Civil War before the Calling of that Long Parliament; and by the Concurrency of Men as desperately wicked as themselves, gained their Point.

2229. An Heraldical Book in folio, written & Tricked by some old Painter-Stainer, in the Reign of K. James 1. wherein is contained,

1. A numerous Collection of Armes (with many of their Crests) borne by our Nobles & Gentry of England & Wales, putt down promiscuously.

It may be noted, that although the Collectors Design was to amass together a great Number of Armes, as he could come by them, without any Order: yet he that will look into this Book will easily find some of them disposed together according to their Charges, as by way of Ordinary, others putt together whose Owners Names begin with the same Letter, as an Alphabet; Others, borne by persons of the same, or a like Name; & others borne by those who lived together in the same Community.

Num. 2229. — 2230.

- Community. Of this last kind, an Instance may be seen in fol. 35. where you have the Armes of Mr. Camden, Ralf Broke or Brokesmouth, & of several other Officers then living.
2. At the Beginning & End is an Alphabetical Table to the Armes abovementioned, but imperfect; for the first Letter A is wanting.
230. An Heraldical book in folio, consisting of many little Tracts now Bound together in the following Order.
1. Armes of Buckinghamshire Families, taken out of an old Visitation. fol. 1.
 2. Armes, with some Descents, taken from the Visitation of this County. A. D. 1634. fol. 2.
 3. Armes, with some Descents, taken from the Visitation of Cambridgeshire. A. D. 1619. fol. 10.
 4. Armes of Cheshire-Families Etched in Copper Plates; perhaps by Daniel King. fol. 18.
Note, the first Leaf being wanting, those Armes are supplied by Pen & Ink.
 5. Many Cheshire-Armes, with some Descents, from the Visitation of A. D. 1580. fol. 28.
 6. Armes of the Cornish Families. fol. 36.
 7. Armes of Derbyshire Families taken from the Visitations of A. D. 1569. & 1663. fol. 46.
 8. Armes, with some Descents, of Devonshire-Families, taken from the Visitation of A. D. 1564. fol. 54. & 65.
 9. More Devonshire-Armes & Descents, taken from another Book. fol. 59.
 10. Armes of Dorsetshire Families, with some Descents, taken (as this Collector, Mr. Kimbell the Armes Painter, or whosoever he was, says) from the Visitation of this County, made by Robert Trefwell Blew Mantell: He should have said, by Henry St. George Richmond, & Sampson Leonard Blue-mantell: i. e. A. D. 1623. fol. 70.
 11. Armes, with some Descents Entred Narratively (as all those above-mentioned are) of the Gentry inhabiting within the County of Durham, as they were Registred at the Visitation thereof, taken A. D. 1615. fol. 79. Herein I find.
 12. A Note of such Persons (i. e. a List of their Names) as were Disclaymed at that Visitation. fol. 88.
 13. Armes of Ralph Carr Gent. as they were Entred at New-castle upon Tyne, 25 August, 1666. in the Visitation of the County of Northumberland, by William Dugdale Norroy. fol. 91.
 14. Armes of Gloucestershire Families (with some Descents) as they were Entred at the Visitation of this County taken A. D. 1569. fol. 92.
 15. Armes, with some Descents, of Hampshire Families, as they were Registred at the Visitation of this County, taken A. D. 1575. fol. 103.
 16. Armes, with some Descents, of Herefordshire-Families; seeming to have been extracted from the Visitation-book of this County, as the same was taken A. D. 1634. fol. 110.
 17. Armes & Descents of Kentish Families, seeming to be chiefly taken from the Visitation of A. D. 1619. yet some are continued to A. D. 1663. when another Visitation was begun by S. Edw. Byshe. Clarenc^r. fol. 122.
 18. Fragment of an Alphabet of Kentish Armes in Trick. fol. 139. b.
 19. Fragment of an Alphabet of Kentish Armes in Blason; by another Hand. fol. 140.

Num. 2230. — 2231.

20. Armes, with some Descents, extracted from a Visitation of London; perhaps that of A. D. 1633. fol. 146.
 21. Armes, with Descents of Norfolk Families said to be extracted from a Visitation of this County taken A. D. 1594. when Dr. Parkhurst was (as the Writer thought) Bishop of Norwich. fol. 154. This is but random-Talk. I do not find that there was any Visitation of this County, in A. D. 1594. As for Br. Parkhurst, he died long before; namely in A. D. 1575; but was Bishop of that Diocese, when Clarencieux Hervey Visited this County. Probably therefore the Visitation meant, might be that taken in or about the Year 1589. by Robert Cooke Clarencieux.
 22. Armes of Norfolk Families taken from an old Book concerning that County. fol. 167.
 23. Armes of Northamptonshire Families, Copied A. D. 1621. probably, from the Visitation made by Augustin Vincent Rouge Rose, A. D. 1618. fol. 169. 183.
 24. Alphabet in Blason of Northamptonshire Families; copied from a book written by Mr. Gough the Painter-Stayner. fol. 177. b.
 25. Armes of some old Families residing in that County; taken out of an old Visitation of Com. Northampton. fol. 187.
 26. Armes, with some Descents, of Somersetshire Families; from that Counties Visitation, taken A. D. 1573. fol. 188.
 27. Armes taken from an old Visitation of Suffolk. fol. 197.
 28. Armes, with some Descents, extracted from the Visitation of Suffolk, taken A. D. 1561. fol. 196. 198.
 29. Armes, with some Descents, extracted from the Visitation of Warwickshire, made A. D. 1619. fol. 207.
 30. Armes, with Descents, extracted from the Visitation of Wiltshire, made A. D. 1565. and, perhaps augmented from that of A. D. 1623. fol. 220.
 31. Armes of Wiltshire Families, Tricked within printed Escocheons. fol. 231.
 32. Armes, with some Descents, of Worcestershire Families; taken from the Visitation-book of A. D. 1569. fol. 233.
 33. Armes, with some Descents, of Yorkshire Families; extracted from the Visitation-book of that County, made A. D. 1584. & 1585. fol. 239. 258. Herein I likewise find,
 34. Nomina et Arma illorum Equitum de Comitatu Eboracensi, qui cum Rege Edwardo 1. stipendia merebant in Scotia, et alibi. fol. 252.
 35. Armes found in Yorkshire Churches & Houses. fol. 255. b.
It may be observed that the Most part of the Armes & Descents now contained in this Volume, are very hastily Tricked & Sett down, for the Collectors own Use; his Originals being probably borrowed, & soon to be restored.
2231. A thin book in folio; wherein I find a Treatise thus entituled,
A learned Treatise concerning the severall Tenures in this Kingdome; of the first Creation & Originall of them: as alsoe a Declaration of the Kings Prerogative therein: divided into 11 Chapters, & dedicated to Robert Cecill Earle of Salisbury, & Maister of the Wards, by its Author Robert Hill.

 26. The Kings Resolution declared to both Howses of Parliament, at Whitehall, 23 March, 1623. fol. 31.
Accepting their Grant, and promising that the Money should be laid-out with the Privy of their Committees; in Hope of further Assistance from them.
 27. His Majesties Speech to both Howses; 23 April, 1624. fol. 33. b.
Granting their late Petition against the Growth of Popery, &c.
 28. The Effect of his Majesties Speech, made in the Banqueting-house at White-hall, to the Lords of the upper House of Parliament. fol. 35.
This was in the Behalf of Licnell Cranfield Earle of Midelfex, then Lord Treasurer; who was Impeached by the Commons for Bribery, Extortion, Cheating his Majesty, &c. The King after many kind Expressions concerning him, says, But if by Deceit or Cosenage, to help himselfe, he hath hindred my Estate, he is worse then a Devill: and concludes thus, If an Angell become a Devill, begge I will not for him; I will never meyntheyne a Man in a badd Cause.
 29. Considerations touchinge a Warre with Spaine; This Treatise is in Print, but without the Authors Name, as may be seen in Dr. Hydes Catal. Libb. Bibl. Bodl. under the Title HISPANIA. Mine old Acquaintance Mr. Anthony a'Wood hath not ascribed it to Sr. Henry, yet owns that Sir Henry wrote more things than he accounts for. My Notion of Sir Henries being the Author, proceeds from the Similitude of a few Circumstances, as of His long Experience in State Affairs, & by comparing some Expressions of the 2d Paragraph in pag. 38. with his Letter at the beginning of the Book.
Was this Treatise composed by Sir Henry Wotton? to Charles Prince of Wales. fol. 38.
 30. A Letter to K. James from Francis Philipps Esq; sueing for his Brothers (Sr. Robert Philipps) Libertie out of the Tower. fol. 69.
In this long Letter it is alledged, that Sr. Robert, for retiring himselfe to his poor home in the Countrey, vpon the last recessie of Parliament, was arrested by a Serjt. at Armes; brought up; & by the Lords of the Privy Councill was committed a close Prisoner to the Tower. But it appears also, that Sr. Robert & this Writer had spoken words against his Majesty; & that their Father died in the Kings Displeasure.
 31. An Essay, or Character, of a King. fol. 73.

proceed noe farther with their Suite; which was (in a forte) moved to be reiterated, by a Speech of this Writer W. L.—

Might not this W. L. be William Lambard Recorder of London? The freshest Instance or Precedent given by this Writer, is anno 29 Eliz. when (if I remember rightly) Mr. Lambard was alive.

2. Advice to the Members of the Lower House of Parliament; Directed to the Authors Noble Friends of that House: probably that which Sat in, 1628. fol. 18.

As to the Author of this Treatise, he seemeth in several points to blame the Administration both of King Charles, & of his Father, in several points; and is a professed Enemy to the then Duke of Buckingham; He saith at the Beginning, that he had missed of his Election to that Parliament, although he had served in sundry other Parliaments; that he was no Military Man. fol. 32. b. complains, fol. 43. amongst other things, of Judges being removed: and is resolved to distress the Court, as far as in him lies. Qu. whether this Treatise may be attributed to Sir Edward Coke?

3. A true Relation of everie Daies Proceedings in the Parliament, since the Beginning thereof, beeing the 20th of January, 1628. fol. 47.

Herein is also contained, a Supplication of the Lords Spiritual & Temporal to his Majestie, upon this Point, that divers of the naturall borne Subjects of this Kingdome, where both themselves & their Families do reside; have of late beene Created, some Barons, some Viscounts, & some Earles, within his Kingdomes of Scotland & Ireland; & doe, by reason thereof, Clame as of Right, to take Place & have Precedencie of the Peeres & Nobilltie of England, & their Children, within this Realme. fol. 105.

4. Sir Dudley Diggs his Introduction to the Conference between both Houses upon the Point of the Liberty of the Person of the Subject. fol. 131.

5. The Speech and Argument of Mr. John Selden, before a Committee of both Houses, at the first Conference with the Lords, out of Presidents of Records, & Resolutions of Judges, in former tymes; touchinge the Libertie of the Person of euerie Freeman. fol. 133. b.

6. The Substance of the Objections made by Mr. Attorney Generall, before a Committee of both Houses, to that Argument; and the Answeres & Replies then presently made by the House of Commons to those Objections. fol. 159.

7. The whole Copies of the Presidents of Records mentioned in one of the Arguments (Mr. Seldens?) made at the first Conference with the Lords, touching the Liberties of the Person. fol. 182. b.

8. The second Booke of Records alledged upon that Occasion. fol. 195.

9. The third Booke of like Records. fol. 200.

10. Mr. Littleton his Argument, before the Lords. fol. 209.

11. The Objections of the Kings Counsell against the Declaration of the Commons; and the Answer therevnto, by Mr. Littleton, the 16 of May, 1628. fol. 222.

12. My Lord Cooke (Sir Edward Coke's) Speech or Argument, 30 Aprilis, 4to Caroli Regis. fol. 239.

Num. 2234 — 2235.

13. The Information of Sir Robert Heath Attorney Generall, against Sir John Elliot, Mr. Denfill Hollis, & others. fol. 245.

14. Concio, 29 Maij, 1629. 5to Caroli Regis. fol. 255. b.

This is an Order of the two Chief Justices for Mr. Attorneys Amendment of his Information, by adding a short Clause unto it; communicating the same to the Council of the Defendants; and about their Lordships declaring their Opinion, upon the whole matter.

15. The Plea & Demurrer of John Selden Esq; one of the Defendants, to the Information of Sr. Robert Heath Knight, His Majesties Attorney Generall. fol. 257. b.

16. The Addition of John Selden, Esq; one of the Defendants to the said Information; as to the said Information altered or amended by the said Attorney general, accordinge to an Order of the Courte the 29th May, 5to Caroli Regis. fol. 274.

Robertum de Veer Ducem Hibernie, Michaellem de la Pole Comitem Suffolcie, Robertum Trefilian & Nicolaum Brembre Milites: ex Rotulo Claus. de anno 11 ejusdem Regis, m. 12. dorso: attested by Mr. Collett abovementioned. fol. 131.*
2236. A Book in folio, consisting mostly of blank Paper; but wherein are contained,
 1. A Letter from K. Charles II. to the then Duke of York his Brother: Dat. 28 Febr. 1678-9. fol. 1.
Desiring him to absent Himself for some tyme beyond Sea.
 2. A Journal of the Commons House of Parliament, or an Abstract from it, from its Meeting the 7th of March, A. D. 1678-9. to the Prorogation thereof on the 27th of May, 1679. fol. 2.
I suppose this to have been written only for private Use.
2237. A Book in folio, hastily written in a bad Hand; wherein are contained,
Extracts from the Journals of the House of Peers, from the second of May, 1648. to the Sixth of February, 1648-9.
Whether the Original Journal be yet remaining, I know not: but I percieve that herein is an account of the Treaty made with the King at Newport in the Isle of Wight, which I believe hath never yet been published: besides many other remarkable Matters.
This Book seems to have been written for the use of John Robarts Earl of Radnor, & Lord Privy Seal to K. Charles II. which Noble Lord hath putt down certain Notes therein, especially at the End, with his own Hand.
2238. A Book in folio, for the greatest part, written by him who wrote most of that last described; & containing,
 VOL. II.

Num. 2238. — 2241.

- Extracts from the Journal of the Lords House of Parliament from the 10th of July, 1646. to the 25th (or 28th) of April, A. D. 1648. both inclusive. This Book likewise belonged to the above-mentioned Earl of Radnor Lord Privy Seal; and gives sundry private Remarks & Observations; especially those relating to, & in Vindication of his Father the Lord Robarts, written & inserted by several Hands: some of them (as it seems to me) by the Father, as others by the Son.*
2239. Codex chartaceus in folio, diversis manibus scriptus; in quo continentur, Irrotulationes Actorum in Visibus Franci Plegij & Curie Baronis apud Ely Barton, à sexto die Aprilis, A. D. 1619. usque ad secundum diem Octobris, A. D. 1637. nempe temporibus Nicolai Felton, Johannis Buckeridge, & Francisci White, Episcoporum Eliensium.
2240. A thin Book in folio; wherein I find,
 1. The Names of Noble-men, having Estates within the County of Essex. fol. 1. b.
 2. Nomina Justiciariorum Pacis in Comitatu Essexiæ, circa A. D. 1633. fol. 2.
 3. Nomina Ballivorum Hundredorum & Liberatum infra Comitatum prædictum. fol. 3.
 4. Nomina Hundredorum infra Comitatum prædictum. fol. 5.
 5. The Names of the Free-holders, at that Time, within the several Towns, Villages, & Hamlets belonging to the said Hundreds; upon whose Lands Issues might be Levied. fol. 6.
This is the Original Book, & hath received the proper Alterations & Amendments.
2241. Another thin Book in folio; wherein are contained,
 1. An account of the Induction of Peregrin Bartye Lord Willoughby of Eresbye, for the taking of his Place in the Upper House of Parliament, the 16th daye of Januarye, A. D. 1580. fol. 1.
 2. The Title of Richard Bartye Esq; (father to the Lord Peregrin above-mentioned) to the Stile of Lord Willughby of Willughbye and of Eresbye, in the right of the Lady Katherin Duchess of Suffolk, his Wife; debated before the Commissioners by Her Majestie appointed to hear the same. fol. 1. b.
Then follows, There is alsoe, in the End, added a Resolution of certain Questions; although none of them were objected before the Commissioners.
Alsoe, it is not to be conceived that every thing was so amply recited as here sett downe; but onely the most material Arguments. (fol. 22. b.) being Answers to the Lord Latimers Reasons.
It is not to be wondred-at that Mr. Bartie was so modest as not to make the most of his Cause, if what I find fol. 22. b. was true: viz. — for the cause why he desired an Hearing of his Right & Interest was specially, To deliuer Her Majestie from Error, that Shee (by wrong Information had conceived) that there was noe such Right: and partely to conferue the Right to his Sonne (whom he opposed) and to averre the Clayme, though He vsed not the Stile of Dignitie.
However he concludes thus, — there is therefore noething left to impugne it, but Wilfulness,

CATALOGVS LIBRORVM MSS.

Num. 2241. — 2242.

Malice, or Ignorance; and to them (because, in their nature, they are all infamous) I take Excepcion, and soe this may suffice for this matter.

2242. A Book in folio written by the Hand of Mr. John Bowyer the Elder; and containing the following Pieces translated by himself: viz.

1. The Historie of the unhappie Successe of Philippa a Woman of Catanea, cheife Governesse of Naples; translated (as it seems) from the French Edition of P. Matthieu: And corrected by another Hand. fol. 1.

This Matthieu owns that the Story is taken from the End of Boccas de Casibus Virorum illustrium, who received the former part of it from two credible persons, & was himself a witness of the Catastrophe of her Tragedy.

Matthieu further intimates, that he had seen an old French Manuscript of this part of Boccas Works. On this Occasion, I take leave to add that in this noble Library, the said Work appears not only in Latin, (which hath been printed several times) but also in old French; as likewise in old English, being translated from the French, by Dan John Lidgate Monk of Bury-St. Edmund, by the Command of Humfrey Duke of Gloucester, into old English Verse, which Translation I do not remember that I have hitherto seen in Print. Lidgate calls this wretched Woman Phylipot. This Story as related by P. Matthieu, has lost nothing by him, being vastly longer than it is in Boccace; and enlarged from other Books, besides his own Notes.

2. The Catholicke Statfman; or else, a Politicall Discourse of the Confederacies of the moste Christian Kinge, againste the forged accusations of the enimies to his State. Dedicated to the Kinge by the Lorde of Ferrier. In Parigi. fol. 27.

3. A Treatise of the Usurpation of the King of Spaine over the Croune of France, since the Raigne of King Charles the 8th. With a Discours of the begining, continuing, declininge, & lessning of the Monarchie of France; the Reasons & Pretenses the Christian King hath to the Right of the Empier: by Christopher Balthazard. 1605. fol. 100.

This Translation Mr. Bowyer inscribes To his moste worthy and best approved Nephew Sir Richard Anderson Knight.

4. The Meetinge, in traueling into the othere World, of Monfigr. Ludouico Seruino Attornie Generall to the Christian Kinge Henry 4th, and of Padre Pietro Cottone a Jesuite. 1626. fol. 128.

5. A Discourse of Father Giouanni Mariana a Jesuit of Spaine, concerning the greate Errors which be in the Jesuits Forme of Gouverment. Translated out of Spanish into French, and out of French into Italian. Printed at Bordeaux, 1625. fol. 134.

6. Of the Soueraigne Giurisdiction of Kings over the Gouverment of the Church; against certaine poynts helde by the Bishope of Angiers; in the Controuerfie between him & the Conuocation-house of the Cathedrall Church. fol. 174.

7. A most humble Remonstrance made by the Jesuits to the Christian Kinge & his Counsell. fol. 252.

Num. 2242. — 2243.

This is Subscribed by P. Cotton; and is written against the University of Paris, which had long and loudly declaimed against the Jesuitical Doctrines.

8. The Answer of the Rectors, Deacons, & Scolers of the Vniuersity of Paris, to that Remonstrance. fol. 253.

9. Abridgment of the Relation of the State of the Greate Duke of Toscanie, as it stood in the Time of Cosimo the Secoünd, the 20th of Aprill, 1622. fol. 254.

Much blank Paper remains at the End.

2243. A Book in folio, loosely written by the Direction or Influence, or by the Hand of John Robarts Earl of Radnor, sometime Lord Privy Seal; seeming to contain many of his Notes & Observations upon the Rules, Usages & Customes of our English Parliaments; among which, I shall briefly mention these which follow.

1. Of the Original of Parliaments. fol. 1.

2. The Number of the Temporal Peers. fol. 2.

3. That the Commons did not antiently Sitt together with the Lords. fol. 2. b.

4. That the Commons antiently had a Speaker. fol. 3.

5. The Numbers of the Lords Spiritual & Temporal, Summoned to Parliament, from ann. 49 Hen. tertij, to ann. 22 Edw. tertij. fol. 6.

6. Precedent of a Free Conference demanded by the Commons without any prævious Conference. fol. 10.

7. About application to the Crown by the Lords, Whether certain Bills (wherein the Prerogative was concerned) should be Read. fol. 11.

8. That the Speaker of the Commons, for Sickness, hath been Removed. fol. 12.

9. Of making of Lawes in Parliament. fol. 13.

10. Whether the Kings Assent be necessary to all Capital Judgements given in Parliament by the Lords, either before the Judgement be given, or after? fol. 16.

11. Concerning Freedome of Speech. fol. 18 & 21.

12. Of going away from the Parliament, without Leave. fol. 20. b.

13. The Difference betweene an Ordinance of Parlemt, & a Statute. fol. 22.

14. Concerning Adjournment of the House. fol. 25.

15. Of the Lords receiuing a Message from the Commons. fol. 26.

16. That Matters of Parlemt ought to be discussed by the Law & Course of Parlemt. fol. 27.

17. Touching Procuratores Cleri. fol. 29.

18. Whither the King bee an Estate, or Heade of the 3 Estates, without being an Estate? fol. 30.

19. That Peers of the Upper House, are not bound to Answer in the Commons House of Parliament. fol. 32.

20. Of the Arraignment & Condemnation of George Duke of Clarence, in full Parliament; anno 18 Regis Edwardi iv. of which, noe Memoriall is to be found, in the Records of Parliament. fol. 36.

It is added, But this way of Proceedinge, it seems displeased the Commons, in that the King should inforce either Article or Testimony against the Delinquent, in a Capitall Cause.

Num. 2243. — 2246.

21. Whether the Lords in Parliament, can giue power to any Committee or Referees, to Examine Wittnesſes upon Oath? fol. 37.

22. For what Cauſes a Peere of this Realme may be imprifoned, dureing the Sittinge of Parliament. fol. 39.

This Article containeth the whole Proceedings in the Houſe of Peers, with relation to Thomas Howard Earl of Arundell & Surrey, who was imprifoned by the King for a personal Mifdemeanor.

23. Whether, upon an Impeachment of the Houſe of Commons, of Treafon in Generall, without alleadging any particular Treafon: a Peer ſo Impeached, ought to be Committed? fol. 56.

This is conſidered upon the Lord Chancellor Clarendon's Caſe, who was accuſed by the Commons 11 November, 1667. of High Treafon & High Crimes & Mifdemeanors, in Generall: and here, likewiſe, moſt of the Proceedings in the Lords Houſe againſt His Lordſhip, are particularly related.

24. Whether an Attachment out of the Court of Chancery, can regularly iſſue againſt a Peere of this Realme, for not appearing in Chancery, or for not performing a Decree made there? fol. 70.

This Queſtion is not diſcuſſed; but only Paper left blank, whereupon the Conſideration of it was to be Entered.

25. An Order of the Houſe of Peers, made the 19th of June, 1628, obliging the Muſcovia Company to pay-off their Creditors; and regulating certain of their Affairs, in Order thereunto. fol. 71.

This was occaſioned by a generall Protection granted from the King & Councell to that Company, in reſpect of their being decayed by greate Loſſes, &c.

2244. A very thin Book in ſmall Folio, containing only one Traſt, which is entituled.

Severall Greivances, concerninge Trade, preſented to King James by Sir Robert Heath then Sollicitor Generall, vpon Friday the 28th of May, 1624. in the name of the Lower Houſe of Parliament, in the Banquetting Houſe at White Hall.

2245. A Book in ſmall Folio, written by different Hands; wherein are contained,

1. A ſhorte Viewe of Henry the Third his Life. fol. 1.

The Author was Sir Robert Cotton; & this Copie all along gives his Citations in the Margin.

2. A Letter written by a Mr. of Arte of Cambridge, to his friende in London, &c. fol. 9.

This is the Libell called Leiceſters Commonwealth, commonly aſcribed to Rob. Perſons the Jeſuit.

3. Pia et utilis Meditatio, deſumpta ex libro Jobi, Cap. 20. fol. 60.

4. The ſame in Engliſh. fol. 60. b.

2246. A Book in ſmall folio, containing a Treatiſe about Money-Matters, which bears no Authors name, nor hath any Preface. Whether it be in Print, or whether it may be aſcribed to Gerard Malines, in this my abſence from my Lords noble Library of Printed Books now at Wimpole, I cannot ſay. In Order, therefore, to appriſe His Lordſhip of the Deſign of this Treatiſe, I ſhall haue applyed to reduce & settle those Extremities & Confusions whereunto they were fallen. In which Historye, I shall come to touch some Examples. very moderne——— & concludes the present Treatise thus,——— all which will require a longe & curious Discursion; but I doe leaue it vnto a feacond Breathing.

2247. A Book in folio, written partly upon parchment, & partly upon paper; the number of whose Leaves is all along noted at the bottom, by the hand of Dr. John Covell late Master of Christs College, all whose Manuscripts, not of his own Hand-writing, my noble Lord now living, bought of him many years agoe. Herein is contained a Collection of Homilies or Postills, tam de Tempore quam de Sanctis, for the whole year; which, because they are in English, & seem to have been compiled by or for some Secular Priest, and shew somewhat of the State of Religion here, about the times of K. Edward IV. & K. Henry VII. I will take the more pains with, by describing the same in the manner following.

 44. Constitucio Dⁿi Roberti Wynchelese de Juramento ac Obediencia Rectoribus sive Vicarijs, de illis Capellanis qui in eorum Ecclesijs sive Parochijs celebrant, inpendendis. fol. 94.
2251. A Paper-book in small folio, bought (many years agoe) of Mr. Richard Jones since deceased. It seems to have been written by the hand of one Shirley, and afterward to have come into the Possession of Mr. John Stowe the Historian, & is now imperfect, and otherwise damaged. However, it yet contains a great Collection of Ditties (as they were then called) Ballads, & other Poems of John Lidgate the famous Monk of Bury St. Edmund, and of some few other Authors, in the following Order.
1. A Prayer to our blessed Lord & Savior. fol. 1.
Beginning. O J^hu Crist, kepe our Lyppes from pollucione.
 2. A Prayer, or Application to the blessed Virgin. fol. 1. b.
Beginn. Al hayle, Mary, ful of Grace!
 3. A short Poem upon the Lives of our Kings, from William the Conqueror, to Edward IV. both inclusive. I perceive that Pits will have Lidgate to have died A. D. 1440 ; and indeed, the Stanza relating to K. Henry VI. looks as if it were written in that Kings Prosperity ; but then, here is another Stanza added to it, in favor of K. Edward IV. by the same Hand ; and Pits owns that he did receive information that our Author died A. D. 1482 ; i. e. a little sooner than the King last mentioned.
Beginn. This myghti William Duke of Normandy. fol. 2. b.
 4. Medicinal, Prudential, & Theological Advices. fol. 4. b.
Beginn. For Helthe of Body, & for Colde thyn Hede.
 5. Littera Dompni Johannis Lydgate Monachi Monasterij S^ci Edmundi de Bury, missa ad Ducem Gloucestric in tempore translaconis libri Bochasij, pro oportunitate Pecunie. fol. 6.
Beginn. Right myghty Prince, and it be youre wille.
The Burden of this Ditty, is like this Only for lake of Plate, & of Coyngnage.
 6. Epitaphium ejusdem Ducis Gloucestric. fol. 7.

Num. 2251.

- Beginn. Souerayne, Immortal, Everlastynge Gode.
7. A short Poem, whose Subject may be easily discerned by the Beginning of it. vizt.
Ye devoute peple, whiche kepe one obseruaunce
Mekely in Chirche, to kyffe Stone or Tree,
Erthe or Iren: hathe in remembraunce
What they dothe meane, ande take the Moralitye.
8. Another, upon Stella Celi extirpavit. fol. 9. b.
Beginn. Thow heuenly Quene of Grace, oure
Lode-Sterre.
9. Another, upon Ab inimicis nostris defende nos Criste. fol. 10. b.
Beginn. Moste souerayne Lorde, O blesful Criste Jhesu.
*Herein the King (i. e. Edward iv.) his Quene,
& his Modir, are particularly remembred.*
10. Another, upon this Lemma,
Concilio quisquis eris, qui pacis fidem queris, Consonus esto Lupis, cum quibus esse cupis.
fol. 11. b.
Beginn. In Councelle whatsoeuer thow be.
11. Another, upon Women; whose Burden is like this, Beaute wil shewe, thow Hornes were away. fol. 13. b.
Beginn. Off Gode, & Kynde procedith al
Beaute.
12. Another, in the dispraise of one called Jake Hare; whose Burden is like this, Whiche of a Bolle (i. e. a Bowl or Pitcher) can pluke oute the lynenge. fol. 14.
Beginn. A frowarde Knave, plainly to discryue.
13. A Poem upon the Imperfection of Mans Life; whose Burden is like this, Al Stant on Chaunge, like a Mydsomer Rose. fol. 15.
Beginn. Late no man bofte of Konnynge nor Vertu.
14. A Ditty seeming to be taken from the Canticles; being written partly in Latin, & partly in English. Its Burden is like this, Sonet vox tua in auribus. fol. 17.
Beginn. Rex Salomon summus of Sapience.
15. Another, applyed to the blessed Virgin; whose Burden seems to have been (for the End is wanting) Veni coronaberis. fol. 18.
Beginn. Surge mea Sponsa, so fwete in Sight.
16. The End of a Dite (whose Beginning is wanting, by reason of the loss of a Leaf) seeming to have been a Satire upon the manners of the Times then present; whose Burden is, Conueyede by Lyne, righte as a Rammes horn. fol. 20.
17. Upon Human Nature, that affecteth what is agreable to itself; with a Burden like to this, Thus euery thyng drawithe to his semblable. fol. 20. b.
Beginn. Trete euery Man like as he is disposede.
18. Again, upon the mutable State of Mans Nature; with a Burden like this, How shulde he thanne be Stable in luyng. fol. 23. b.
Beginn. The Worlde so wyde; the Ayre so removable.
19. Upon the inconsistency of many Mens Actions; with this Burden, It may wele Ryme, but it accordithe noughte. fol. 26.
Beginn. Alle thyng in kynde desirith thyng ilike. fol. 26.
20. Against unseasonable Hast; with a Burden like this, He hastithe wele that wisely can abyde. fol. 27. b.

Num. 2251.

- Beginn. The Hasty man failithe neuer Woo.
21. Upon Moderation; with a Burden like this, If it in Mesure be. fol. 28. b.
Beginn. By Witte of Man al thyng that is conceyvide.
22. How unable Mans Understanding is to comprehend the Works of Divine Providence; with this Burden, Hoc factum est a Domino. fol. 30.
Beginn. O Man, thou marreste in thy mynde.
23. A Ditty to the Blessed Virgin; with this kind of Burden, Haile, Flos campi! O Ave, Jesse virgula! fol. 31. b.
Beginn. Haile, bliffede Lady, the Moder of Criste Jhesu.
24. Upon her Assumption; with this Burden, Maria Virgo assumpta est. fol. 34.
Beginn. Regina Celi, Qwene of the Sowth.
25. A short Salutation to the blessed Virgin, with this Burden, Ave Regina Celorum. fol. 35. b.
Beginn. Haile Luminary and benynge Lanterne.
26. An Invocation of the same. fol. 36. b.
Beginn. O thow ioieful Lighte, eternal ye shyne.
27. A Ditty, wherein the Author feigns how dyuerse Foules praised Gode in al his Werkes ful reuerently, withe an hevenly Ympne. fol. 37. b.
Beginn. As I me lenyed vnto a joyful place.
28. Another, wherin many Contraries are brought together, & proposed enigmatically; with a Burden, at the first like this, Is this Fortune, or is it Infortune? Though I go loose, I tyed am withe a Lyne. fol. 38. b.
Beginn. The more I go, the further I am behynde. It is, upon the instability of sublunary Affairs.
29. Another, Satirically describing the wrong actions & practices of many sorts of people, with this Burden, So as the Crabbe gothe forward. fol. 40.
Beginn. This World is ful of Stabilnesse.
30. Another, wherein our blessed Savior is represented, as rehearsing the particulars of his bitter Passion, the Merits thereof, & his unparalleled Love, to Mankind. The Burden is, mostly, Was, like a Lambe, offrede in Sacrifice. fol. 41.
Beginn. Beholde! O Man! lifte-vp thy Eye ande se.
31. Verba Magistri Johannis Lydgate, contra Honores Mundi: in one Stanza. fol. 43.
Beginn. Worldly Worship is Joye transitorye.
32. The Plaint of the blessed Virgin, upon our Saviors Crucifixion; with this Burden, for the greater part, Thus naylede to a Tre. fol. 43. b.
Beginn. Who shal gyve vnto my hede a Welle Of bitter Teeris, my Sorw to compleyne: according to its Lemma Quis dabit Capiti meo fontem lacrimarum: taken from Jeremias ix. 1.
33. Le Pleyntefe countre Fortune, with her Answers. fol. 46.
Beginn. This wrecchid Worldis transmutacione.
This seems to have been translated out of French: and in the Lenvoye our Author complains of his Loss of Memory by reason of old Age; and of the difficulty it then was to compose in English, so curiously, as they did in France.
34. A Demawnde by Lydgate.——Whiche of the two, by just Comparifoune, Love or Money in valew dothe excede? Here the Poet shews that Mankind generally gives the preference to the latter; but concludes with BIBLIOTHECÆ HARLEIANÆ.

Num. 2251.

exhorting all to the Love of God. fol. 47. b. It begins thus, Eche man folwithe his owne fantasie.

35. A Poem of three Stanzas only, recommending the Love of Vertu. fol. 49. b.

Beginn. The first Stoke was Fader of Gentilnes (This is printed as Chaucers, in the last Edition of his Works, pag. 551.)

36. A Prayer to the blessed Virgin, consisting of 24 Stanzas, each of them beginning with a Letter according to the Order of the English Alphabet. fol. 50.

Beginn. Al myghti, and al mercriable Qwene. This is not Lidgates, but was made by Geffrey Chaucer; and is printed in the last Edition of his Works, at page 588. being there intimated to have been made at the request of Blanch Duchefs of Lancaster: which Edition thereof, may be amended in divers places, from this Copie.

37. A Ballad upon the Crafte of Lovyers. fol. 53. Beginn. To moralise a Symilitude, who liste these Balëtts fewe.

This is also ascribed to Geffrey Chaucer, and hath found a place in the last Edition of his Works, namely, at page 552. where in the last Stanza (to bring it back to Chaucers twentieth year) the Date is sett-down thus,

In the yere of our Lorde a M. by rekenyng, ccccxl. and vii. yere folowing.

whereas, in the present MS. it stands thus,

In the yere of God a M. by rekenyng

Foure hundrede fifty, and ix. yere folwyng.
Here is a difference of 112 years, the last of which falls in Lidgates time; to whom also the Language seems more suitable. I need not omitt, that at the End of this Copy is a Lenvoy of three Stanzas, which are not in the printed Edition above-mentioned.

38. Fabula duorum Mercatorum, de & super gestis Romanorum. fol. 56.

Beginn. In Egipt whilom, as I rede & fynde. This Poem is upon the fast Friendship that was established between these two Merchants, as was between those memorable Friends of Antiquity, Pylades & Orestes, or Damon & Pythias. The Fable is plainly taken from the anonymous Monkish Tract called Gesta Romanorum; of which, several written Copies are extant in this noble Library; where the two Freinds pass all along as Knights, and not as Merchants.

39. A Ditty or Ballad upon Dan Joos a Monk who had long continued to practise particular Devotions toward the Virgin Mary; particularly in reciting certain Psalms or Hymns remarkable for her Name. Whereupon, when this Monk died suddenly, one night, He was found with a fine Red Rose springing out of his Mouth, two others from his Eies, & two more from his Ears: with the name MARIA full fayre i-graven upon them, in lettris of bournede Golde. fol. 71. b.

Beginn. O Welle of swetnes, replete in euery Veyne.

The Author affirms, that he took this Legend from the Speculum Historiale of Vincentius Belvacensis.

40. A Legendary tale of a young Boy who sang forth to the praise of the Virgin Mary, after he was murder'd by a Jew who had cutt his Throat. fol. 73. b.

Beginn. O Lorde, oure Lorde, thyn Name how marvelous.

Num. 2251.

This is the Prioresse's Prologue & Tale in Chaucer; and in our present MS. the last Stanza is purposely omitted.

41. Two Stanzas exciting to the Love of St. Anne mother to the Blessed Virgin. fol. 77. b.

Beginn. He that intendithe in his Herte to feke.

The Author promisseth a devoute Oreyson in Honour of Hir oonly; but it is omitted.

42. One Stanza upon this Distich,

Vinum Lacte lava; Oleum liquore Fabarum; Encaustum Vino: cætera mundat Aqua.
ibid.

43. How a man of Paris who used to pray for the souls in Purgatory, being pursued into his Church-yard by Enemies, was presently delivered by the Dead there, who arose out of theyr Graves.

Somme apperede with Gleyves, and somme withe Staves. fol. 78.

Beginn. Remembryd by Scriptures we fynde & rede.

44. Of Wulfryke a Wilt-shire-Priest, who used to Syng or Say a Masse of Requiem for alle Cristen Soules; and therefore, when he was dying, his Companion a neighbouring Priest, saw in the Church-yard many arise from the Graves, appereing as Children in white Array, who having prayed for the moribund, tourned againe into theyr Graves. fol. 78. b.

Beginn. In Wiltshire of Ynglonde two Priestes pere were.

45. A Ditty of three Stanzas, in the name of our blessed Savior. fol. 79.

Beginn. My fader above, beholdyng thy mekenesse.

This seems to be imperfect.

46. Three Stanzas against immoderate Care & Pains in amassing of Riches. fol. 79. b.

Beginn. Longe wil be Water, in a Welle, to keche.

47. Of the several Complexions of Men, a Ballad in 3 Stanzas. ibid.

Beginn. The Sangwyne man, of Bloode hathe hardynes.

48. Another of 4 Stanzas, upon the same Subject. fol. 80.

Beginn. Off Yiftes large, in Love hathe grete delite.

49. The beginning of a Poem, perhaps designed for an Explication of the Decalogue. fol. 80. b.

Beginn. The highe aſtri-potent auctor of alle.

50. An observation, in one stanza, upon Wife, Stronge, False, & Meke men. fol. 81. b.

Beginn. There is non so wise a man.

51. The Tragedye of Adam. fol. 82.

Beginn. This Tragedye, the States and theyr Degres. fol. 93. b.
62. Lenvoy of Dydo Quene of Cartage. fol. 94.
Beginn. O fayre Dydo, most noble in Constaunce.
I suppose Lidgate did not write her Story, or Legend, because Chaucer had done it before; as he also wrote that of Lucretia (see above, at n^o. 60.) both which are printed with his other works.
63. A Poem concerning Vice & Vertu; that is, for vertuous Laboure, & against Slouth & Negligence. fol. 95.
Beginn. Two maner of Folkes to put in remembrance.
Herein, the Author treates of Thubal & Pictagoras founders of Musyke; the children of Sethe, who fonde first the heavenly Mocyouns; quod Ennoke primo invenerit literas Ebraycas, que confecte fuerant durante Diluvio, in Columpna lapidea. Beginn. Ye thate bethe ofe goode Deuocyoune.
At the end is this ſhorte Note, Explicit, quod Lidgate; Amen.
117. The Treatiſe De Regimine Principum, or Secretum Secretorum, commonly aſcribed to Aristotle. fol. 214. b.
Beginn. God almyghti ſave & conferme oure Kyng.
This Work was of mighty repute in days of yore; and is pretended to have been translated out of Greek into Arabic or Chaldee, by one John a Spaniard; & from thence into Latin, by Philipp a Frenchman; & ſo into Engliſh Verſe (with many Interpolations & Omiſſions) by Lidgate, at the Requeſt of K. Edward IV. as it may ſeem; becauſe Dan John lived not to finiſh his Taſk. This appears by a marginal Note which I find at fol. 236. in the Words following, Here deyde the Tranſlatour, a noble Poete Dane Johne Lydgate; and his folowere gan his Prologe in this wiſe; per Benedictum Burghe. This Prologue to the Continuation do's thus Beginn. Where Flowre ofe Knyghthode the Batel dothe reſuce.
Pitſeus maketh no mention of this Continuator; but (according to his Cuſtom) ſplitteth this Treatiſe into two.
118. Proceſſioun of Corpus Criſti, by Lydgate. fol. 250. b.
Beginn. This highe Feſte for to magnifye.
This ending abruptly, the Tranſcriber added

Num. 2251.

the following Note to it, Shirley kowde fynde no more for this Cople.

119. Examples of Kings & Princes unfortunate. fol. 254.

Beginn. Beholde this grete Prynce Edward the Secunde.

This seems to be unfinished.

120. A Sayenge of the Nyghtyngale. (This Title is plainly of the Hand-writing of Mr. John Stow the Annalist) fol. 255.

Beginn. In June when Titan was in Crabbes hede.

This is also imperfect, as appeareth by the Transcribers Note, Of this Balade, Dan Johan Lydgate made no more.

121. A Ditty to the blessed Virgin. fol. 260. b.

Beginn. Be gladde Mayde, Moder of Jhesu.

122. Another, to our Lord Jesus. fol. 261. b.

Beginn. Criste, that arte bothe Day & Lighte.

123. Another, to the Authors Soul. fol. 262.

Beginn. O thowe, my Soule, gyfe Lawde vnto the Lorde.

124. Gloriosa dicta sunt de te, &c. said to be translated by Lidgate Dan Johan the Monke of Bury, at the Instaunce of the Bisshoppe of Excestre, in Balade-wise. fol. 265.

Beginn. In holy Hillis whiche bien of grete Renoune.

125. A Ballad in praise of Queen Catherin, Mother to K. Henry vi. fol. 268. b.

Beginn. Seynte Valentyne, ofe Custom, yeere by yeere.

126. A Ballad, or Fable, of two Beasts called Bycorne & Chichevache; whereof, that was monstrously fat, as eating up all Husbands who were tractable & complacent to their Wives: & this was poor & lean, being assigned to live upon nothing but patient and obedient Wives; of which sort, but one had been found in many years time. fol. 270. b.

Beginn. O prudente folkes, takithe Heede.

127. A Ditty upon the unhappyness & instability of all Worldly affairs. 272. b.

Beginn. Lyfte vp the ieen ofe youre aduer- tence.

The Author (who seems to be Lidgate) mentions the unfortunate Ends of our King Henry v. & other English: and saith that he took his Refreyde, or Burden from his Mayster Chaucier, who wrote ful yore ago; which Burden is, How this World is a Thurgh-fare ful of Woo.

128. A Ballad, accompanying an Eagle presented to our King Henry v. & his Queen, on the Day of their Espousals. fol. 275. b.

Beginn. This hardy Fowle, this Bridde vic- torious.

129. Complaint of a Lady who had setled her in- violable Affection upon a noble Knight, with whom she had been bred-up; but He knew not of it. 276. b.

Beginn. Allas! I woful Creature:

130. Advise to the then young King Henry vi. and among many other Things, particularly to imitate the singular Vertues of his Royal Parents. fol. 277. b.

Beginn. Most noble Prince, of Cristen Princes alle.

131. A Ditty upon the Loves, & expected Marriage of Jaques Duchefs of Holland (Hainault) with the English Prince Humfrey Duke of Gloucester.

Num. 2251.

Upon both whom, our Author bestoweth the greatest Praises. 279. b.

Beginn. Thurghe gladde Aspectis, of the gode Cupide.

132. A Paraphrastical Translation of Seaven of Iopes Fabules. fol. 283.

Beginn. Wyfdom is more of pris than Golde in Coffres.

That this is Dan John's Work, is plain from the last Verse save one in this page, where he saith I was born in Lydegate. It may be also noted, that fol. 287. being wanting. Mr. John Stowe abovementioned, hath added the first five Verses that were therein to the bottom of fol. 286. b. and omitted in the rest; unless they were inserted in a loose paper now lost.

133. A Complaint to an empty Purse. fol. 298.

Beginn. To yow, my Purse, and to non other Wighte.

The three first Stanza's of this Poem are ascribed to Chaucer (I believe rightly) and, as his, are printed in pag. 549. of the last Edition of his Works. But in the present MS. here are no less than 20 Stanzas more, upon another and greater Subject of Complaint; in my poor Opinion, much more suitable to Chaucer's Circumstances in the latter time of his Life, than those of Lydgate. For here the Poet complains of the mutability of Fortune; the Loss of his Wealth; his being kept poor in Prison upon false Accusa- tions; the baseness of his pretended Friends, not one of whom now gave him the least Relief, in his Distress, or had made him any Visit, though they all adored him in his Prosperity, while he could do them good Turns; with his want of prospect of ever getting out: He there- fore prepares himself to die, and implores the Aid of Jesus Christ and his Mother. For this reason I account this as a fresh Poem of that great Man Geoffrey Chaucer; and as this, Beginning. fol. 298.

Allas! Fortune, alas! whate have I gilte, In Prison thus to lye here desolate.

135. A Ballad, wherein the Author enumerateth many Sorts of Fools; and feigneth a Convent or Fraternity of 63 such. fol. 303.

Beginn. The Order of Foles, ful yore ago bigonne.

136. The Fable of the Horse, Goose, & Sheep, pleading their respective deserts before the Lion & the Eagle, who sate as Judges. fol. 306.

Beginn. Contrauerfies, Plees, and al Discorde.

137. The Morallite of the Hors, the Goose, & the Sheepe; translated bi Dan Johan Lidgate. fol. 314. b.

Beginn. Of this Fable, conteynethe this Sen- tence.

138. An Allegorical Poem, chiefly upon the Fall of Adam (imperfect at the End) fol. 316. b.

Beginn. Alle busy swymmynge in the stormy Floode.

Here seems to be some notable Confusion; for at fol. 318. &c. the first four Stanzas of Chaucers Ballad beginning with O Merciful, & oo mer- ciable, are inserted properly, as part of the Poem; which may be Chaucers for ought I now know to the contrary. Whereas, what follows in the said Ballad, printed in the last Edition of Chaucer, at pag. 556. is a mere Love-Song, foreign to the preceding Matter, and beginning thus, The Cause, at this time, of my Wri- tyng.

Num. 2252.

2252. *A Paper-book in small folio, written by several Hands, and containing the Collections, Observations & Memorandums of John Colyn Citizen and Mercer of London; who flourished in the Reign of K. 30. The Complaynte of Northe to the Cardnall Wolsey. fol. 33. b.
Beginn. Nowe beyng in Presone, am I not abyllle.
Here is one Poem splitt into two; whose author owns that the Cause of his Imprisonment was his writing a book against the Cardinal, whose Pity he now supplicates in the most humble manner: and in the latter Part of it (consisting of Praises of, and Praiers for the Cardinal) he books-in Anagrammatically, his Name and Titles THOMAS LORD LEGATE AND CARDYNAL. An imperfect Copy of this Book (whose Author calls himself N. O.) my noble Lord was pleased to shew me very lately; and 'tis one of the most virulent Libels that I ever saw written by any Lollard.
31. Notes of the several Acts of Parlement passyde in Feuerer and Merche, ann. 25 Henr. VIII. fol. 34. b.
32. Petition to the King, by one of the Menefters of his moste honourabyllle Chapelle, for his gracious Letter offe Presentacyone offe the Personage of B. fol. 36.
33. John Trevelyones Petition to the Kynge, for his gracious Letter of Pardon: he having been drevyne by Chaunce Medle, for Save-garde of hys Lyfe, to gyve a Strype to one Wyllyam Hyller; of whych he dyed. ibid.
34. A brefe Cronekell of the Turkes, from Otroman to Solemane. fol. 36. b.
This is said to be taken from the Account pryn-tyde by Tomas Gybsone.
35. The Progeny or Descent of the Erles of Arundelle. fol. 38.
36. A Letter sende by Kynge Jamus IV. of Scotlande, to Kynge Herry the viiith, at suche tyme as he laye at the Sege of Turwyne in Fraunce, by Ilay the Scottyshe Heralde of Armus. fol. 39.
Expostulating, in bitter Terms, the pretended Injuries he had received from our King, whose Countrey he was resolved to invade, unless he would desist from all further Attempts against France.
37. The Mesage that was done by Ilay (or Lyoune) Scottishe Heralde to Kynge Herry the viiith, when he lay at the Sege of Turwyne, anno 1513. fol. 41.
Somoning him to return to his Realm of England. Here is also our King's resolute Answer, not to break up the Siege; that he had provided against any Attempts from Scotland; whose King (he said) was anointed with Crownes of the Sun; and whom he more especially blamed for mysse-entretynge his Syfter.
38. The answer to the Kynge of Scotts Letter, sent by Lyone the Scottyshe Herawld, from Kynge Herry the viiithe. fol. 42.
Shewing that proper Answers had before been given as to the Injuries he pretended to have received; setting forth his foul dealing, in threatening to invade England contrary to his solemn promise, for which, He and all his Posterity ought to be excluded from the possession of its Crown; & shewing his firm Resolution to prosecute the War with France.
39. A Ditty entituled The Lamentacione of the Kynge of Scotts. fol. 43. b.

Num. 2252.

- Beginn. As Y lay musynge, my self alone.*
This is upon the Scotts King James IV. who invading England, was vanquished & slain at the Battel of Bramstone or Floddon, A. D. 1513.
40. Bellum de Bramptone, per Frauncis Dyngley de Manstone. fol. 45.
This is a Ballad upon the great Battle of Floddon-field, wherein the chief Commanders of the English Army are particularly remembred. It begins thus, O Rex, Regum, in thy Realme celestiale: and the Burden is, By the helpe of Saynte George our Ladyes Knyght.
41. The Composysyone of alle Offryngs withyn the Cete of Londone, & Subarbz of the same. fol. 48. b.
This Agreement was made by chosen Arbitrators, 17 December, A. D. 1457.
42. A grete Myracle of a Knyghte callyde Syr Roger Wallysborow. fol. 50. b.
This Knight being in the Holy Land, had a mind to bring-off, privately, a piece of the Holy Crosse; accordingly, his Thigh open'd miraculously, & received it. Miraculously he returned to Cornwall his Countrey; & miraculously his Thigh opened again, & lett it out. A bitt of it he gave to that parish-Church where this happened, thence forward called Crosse-Paryshe; the Resydew he gave to St. Buryan's College.
43. Of the Right of the House of England to the Crownus of Fraunce, Castylle & of Legyons; & vnto the Dowchye of Normandy. Imperfect. fol. 51. b.
Then follows by another Hand,
44. A long Poem entituled The Lyfe of Ipomydone Son to Ermones King of Poyle (or Apulia) fol. 54.
Beginn. Mekely, Lordyngis, gentylle and fre.
This seems to be taken from some old Romance, where the great Valor of Ipomydone the Hero thereof, is sufficiently celebrated; particularly the Great (but Un-necessary) Acts he did, whereby he gained the fair Heirefs of Calabria.
45. A short Song upon an inconstant Mistress. fol. 84. b.
46. Another, upon those who putt off their Marriage, in hopes of increasing their wealth in the mean Time, untill their Youth be spent. ibid.
47. A Story relating to the Answer given by an English Merchant to a foreign Lord, who Asked why English people not only eat more, but entertain with greater Varieties, than those of other Nations. ibid.
48. Another, concerning a Testament made by a Lord's Sage Fole. fol. 85.
Now comes, written with different Ink.
49. A large Poem, at the End, entituled Le mort Arthure. fol. 86.
Beginn. Lordyngis that are leffe and dere.
This I take to be translated from the French Romance of K. Arthur, which seemeth to have been invented by the Armorican Britans: and this to be taken from only one part of that large Work. At the begining, it is proposed to treat of the great Adventures of K. Arthur, his Knights of the Round Table, the San-grayle, &c. but the Work itself doth not answer there-
- † François de la Croix-du-Maine, in his Bibliotheque of French Writers, saith that Chrestien de Troye, a Poet, born at Troye in Champagne, & who flourished A. D. 1168. composed divers Romances in French Verse, as, The Knight of the Sword; Perseval; The Romance of the Charette, which mentions Lancelot, and was finished by Geoffroy de Ligny, who flourished A. D. 1209. Lancelot du Lac; The Graal; & The Knight of the Lion.

unto. Here, Sir Launcelot du Lake King of Benwike is the principal Hero, & his Intrigues with Q. Gaynoure, K. Arthur's Wife, his refusal of the Earl of Ascalots fair Daughter, who died for his Love, & others of his Adventures, are fully related. But toward the End, mention is made of the War which broke-out between Mordreite the Usurper & K. Arthur, who slew each other; and partly concludes with the Repentance of Q. Gaynoure & Sr. Lancelot, who having taken upon themselves the Habit of Religion, ended their Lives in pious manner.

I know not who this Poet was, but ges that he lived about the time of K. Henry VII. and that he might have been a Northern man. He useth many Saxon or obsolete Words; and very often delighted himself (as did the Author of Piers Plow-man) in the Chime of words beginning with the same Letter, as (that I may give one Example)
For wellé the wiste withouten wene. fol. 117. b.
I suppose he enlarged upon the Story (which was too large before) in that he mentioneth the Tower of London, Syr Lucan de Botellere, &c.

Now follow many Poems composed by John Skelton Poet Laureat to K. Henry VIII. viz.

51. Parot. fol. 134.

Beginn. My name ys Parott a Byrde of Paradyse.

Here are many Songs wherein Skeltons Parrot is concerned, who often purposely nips at Cardinal Wolsey.

52. The former part of a Song upon the Inconstancy of his Mistress: it begins Mornynge, Morn-ynge. fol. 140.

53. A Poem containing Prognostications for the whole ensuing Year, according to the Day of the Week wherein the Calends of January do happen to fall: taken from a book falsely ascribed to Ezechiel the Prophete. fol. 141.

Beginn. Ye Men that Wyldome wylle lerne.

54. The Crafte of Lymnyng, i. e. of Illuminating Books. fol. 142.

55. Quis resurgat ad Malyngnantes? aut quis stabit mecum adversus operantes Iniquitatem?
Nemo Domine: being an Invektive against the Clergy of all Sorts and Degrees; with some Strokes, as I take it, against Cardinal Wolsey in particular. pag. 147.

Beginn. Whate can hyt avayle.

The Author of this Libell, several times calleth himself Colyne Clowte: and at the End, I find the following Note, which, I suppose, was meant for Witt. Quod Collyne Clowte in opere imperfecto, in opere semper perfecto, et in opere pluiquam perfecto. But, a little lower, the true name is sett-down; Quod Sceltonyus Lawreatus, this by John Colyns who made the Collection.

56. Some Latin verses of this Skeltons, inaccurately transcribed. fol. 153. b.

Beginn. Colinus Cloutus quanquam mori car-

59. Conclusion of a Relation of the dying Speeches of certain who were Executed in the time of K.
Henry VIII. the preceding Leaf being purposely torn-out. fol. 155.

60. A Ditty setting-forth the Inconstancy of Fortune, from a Fable of a Falcon who flew from the other Birds, to the top of a Mountain adorned with a fine Rose-Tree, where a loving Lion chose her a Nest. ibid.

Beginn. In a freshe mornynge, amonge the

By the Falcon, is meant Queen Anne Boleyn, it being her Device; by the Mountain, England; and by the Lion, K. Henry VIII. to be sure.

61. A Poem of the Cardinale Wolfe. fol. 156.

Beginn. God save Kynge Herry owr nobulle Kynge.

This I take to be one of Skelton's scurrilous Libells.

62. A Poem, not finished; whose Author gives good Advices. fol. 157. sed vide infra n. 66.

Beginn. O Mortal Man, by grete Exaltacione.

63. Another of Skelton's Libells against Cardinal Wolsey. fol. 158.

64. Prognostications from the Primes falling upon any day of the Week. fol. 159. b.

65. Observations as to the Changing of the Moon, according as the Prime falleth upon any Dominical Letter. ibid.

66. The Ditty O mortal Man, much longer than that above at n. 62.

67. A place of some Alchymistical Author, which promising a great deal too much, is (as I suppose) worth little. fol. 161. b.

68. Orders made by ten Elected Parishoners of Wolchyrche-hawe (whereof our John Colyns was one) 26 Novembyr. 1520. touching payment for knolling of Bells, & Burials within that Church. fol. 163.

69. An Order made A. D. 1526. by 8 chosen Parishioners, whereof the same John Colyns was one; touching payment of the Priest celebrating certain Masses, & Singing Anthems on some particular days. fol. 165.

70. A Note out of a Boke callyd Vitas Patrum, endeavoring to evince, that for Falsenes & Perjury, this Land. spewed-out its Inhabitants 3 hit y leste,

Ant Godylt his gode Quene | no feyrre myhte bene.
Ant huere Sone hihte Horn | feyrre child ne myhte be born.

This is a Romance; rude enough, as the age then was. It feigns how Mur King of Saracens or Pagans, landed suddenly in the Kingdome of Suddene, where he slew King Allof; and Queen Godylt having escaped, he putt her Son Horn, (who, afterward, proved the most handsome and most valiant Knight in the World) into a Galley, with two of his play-fellows; which being driven into the Kingdom of Westnesse, he was found by K. Aylmar, brought to Court, and deliver'd to Athelbrus his Steward to be Educated. Here the Princess Rymenild fell in Love with him, declares her Passion, and is betrothed. Horn, hereupon, leaves her for Seaven years, in Order by seeking & ending great Adventures, to demonstrate that he deserved Her: at the End whereof, he having before killed K. Mur, recover'd his own Countrey, & done many other great Explous; regains his Rymenild from the Hands of his treacherous Knight Fykenild, leads her home, & lives long with her in great Joy & Prosperity.

75. A French Poem, wherein the Author seigneth that a Minstrel, or Jugler, travelling from London clad in a fine Tabard, on Horseback, met the King and his Train. The King asking him divers

Num. 2253.

Questions, as to whom he belonged, &c. and about his Horse, & the price of him, &c. this fellow answers preposterously; evading all questions with the greatest Impudence: and, at last, presumes to give his Majesty Advice. fol. 107. b.

Beginn. Seygnours escotes vn petit,
Si orrez vn tres bon desduit.

As to the Meaning of the Words Trouverres, Chanterres, Countours, Jugleours, or Juglours; see the Book of Claude Fauchet, as also of Menestriers, or Minstrells.

76. Another, in praise of the fair Sex. 110. b.

78. Another, upon the same ungrateful Subject; containing divers English words sprinkled about it. fol. 112.

Beginn. Femmes a la pye,
Portent Campagnie,
En maners, e en mours.
Escotes que vous dye,
E quele assocye
Yl tienent en Amours.

79. Another, containing many Moral, Civil, & Pious Advices & Instructions, given by one Urban to his Son. fol. 112.

Beginn. Vn sage houte de grant Valour,
Que longement vesqui en Honour,
Vrbane estoit apelee,
En son temps mult fust amee.

80. Another, being a Sort of Libel upon the Commission of Traile-baston issued by our King Edward 1. near the End of his Reign; that is, about A. D. 1306. fol. 113. b.

Beginn. Talent me prent de Rymer, e de Geste fere, D'une Purveance que purveu est en la Terre.
Mieux valsit vncore que la chose fust a fere,
Si Dieu ne prenge garde, je quy que fourdra guere.

Herein, the Author says, that he served his Lord the King both in Peace & War, in Flanders, Scotland, & Gascoign; but wanted to return into his own Countrey. He names some of the Commissioners or Judges (who are not so particularly mentioned in every Chronicle) in the following Verses or Rymes,

Ly Martyn, & ly Knoville sunt gent de piete,
E prient pur les povres, qu'il eyent fauvete.
Spigurnel, e Belflour, sunt gent de cruelte.

The last Stanza shewes the privacy wherein it was written; in these Words,

Cest Rym fust fet al Bois, defouz vn Lorer;
La chaunte Merle, Ruffinole, a eyre l'Esperver.
Escrit estoit en perchemyn pur mout remembrer;
E gitte en haut Chemyn, que um le dust trover.

81. A Song upon the Man in the Moon, so still termed by the Vulgar: and represented as carrying a Bundle of Thorns on his Back; and also fitted with a Twy-by. fol. 114. b.

Num. 2253.

Beginn. Mon in je Mone, stond & strit on is bot-fork is burpen he berep, Hit is muche wonder þat he na doun flyt for doute lest he valle, he shoddreþ ant shereþ.

82. A Ballad upon an Intrigue between a Lady (who was no better than she should be) whom her Husband kept enclosed in a strong Castle; and a neighbouring Knight, her Lover. fol. 115. b.

Beginn. Pur ce que plusours ont mervaille
De le Chvaler e la Corbaylle;
Ore le vus vueil ie counter,
Si vus plect a escoter.

83. A Satire against the fair Sex. fol. 117.

Beginn. Benoist Dieu omnipotent,
Que delivre d'encombrement.

Here, the Author who called himself Gawein, or Gawayn (as, I think he did once before) feigns, that he being, by the persuasions of his Married Friends, likely to be drawn into the Matrimonial Noose, with a very lovely Girl to whom he bare the greatest Affection, was delivered by the Interposition of three Angels (I suppose Authors) named Pieres de Corbloi, Laurence, & Johan En la bouche d'Or.

84. A smutty Ballad of a Squire & a Ladies Woman. fol. 118.

Beginn. Vne Fable vueil comencer,

86. A French Poem in Commendation of a new Religious Order called Le Ordre de bel Eyse. fol. 121.

Beginn. Qui vodra a moi entendre,
Oyr purra e aprendre
L'Estoyre de vn Ordre novel
Que mout est delitous e bel.

Here the Poet feigns his new Order to consist of the greatest People of both Sexes, who lived in Houses promiscuously; none being excluded but those of low Degree. That they were bound to lead their Lives in all manner of Excess & Luxury; fetching several Points or Articles of their Practice from the Monasteries of Sympringham in Lincolnshire, Beverley in Yorkshire; from the Knights Hospitalers, and most of the other Religious Orders then settled in England; whose Lives thereby are plainly carped at.

87. Another, all of Ribaldry; upon the Adventures of a poor Knight, & Huet his Squire. fol. 122. b.

Beginn. Aventures e Enseignement
Fount Solas molt sovent;
E Solas fet Releggement,
Ce dit Gwaryn que ne ment.

This, perhaps, may be but an Epitome; and Claude Fauchet in his Account of this Gwaryn (or Garin as he calls him) gives a different Exordium to this non-sensical Performance; whose twelfth Line, according to him, varies not much from the fourth of the present Copie, being Ce dit Garin qui pas ne ment. Claude gives this Character of it, C'est un Conte de lourde Mensonge, & dont je fay mention seulement pour monstrier a quoy

 At wyſe Hendyng he may lernen, þat wes Marcôlves ſone:
 Gode þonkes & monie þewes,
 For te tèche ſele Shrewes,
 For þat wes, ever is wone.
In the Sequel, the Poet addeth another Line to the Stanza, being in the nature of an explanatory Proverb; concluding with this Burden, quop Hendyng.
90. An English Poem, with this French Title prefixed, La Counteſſe de Donbar demanda a Thomas de Eſſedoune, quant la Guere d'Eſcoce prendret fyn. fol. 127.
Beginn. When Man as mad a Kinge of a cap-ped man
 When Mon is levere oþer mones þynge þen is owen.

Here

Num. 2253. — 2255.

Here the Author taxeth the King with leaving England, upon his own will only, to make War in foreign parts; of oppressing his people by levying a Fifteenth, and taxing their Wool, &c. half of the produce of which did not come into his Coffers, but was imbezeled by the Officers who collected it.

113. Contemplacioun de la Passioun Jhesu Crist. fol. 138. b.

114. Legenda de Martyrio Sancti Wistani Regis Merciorum, A. D. 850. fol. 140. b.

2254. A Vellum-book in small folio, not ill written; wherein are mentioned,

1. A Theological Work, thus entituled after its Conclusion, The Treetis þat is kallid Prickyng of Love, made bi a Frere Menour Bonaventure, þat was Cardynal of the Courte of Roome. fol. 1.

2. Another, imperfect at the Beginning; with a like Title after its Conclusion. fol. 2.

I have not now Conveniences by me for examining this matter, whether both these, or which of them be the Translation of Bonaventure's Stimulus divini Amoris; or to whom else one of them may belong to.

Within the first spare Lease, at the Beginning, are the following Notes, Thys boyk longyth to Dame Alys Braintwath the worchypfulle Prioras of Dartforde (in Kent) Jhesu mercy.

Orate pro anima Dominae Elizabeth Rede, hujus loci — Orate pro anima Johanne Newmarche.

At the bottom of folio 1. are the Armes of Shirley & Briwes (or Brewes) quartered.

2255. A Velum-book in small folio, plainly written & illuminated; containing many Poems of Dan John Lidgate the famous Monk of Bury St. Edmund; and, perhaps, of others, sett down in the following Order.

1. A Ditty, to which, this Rubric is prefixed, Consulo quisquis eris, qui pacis federa queris, Consonus esto Lupis, cum quibus esse cupis.

Beginn. I conseyl what so evyr thou be.

The Advice is pestilent enough; but at the 8th Stanza it is quite contradicted, and there beginn the Verba Translator. which make 8 Stanzas more: so that the former part only seems to have been taken from the Latin.

2. Another, upon the mutability of human Affairs. fol. 3. b.

Beginn. Lat no man booste ofe konnyng nor vertu.

3. Another, against the forked Coiffures or Head-dresses, which the Ladies ware in the time of K. Henry VI. fol. 6.

Beginn. Off God & Kynde procedith al bewte. The Burden is like this, Bewte wyl shewe, though Hornes were away. The Lenvoy begins thus,

Noble Prynceffys, this litel shoort Ditee
Rewdly comiled; lat it be noon offence
To your womanly merciful pitee
Thoughe it be rad in your audience, &c.

4. Another, against Self-Love and its Off-spring. fol. 7. b.

Beginn. Toward the Ende ofe froosty Januarye. The Burden is like this,

Look in thy Merour, and deme noon other Wiht.

VOL. II.

Num. 2255.

In the Lenvoy the author declareth his name, thus, Go litel Bille, with oute Title or Date.

And, of hool herte, recomaund me

Which that am callyd Johan Lydgate, &c.

5. Another, containing Moral & other wholsome Advices. fol. 12.

Beginn. As of Hony Men gadren-out Swetnesse. The Burden is like this, Sewe aſtir Vertue, and Vertu thou shalt leere.

6. Another upon the Imbecility of Human Nature. fol. 14.

Beginn. The World so wyd, the Hair (i. e. Air) so remevable.

The Burden is like this,

How shuld Man than be stedfast ofe Livynge?

At the End is this marginal Note, Explicit, Joh. Lydgate.

7. Another upon Misericordias Domini in eternum cantabo. fol. 17.

Beginn. Alle goostly Songis & Ympnes that be songe.

The Burden is like,

Eternally thy Mercies I shall syng.

At the End is this Marginal Note, Explicit, quod Lidgate.

8. Another, in the praise of Peace; written after the Death of our King Henry V. fol. 21.

Beginn. Mercy and Trouthe mette on an hihe Mounteyn.

Here, every Stanza concludeth with the word Pees: and, at the End is the same note, Explicit quod Lydgate.

9. Another, enforcing the Duty of Paying of Tythes to the Church: wherein, the Legendary Story of the English Apostle St. Austin saying Mass at Compton, and how the old British Lord of that Town, who had been accursed by his Priest for with-holding his Tithes, arose from his Grave; and having received the Discipline from the said Priest (who also arose out of his Grave at St. Austin's Call) is much enforced. fol. 24. c.

Beginn. Lyk as the Bible makith mencion.

At the End, is the Marginal Note, Explicit quod Lidgate.

10. Another, upon the Pater-noster; made by the Author when he was grown Old. fol. 33.

Beginn. A-twix Dreed and tremblyng Reverence.

At the End, is this Marginal Note, Explicit, quod Joh. Lydgate.

11. Another, upon the Psalm De profundis clamavi ad te, Domine; Domine, exaudi vocem meam. fol. 40.

Beginn. Havyng a Conceyt in my symple Wit. Here, the last Stanza is termed Conclusio finalis, wherein the Author says, he was Late charchyd in myn oold dayes.

By William Curteys, (i. e. Abbas de Bury) which gafe Comaundement

That I shulde graunte myn assent

Ofe that Kynrede make a Memorial

With DE PROFUNDIS, whan so that it be sent.

At his Chirche to hang it on the Wal.

And here, is the usual Marginal Note Explicit, quod Lydgate.

William Curteys above-mentioned, according to Mr. Willis, was made Abbat of Bury A. D. 1428; who also finds that his Successor Babington occurs Abbat A. D.

1441. But the late Reverend & Learned Dr. Matthew Hutton, in his more accurate Tables, now preserved in this Library, shewes that Abbat

Num. 2255.

Curteys was not so untill A. D. 1429; and that he died not until A. D. 1445. when he was succeeded by Abbat Babington aforesaid.

12. A Sort of Paraphrase upon the Hymn or Song of St. Ambrose & St. Augustin. fol. 43. b.

Beginn. Te Deum laudamus to the Lord Sovereine.

The Burden is, Te laudat omnis Spiritus.

Here the Author uses many lofty words, & much of the Latin Original; as suitable to the Majesty of the Subject.

13. The Poet's Complaint upon the Emptiness of his Purse. fol. 45. b.

Beginn. Rihte mihty Prynce, and it be your wille.

The Burden is like this,

Oonly for lak of Plate, and ofe Coignage.

At the End, is the usual Marginal Note, Explicit quod Lydgate: thereby assuring us of the Author's Name.

14. Testamentum Johannis Lidgate nobilis Poete. fol. 47.

Beginn. O how holsom and glad is the Memorye. This Poem, which consisteth of several Dittys, was made by Dan John when he was well advanced in-to years, as he confesseth in fol. 51. Stanza 2. fol. 51. b. St. 2. & fol. 52. St. 2. and having attained the grace and blessing of Contrition, he bitterly laments the Follies & Wickedness of his Childhood and Youth, seeming to have taken-up in his Manhood. He makes mention of this his Testament in his Paraphrase upon the Lord's Prayer (above taken Notice of at n^o. 10.) at fol. 39. b. in the following words,

Fond ther no Clausis, but Scrowys al to-rent,
Nothyng enlumyned with Gold, Asure, nor Red,

Whiche shall be joyned with my Testament,
Leyd on my Brest, hour whan I shall be ded.

15. The blessed Virgin's Complaint, upon our Lord's Crucifixion; with this Lemma, Quis dabit Capiti meo fontem lachrymarum, Jerem. ix. 1. fol. 66. b.

Beginn. Who shall give vnto myn heed a Welle.

16. A Poem in praise of some particular Saints. fol. 70.

Beginn. Bliffyd Denys of Athenys, cheef Sonne. These Saints names, in the Margin against the several Stanzas appropriated to them are Dionisius, Georgius, Xpoforus, Blasius, Egidius, Katerina, Margareta, Xpina, & Barbara; among whom, the Author biddeth our St. George

Of Ynglonde callid Protectour and Patroun,
Pray for Sixt Herry, and al this Regioun,
Of our Enmyes, by Grace, to han Victorye.

17. A Poem upon the two Merchants Friends; taken from the Monkish book called Gesta Romanorum. fol. 72.

Beginn. In Egipt whilom, as I reed and fynde.
At the End, is the marginal Note Explicit, quod Lidgate.

18. Another upon the 15 Gladnessys, & 15 Hevyneffys of the Virgin Mary. fol. 88.

Beginn. A-tween myd-night and the fresh morwe gray.

This hath a large Prologue & Lenvoy; with the marginal Note Explicit quod Lidgate.

19. A Ditty against Ingratitude; upon the Occasion of Tullies being murdered by Pompilius Lanas. fol. 93. b.

Num. 2255.

Beginn. Myn auctour now Bochas, writ no lenger proceffe.

20. The Legend of St. Giles, paraphrased from the Latin. fol. 95. b.

Beginn. Off Agamēnoun vndir the large Empire.

The Poet concludes with a Prayer to him,
O gracious Gile, ofe poore folke cheefe patroun;
at the Conclusion whereof is the usual Note in the Margin, Explicit, quod Lidgate.

21. Stella Celi extirpavit: or, a prayer to the Virgin Mary, for aid, in time of Pestilence. fol. 103.

Beginn. Thu hevenly Queen, ofe Grace our Lood-sterre.

22. A Paraphrase upon the 15 O es; being so many prayers to our blessed Savior, upon the Subject of his Passion, all beginning with the Letter O; as may be frequently seen in the old Primers, either written or printed. fol. 104.

Beginn. O Blyssid Lord, my Lord, O Crist Jhesu.

At the End is the usual Marginal Note; Explicit, quod Lydgate.

23. A Ditty representing our blessed Lord as hanging upon the Cross, and calling upon impenitent Sinners to accept of his Mercy, &c. fol. 111.

Beginn. Upon a Cross, nayled I was for the.

24. De Sancta Maria; i. e. a Ditty upon our Ladies five Joys; as to which, see her Hours. fol. 111. b.

Beginn. O Queen of Hevene, of Helle eek Emperesse.

After the Conclusion, is the Note Explicit, quod Lidgate.

25. De Osculo facto ad Verbum Caro factum est.

Beginn. Ye devout peeple, which keepe an Observaunce,

Meekly, in Chirche, to kisse Stoon or Tre,
Erth or Iren; hath in remembraunce
What they meene; tak the Moralite.

26. A Prayer to St. Leonard. fol. 114.

Beginn. Reste and Refuge to folk disconsolate.
Perhaps, the Author might have made this upon a journey to his Hospital at York; for, in the last Stanza save one, he thus proceeds

O glorious Leonard, pray Jhesu on thy kne,
For thy Servauntis resortyng to this place, &c.

27. De tribus Virginibus, Katerina, Margareta, & Magdalena. fol. 115.

The Rubrick I take not to be the Author's, because he expressly distinguisheth the last from the two former.

Beginn. Katerine with glorious Margarete.
The End is followed by the usual Note, Explicit, quod Lidgate.

28. A Ditty upon St. Ursula, & her Eleaven Thousand Virgins. fol. 116.

Beginn. Ye Britoun Martirs, famous in partiteneffe.

29. De Sancta Osiha. fol. 116. b.

Beginn. Heyl, hooly Sitha, maide of gret Vertu.

30. The fifteen Toknys a-forn the Doom. fol. 117.

Beginn. As the Doctour Sanctus Jeronimus,
Which that knew by Inspiracioun.

These 15 Signs or Tokyns seem rather to be taken from the Prognosticon futuri Seculi, written by Julianus Pomerius Arch-bishop of Toledo, who died A. D. 690.

31. A Ditty shewing that vicious people do not long endure in this World. fol. 118. b.

Num. 2255.

Beginn. This wyde Woorlde is so large ofe Space.

32. Another, upon Letabundus, or a Sequence formerly used in the public service, upon the festivals of the Virgin Mary, and upon New Years day. fol. 120.

Beginn. Grounde take in Vertu by Patriarkys olde.

After the End, is the usual Note written in the Margin. Explicit, quod Lydgate.

33. Another, upon flytting Fortune. fol. 126. b.

Beginn. Toward Aurora, in the monyth ofe Decembre.

The Burden is, Experience shewith, The Wourld is varyable.

After the End, is the usual Note, Explicit, quod Lydgate.

34. Another, vpon wourldly Mutabilite. fol. 128. b.

Beginn. So as I lay this othir Nyght.

The Burden is, Timor Mortis conturbat me.

35. Advices for people to keep a guard over their Tongues. fol. 131. b.

Beginn. Svm man goth stille, of Wyfdam & Refoun.

The Burden is odd enough,

Alle goo we stille, the Cock hath lowe Shoon.

At the End is the usual Marginal Note, Explicit, quod Lydgate.

36. A Ditty upon the blessed Virgin; wherein, Comparisons taken from the Heavenly Jerusalem, and from its twelve Gems, are applied to Her. fol. 135.

Beginn. On hooly Hillys, moot famous of Renoun.

The Burden is, Glorious thynges be seid and songe of the.

At the End, is the usual Marginal Note, Explicit, quod Lydgate.

37. Another, to her Praise, applying the supposed Virtues of Gems unto her; and thrice anagrammatizing upon her Name MARIA. fol. 140.

Beginn. Heyl vertuous Jaspe most stedfast, and our Feith.

The Burden is, Ave Jesse virgula.

At the End, is the usual Marginal Note, Explicit, quod Lydgate.

38. Another, upon Benedictus Deus in donis suis. fol. 142.

Beginn. God departith his Gyfftis dyversly.

The Burden for the most part, is

In al his Gyfftyes Lord bleffyd mut he be.

And here, at the End, is the usual Marginal Note, Explicit quod Lydgate.

39. Another, upon Measure; in Respect both of Mediocrity, and of Justice. fol. 143. b.

Beginn. Men wryte of oold, how Mesour is Trefour.

At the End, the usual Note Explicit, quod Lydgate, is seen in the Margin.

40. A Paraphrase upon the Psalm Deus in nomine tuo (i. e. Psalm 53 of the Vulgate;) & upon the Gloria Patri. fol. 146. b.

Beginn. God, in thy name thou make me sauffe & founde.

At the End, comes the old Note, Explicit quod Lydgate.

41. A Ditty upon almighty God's merciful and all-sufficient Help. fol. 148.

Beginn. God is myn Helpe, and ay shal be.

Here our Author shews that he had been a Traveller (I suppose upon the Affairs of his Monastery) in this Stanza,

Num. 2255. — 2257.

I have been offte in dyvers Londys,

And in many dyvers Regyouns;

Have eskapyd fro my Foois hondys

In Citees, Castellys, and in Touns,

Among Folk ofe sundry Naciouns

Wente ay forthe, and took noon hede:

I askyd no manere Protecciouns;

God was myn Helpe, ageyn al Drede.

And, at the End, is his Name in this Marginal Note, Explicit, quod Lydgate.

42. Another, upon his feigned Vision of the ever-blessed Trinity, &c. fol. 150. b.

Beginn. Undir a Park ful prudently pyght; here the Subject being Grand, several words do often beginn with the same Letter; and the Burden is Benedicta sit sancta Trinitas.

A Leaf being torn out, the End of this, and the Beginning of the next Ditty, are wanting. However, without the help of a Note at the Conclusion, I believe that this also was of Dan John's Composition.

43. The next (as I observed just now) is imperfect; but is plainly a Prayer to St. Edmund II. King of the East Angles & Martyr, the tutelar Saint of his Monastery & Ban-leuca (or Franchise) at Bury; the place where our pious Author was Professed and Resided. fol. 152.

The first Stanza which now remains, beginneth thus, Our Helpe, our Socour, our Mediatour, most cheefe.

And, at the End, is the usual Note in the Margin, Explicit, quod Lydgate.

44. The Poet's Satyrical description of his Mistress's person. fol. 153. b.

Beginn. My fayr Lady, so freshe ofe Hewe.

At the End is the usual Note, Explicit, quod Lydgate.

45. The Conclusion of some Ditty (not now easily to be found out) in three Stanzas. fol. 157.

Beginn. Put out his Hed, lyst nat for to dare.

These Stanzas plainly set forth the Punishment inflicted upon thievish Millers & Bakers; by putting them, not only into the Tumbrell, as of old; but into Wooden Bastile, as Hudibras says; by which, in this place, is not to be understood the Stocks, but a superior & more Conspicuous Machine, called the Pillory.

Our Author concludes —

They may cleyme, be just auctorite,

Upon that BASTILE to make an Ende.

Explicit, quod Lydgate.

2256. A Book in small folio, written partly upon Paper, and partly upon Parchment (that is, every Quarternio is guarded by Parchment-Leaves) wherein is contained,

The old Chronicle commonly called BRUTE; beginning thus, In the nobul Londe of Surre.

It endeth in the 8th Year of K. Henry VI. upon the taking of Johan d'Arc, otherwise called La pucelle d'Orleans.

2257. An imperfect Book (for it wants eight Leaves at the Beginning, & one at the End;) in large 4to. upon both Paper and Parchment; four Leaves being included in, or guarded by two of Parchment. It contains,

The far greatest part of an old Latin Dictionary, many of whose words are also explained in English. In the Inside of its present Cover, the Learned Mr. Samuel Knot (who sometimes wrote himself Canutus) hath putt down this Note, Iste

Num. 2258.

Liber videtur esse Medulla Grammaticæ Galfridi, sed auctior; et quædam verba omittuntur invicem: but whether it may not better agree with the Ortus vocabulorum printed by Wynkyn de Worde, I cannot now say, having not the Book at hand to peruse.

2258. A book in small folio, written upon Paper, & chiefly relating to our English History; where-in I find,

1. An Alphabetical Table directing to the principal Matters rehearsed in the ensuing Work. fol. 1.
2. The Epistle of Pilate to Tibery th'Emperour, concerning our Savior Jesus Crist; from the Speculum Historiale of Vincentius Belvacensis: likewise, at the End, Ricardus de S^{to}. Victore is named, perhaps by Vincentius. fol. 31.
3. A Narration concerning St. Patrike, & his Purgatore; from the same Vincentius. fol. 31. b.
4. Of oure Lady Sent Mare Virgynes goynge to Egipte: from the seide Vyncent. fol. 32.
5. The Genealogy from Adam to Ciprus, & so to the Trojans, &c. fol. 33. b. & 34.
6. The Genology of Sent Kateryne Virgyne & Martir. fol. 33. b.
7. Notes from Johne Hardyng touching the Origin of the Scotts, & their Subjection to England. ibid.
8. The Pistelle of Corneli, that he wrote out of Greke ynto Latyne, vnto Crispum Salust, of t^h History of Troy wretyne by Dare Friges. fol. 35.

Now follows the main work entituled

9. A Brevyat of the Cronacles of the Ile or Realme of Gret Bretayne, nowe callyde Ynglande; translatyde out of Latyne ynto Inglyshe, out of the Historyens boke, St. Gildas the Abbot; Geffray Monmouth; Rich. Cicestre Monke of Westmynstre; Mathewe Paris, Monke of Sent Albane; & of dyvers other Historyens: as Hughe Jeneses, John Hardyng, &c. i. e. another Chricle cited fol. 96. b. Colman the Chronicler, cited fol. 103. b. Matthew of Westminster, & Sr. John Froissard. This Work, after a Description of Britain, pretends to commence with the first Inhabitants of it, and ends at the Decease of K. Edward III. And is the Original of the Author, who lived in the time of K. Henry VIII. altho' some few Notes have been inserted since. The Collector is not free from Mistakes; & believed in the Legendary Stories then in Fashion; but otherwise, collected much good Matter. He seemeth not to have had John Hardyng by him when he first began, but to have made supplemental Collections from him afterward. I know not who his Author Hughe Jeneses was; but do percieve that the Annals of Richard of Chichester, as also an Abridgement of the same, are yet remaining in the Library at Corpus Christi-College in Cambridge. The many Vacances left for inserting of fresh Matter shew this to be an Original book; which yet appears clearer from the following Note, written within the first spare Leaf at the beginning. Raynolde Mohune Owner hereof by the gyfte of John Rewys Lawyer, & borne in the Countye of Cornewalle; who drewe & wrate thys Worke wythe hys owne hande, and brevyatyde owte of dyvers antyke Auctors. Whether this Mr. Rewys (or Reeves) drew down his Annals unto his own Time, in another Volume, I have not now Opportunity to enquire.

10. The Sur-names of the Persons of Reputation that intride into Inglande wyth William Conquerour. fol. 125. b.

2259. An old Heraldical book in very small folio, written upon Paper, whose chief Subject is the Science of Heraldry, as containing,

1. Tabula Expoficionis Armorum; five de Regulis & Differencijs principalibus: that is, a Table of the principal Matters treated of in this Work. fol. 1.
2. Some few Armes promiscuously Tricked or Colored; rudely, as the performances then were: the Owners names being too too often omitted: which defect renders this Book much less valuable than otherwise it would have been. fol. 6. b. 7. 10.
3. The namys of the chefe Chevtaynes that cam with William Conqueror in to Inglande. fol. 7. b.
4. The Armes of Derham quartering Ryveshall, as I take it, in a large Escoccheon; with the Name Thomas Derham, written in a Scroll above it, by the first hand. fol. 10. b. I do not hence conjecture that Derham made these Collections; but that rather that he might have been the owner of them; nor do I, at present, find his Name as an Officer of Armes. Now comes

5. The main Work, shewing one main Branch of the Science of Heraldry, touching the Art of Blasoning: being written in English, or French or Latin. fol. 11.

Besides this, here are Quotations from the learned Lawyer Bartholus, from Bartholomæus Anglicus, Franciscus, the Arbre des Battailes of Honore Bonet, Jaques de la Mont, &c. but above all, from the Treatise entituled Regula Aurea; which last is cited almost continually, from fol. 69. to fol. 174.

In this Work, I observe as I go along,

6. The Armes of some Communities; as of the Grey Friars, or Friars Minors of London. fol. 13. b. Villæ de Wodestokke. fol. 14. The trewe Armys, & the olde Armys of the Cyte of London (being St. Paul holding-up a naked Sword in his Right Hand) fol. 62. Of the Synke Ports. fol. 39. And of the University of Oxford (of which this is the oldest Instance that I now remember) at fol. 143.
7. Here are also some Remembrances of Armes antiently sett-up in sacred Buildings; which, possibly may not now be extant; or the notice of them to be met with else-where; as at Bowchyrche. fol. 53. Ludgate-Chyrche. fol. 75. Godstowe in Oxforthe-shere. fol. 105. Seynte Martine le Graunde. fol. 126. b. Seynt Katerynetz at the Tower. fol. 132. Whyte Frers in Flet-strete. fol. 166. Lombard-strete. fol. 70.
8. More might be observed about the Armes of particular Families; but I will only mention these Few; at fol. 135. are the Armes of HARLEY my noble Lord's Family, but without the Name. At fol. 24. I find the Armes of the Antient & Noble Family of Pawlet or Poulet; where the Swords are of a more antique Fashion, than those which I have seen delineated delineated in Q. Elizabeth's time. At fol. 155. are the Armes of Gorges; now, & long since called a Spiral Line; and, as such, delineated by the Herald-Painters. Now here, this book sheweth, that Theys Armyes were made aftyr a Whyrle-pytte of Water, because of hys Name, in Latin Gorges. At fol. 122. are the Armes of Noryce appellé, & of Leyaltone appellawnt. The former were borne with a Dyfferens, which is a Cross Patée Fichée. The Appellant's Armes are Quarterly; as to which, please to take this short Account, The Appellaunts Armyes were gave hym at o tyme; the Fyrst of the Kyngs Gyfte, and the Secunde of the Duc of Somersette (Edmund Beaufort) quod nota bene, quia raro videtur. These Armyes be nat comendyde, because a Grate that ys so comen a thyng, & so fowle, is sette in the Honor, i. e. in the Chief point. So at fol. 81. are these Armes, a Quarter base, Golde; in a feld Sabylle: with this Note, Theys Armyes be nat comendabyll, but yf (i. e. unless) the Metalle stode above.

Num. 2259.

9. Upon this mention of Metal in Armory, I chuse to bring out these Notes. At fol. 138. is a Shield thus blasoned, He berythe Golde. Theys Armyes, to bere Golde or Sylver alone, & no more, may be borne welle; and suche Armyes be & have ben, for suche Armyes were comyne at the begynnyng: and this justifies the Axiom, Arma non possunt esse sine Metallo. fol. 94. b. In which page another may be found, Quilibet potest assumere sibi Signum, sed non Arma: which is explained at fol. 110. by an Eschocheon adorned with an odd sort of a Charge, underneath which is this note, Theys be none Armyes, but a Marke as Marchawnts vse. For every mane maye take hyme a Marke, but non Armyes, withowte an Herowde or Purcyvawnte. I forbear to mention the ludicrous Charge in the Shield, at fol. 139. b. which the Compiler shews to be no Armyes, and that they were neuer geuen for Armyes but made for a Conceyte, to sette abovt a Creste, to make men muse on hem; & sic de similibus. It is not too late to add the following note relating to the Axiom abovementioned Arma non possunt esse sine Metallo. from fol. 180. There be some in Inglande bere with owte any Metalle. Herowds say they take heme of there owyne Autoryte; & some say, they were gene in olde tyme ex negligencia Haraldy. But, how so ever thy came, at thys day they be callyd none Armez; and also, they be agayne the Lawe of Armes: but ther be 3 or 4 suche Scochonys in Inglande, of olde Date.

10. Here are many more useful Notes, and Resolves upon Heraldical Questions of Importance, which I pass over, as not needful to be inserted in a short Catalogue: concluding with this Observation about our King Richard the Second's Supporters, if it be true, as I find it at fol. 76. Kyng Richard the 11d. forsoke the two Antloppys for hys Bests, & toke two whyt Hertys, beryng vp the Armyes with her bakkys.

In this Heraldical Book I likewise find,

11. The Armes ascribed to the World's Nine Worthies, in Blason; with a Ballad in their Praise. fol. 39. b.

12. Lez Armez de Roy & Seignours d'Engleterre plus aunceyux. fol. 76. b.

13. Lez Armez dez pluys noblez Chivalers d'Engleterre. fol. 185. b.

VOL. II.

Num. 2259. — 2262.

14. At fol. 53. b. is a large Eschocheon of the Armes borne by Sir James Strangwyshe Knight, with the Blason of the same, as given (in French) by Garter; which blason doth also appear at the bottom of the first spare leaf of the book. And, indeed, it seemes to have belonged to that antient & worshipful family, not long after it was compiled; for higher, in the same spare Leaf, I yet read Iste liber constat Ricardo Strangways.

..... After the Table, at fol. 6. the same Name is added; and again, at folio 190. where the work Endeth: which Richard Strangways was no Officer of Armes as I can find. But at fol. 121. b. are Lez Armez le Roy d'Engleterre & Fraunce, & Margarete sa Compayne, with the following Inscription above them, Iste libellus fuit compilatus A°. 32°. H. vi. and if we take Garter to be the Man, John Smert will be Him, for he was Garter anno 32 Hen. vi. and had but one Predecessor, namely Sir William Bruges; whom he seems to mean in the following Inscription, which he hath prefixed to the whole Work at folio 1. Pensa, Successor, in tui cordis oraculo de primo Predecessore, qui hoc nobile ex pluribus libris aggregatum (si dici possit) non minus Seipso predilexit; itaque et pro ejus Doctore, qui quidem in hac Lege, suis temporibus, floruit sine pare.

2260. A parchment book in a long 4to. wanting divers Leaves at the beginning, and written in old English verse: wherein was contained, An Explanation of the Pater-noster, with occasional Discourses or Strictures upon the several Virtues or Vices, which the Author thought Men should pray for, or against: translated from the Latin. In the last Page are these lines.

At pys tyme I wylle no more say
But ze þat haue hird pys, I zou pray þat ze pray for þam olde and zonge, þat turned pys in to Englys tonge,
Whare so þat þay be, or in what Stede,

- This is attested by one John Roberts, if I mistake not in reading his Name. I have known divers such as could write their Names plainly, affect Intricacy & Obscurity therein, for Silly & Ridiculous Reasons; chiefly arising from Self-conceit & Pride. I think that all these should oblige their Heirs or Successors for ever, to de-cypher their several Marks, Monograms, or Flourishes, to every Legal demandant, without Fee or Reward.

if, after his Losses, He shall be rigorously tied up to perform his Contract, it would very much tend to Ruin him. Yet, notwithstanding his present Disability, they think it not reasonable that Her Majesty should take the risque & hazard of the Loss of the Boats from the Enemy; or pay the prime Valuation of those which have been lost, they having been built of a much greater Burthen; and, consequently, at greater Expence than was contracted for, & with other Views and Designs, &c.

4. Copy of a Report from Sir Edward Northey, Attorney General, to Her Majesty, Dat. 3 Apr. 1707. fol. 6.

That he had consider'd the London-Butchers Petition exhibited against the Petition of Charles Hore & Richard Hore, for 3 weekly Markets to be holden, at a place (now newly by them assigned) called Vinegar Ground, for the sale of all Skins of Sheep & Lambs killed within the bills of Mortality: and that the said Markets would not be inconvenient to any; nor had the Butchers any sufficient cause of complaint.

5. Copy of the said Butchers Petition to the Queens Majesty, desiring to be heard, by their Council, against the said Market, before the Grant of it should Pass. fol. 7.

6. Copy of the Petition of the abovementioned Charles Hore & Richard Hore, to the Queen; setting forth their Services to the Publick; and, as a recompense, desiring to have the Markets aforesaid, to be holden in St. Johns Street, near Hickes's Hall.

7. Copy of a Report of Sir Simon Harcourt, Solicitor General, to the Queen, Dat. 8 March, 1706-7. fol. 9.

Setting forth that he had Consider'd the several Allegations of the Hore's Petition, & having acknowledged the Public Services done by them, agrees that the Markets by them prayed for, to be held near Hickes's Hall cannot by Law be granted; because not only that Neighbourhood, but the Sessions of Peace for Midelfex would be incommoded. But that if the like Markets should be granted to the Petitioners for 40 years, to be held in Vinegar Ground, it would be to nobodies Damage. This was done upon her Majesties Reference unto him.

8. Translation of Mr. Hores Patent for such Markets to be held on Vinegar Ground, as drawn by Mr. Jessop; bearing Teste 7 Aprilis, anno sexto Annæ Reginae. fol. 10.

9. Another Copy of the same. fol. 12.

This is an old English Poem, composed by a mean Genius; wherein, by Prosopopæia, the Blessed Virgin is introduced as Weeping, or as desirous to Weep, upon almost all the Emergencies of our Saviours Life. The conclusion may, perhaps, be wanting; but it begins thus,

Now late, me-thought, I wolde be-gynne.

Now follow, in the Way of Physic,

70. The Titles of the several Legends formerly contained in the whole Work. pag. ult.

Although the Name of our old English Poet may at this time be difficult to find out, yet the Thing itself is of considerable value not only upon account of its Rarity; I not remembring to have met with any other Exemplar of it: but also for the purity of its Language, its Age considered; and the Correctness of Him who wrote it. Yet these good Qualifications were not sufficient to keep it from being mangled, & filthily scribbled-upon, by the Children in the Family of Sanford of Comberstrey in Somersetshire, during the Reign of Queen Elizabeth. These seem, in their petulancy, to have pretended to write in a sort of Cyfer. fol. 55. 73. 182. b. 190. 218. where the Secret is only to express the Vowels

Henry VI. wherein are contained divers of the Poems of Dan John Lidgate Monk of Bury, illustrated by 120 Pictures, some bigger, others less; besides other embellishments of Illuminated Letters, so as to render this the finest Manuscript of our Language written in that Reign; at least, the finest of all that I have hitherto seen. These Poems are,*

1. A Description of one of the Banners feigned by the Poet to have been born by St. Edmund King of the East-Angles, in his War against the Danes: which, the Bard prophecies, would, if used by that unfortunate King Henry VI. make him always Successful. fol. 2.

The Picture representing this Banner gives Adam and Eve about the Tree of Life, as about to Eat the forbidden Fruit, reached unto the Woman by the Serpent, who enjoys an Human Shape down to the middle. Above is the Holy Lamb within a Golden Circle, & a Glory about his Head, with his Right Foot bearing up a Golden Cross florée fichée: the Red Ground within the said Circle being powder'd with Crescents, & without with Stars, all of Gold, as is the Tree it self: but the Figures of the Woman, Serpent, & Man, the Apples, & the Lamb, are all of Silver; although the Poet, in line 13. calls it A Lamb of Gold.

Two hundred dayes ys grantid off pardoun,
Write and registred afforn his hooly Shryne,
Which for our Feyth suffrede Passioun, Blyssyd Edmund Kyng, Martyr, and Virgyne.

Underneath, is the Picture of K. Henry VI. represented as a young Child, kneeling upon a Carpet, and praying before St. Edmunds Shrine, which is here delineated, before the Rules of Perspective were known in England. On one Side of this Shrine, stand two Monks; and behind the King stands an Officer holding-up the Sword of State, with three Noble-men, all bare-headed.

4. Lidgates Prologue to his Translation of the Life of St. Edmund, which he began at the Command of William (Curteis) his Abbat, in that year when the young King Henry VI. kept his Christ-mass at Burry-Abbey, tarrying there till Easter, when he was made a Brother of their Chapitle at his Departure. fol. 6.

Beginn. The noble Story to putte in remembrance.

Here this young & religious King is represented as sitting on his Throne Crowned, and receiving this Book from Abbat Curteis, who presents it kneeling: near whom a Monk holds another great Book. In the Presence stand many Monks, Officers, & Nobles, two of whom (perhaps the Kings Unkles) wear Bonets of a foreign Make; and an Officer bears-up the Sword of State. Within the Initial Letter is a Shield of the Royal Armes; as the out-side is adorned with a Panther seiant; which Beast was one of his Supporters.

5. Lidgates Prayer to St. Edmund for his Assistance in making the Translation of his Life. fol. 9.

Beginn. O precious Charboncle of Martirs alle.

Here Dan John is represented as praying before St. Edmund's Shrine; about which several persons are attendant. When ever his Works shall be printed together, this Picture of him may be of Use; it being the best I have hitherto seen.

6. Now comes the History itself, illustrated (as I observed before) with very many Pictures, composed after the old Manner; that is, representing, Habits, Weapons, Architecture, Utensils, &c. according to the Modes & Fashions then in Use, when & where the Illuminator Lived. It thus, fol. 10. b.

Beginn. In Saxonic whilom ther was a Kyng, Callid Alkmond, of excellent noblesse.

As to the Author of this Legend, I take him to have been Abbo Floriacensis, who coming over from beyond Sea, to see St. Dunstan about 3 years before that Saints death, that is, A. D. 985. received it from him, as he being very young, heard a very old man who had been Sword-bearer to St. Edmund relate it to King Æthelstan, who died A. D. 940. This may be read in my printed Catalogue of Saxon MSS. pag. 190. col. 1. where I am describing a Cottonian MS. which formerly belonged to this Abbey, and was not perused by Lidgate. Abbo's Legend seems to have been incorporated in John of Tinnmouth's large work, from whence he might easily borrow as many Lives of English Saints as he would have. Lidgate makes his Saint Edmund (fol. 14. b. 15. b. &c.) to have been a most comely Man; but Joscelin de Brake-lond a Monk of that Abbey, writes, that when, in the year 1198. Abbat Sampson made a new Shrine for this Saint (I suppose inballed) & had his Head in his Hands, — Et procedens, tetigit Oculos, et Nasum valde grossum & valde eminentem, which intimates that he could not have been handsome, whose Features were irregular & disproportionate.

Next follows, another Work of our Translator Lidgate, written & illuminated by those who prefixed did what went before; with this Latin Rubric

7. Incipit Vita Sancti Fremundi, egregij Martiris Edmundi carissimi consanguinei, qui ejusdem Martiris interfectores, Domino invitante prostravit graciose; una cum Miraculis Edmundi Martiris antedicti, prout in post sequentibus clarius elucescit. fol. 69. b.

Beginn. Who kan remembre the Myracles merucilous, Whiche Crist Jhesu list for his Seyntes shewe.

The main Author of St. Fremunds Life might be that Burchard of Dorchester mentioned by Pits to have been an old Mon A. D. 870. Tis extant in Saxon; in Latin it is taken into John of Tinnmouth's large Collection of Saints Lives (and consequently, to be found in Capgrave) and was turned into Hexameter Verse by William of Croyland. To this Life, Lidgate hath made many Additions of his own, besides his Legend of St. Edwards Miracles.

And þus is þis boke made into parties seuene.

And of euery part a man here fynde may Dyuers maters, ho þat wile assay.

The beginning of this Work, which gives not the Authors name, is in the Words following,

The myght of þe Fader of Heuene, þe wyt of þe Soone, wiþ ziftes seuene,
And þe goodnesse of þe holy Gost,
God and Lord of myghtes most,
Be oure helpe and oure spede,
Now and euere in al oure nede,
And specialy at þis begynnynge,
And bringe vs alle to good endynge.

2282. A Book in folio, loosely written; bound in Red Turkey, the Cover on both Sides being adorned with the Royal Armes; wherein are contained,

1. A Relation or Diary of the Siege of Vienna, from the 6th of May, 1683. soon after which it was invested by Cara Mustapha the then Grand Vizir to Sultan Mahomet IV. continued to the 15th of September following; which was three days after its Relief. Before it, are prefixed,
2. A German Chorographical Print, shewing the Disposition of the Turkish Camp round about Vienna, with the circum-jacent Countrey: the Letters or Signatures being explain'd in English Writing.
3. A larger Topographical Print of the Fortifications of Vienna, and of the Fields adjacent.
4. Explication of the designatory Figures used in that Print: in English.

Collected by Mr. Heyward Townesende, being a Burgesse in the sayd Parliamente for Byshopps-Castle in Shrop-shire. fol. 1.
It appears that Sir Simonds D'ewes made some Use of this Work, in his Journal of the Parliaments held in that Queens Reign.
 2. A Catalogue of the Acts read in this Parliament, and vpon what dayes the same were reade. fol. 124. b.
 3. Part of the Ceremonial of our Kings Coronation, reciting the Questions asked him touching his preserving our Constitution both in Church and State, with his Promises & Oath to maintain the same. fol. 130.
This is said to be found among the Records of the Exchequer; and to have been published in his Majesties Answer to a Remonstrance of the 26th of May, 1642.
At the other End of the Book, I find,
 4. A Speech deliuered in Parläment by Sir Benjamin Ruddard: in my poor Opinion, as Seditious in it self, as this Copy of it is incorrectly written.
2284. *A Paper-book in folio, given to my noble Lord divers years since, by Sir Robert Worsey Baronet; being, on the out-side, thus entituled, The boke of Delyueraunce and Discharge of the Kings Standynge Warde-robe of his Robes withyn the Towre of Londone; newe made anno Regni Regis Henrici VIII. 8vo.  2. The Answer of Joseph Thompson Clerk, one of the Defendants, to that Bill, 27th Jan. ann. 28 Caroli II. fol. 14.
Denying the Combination charged upon him.
 3. The Answer of Nicolas Osburne one of the Defendants, to the said Bill; 9 Febr. A. D. 1676. fol. 21.
Denying the Combination; and shewing, that Overbury had Sued two of the Complainants for the said 2s. 9d. in the Pound, and was resolved to levy the same upon all the improved Ground within his Parish, notwithstanding any Decree that should be made, in the Exchequer, to the contrary.
 4. An Order of the Court made 6 Febr. ann. 29 Caroli II. that the said Osburne should bring into the Court, all Books in his Custody, relating to the Tithes of St. Dunstons Parish aforesaid.

Num. 2298.

5. The Answer of Nicholas Overbury Esq; to the Bill above-mentioned. fol. 31.
Setting forth, that he had conveyed his Rectory of St. Dunstan's to one Sarah Jevon, together with all Tithe-books relating to the same. He thinks the Vicars never enjoyed any Glebe there, through any Composition, but only by Lease, upon a Rent reserved. He denies likewise all Combination, making of New Books of Rates, or obliterating the old ones; but saith that he hath none remaining by him, he having delivered them up to Mrs. Jevon.
6. The Answer of Roger Scudamore to the said Bill of Complaint: 20 Nov. ann. 29 Car. II. fol. 37.
Shewing, that Richard Cox the former Improprator of St. Dunstons, & Mr. Thompson the present Vicar had conveyed the Rectory and Vicarage to him, in Trust, for themselves. And that afterwards, the Vicar had earnestly entreated him to assign-over his Interest in the Premises to Himself; and that the Plaintiffs Solicitor had applied to him, that he might draw-up his Answer to the said Bill: both whom he refused.
7. The Answer of Sarah Jevon, to the said Bill of Complaint. fol. 39.
Affirming, that she bought the Rectory by the Advice of Sir Francis Pemberton who was her Counsel; that therefore she conceives that she hath a good Title unto all the Glebe & Tithes of the said Parish; but saith nothing of any Tithe-books, Rentals, or Terriers, &c. ibid.
8. An Order of the Court, that Mr. Scudamores proceedings against the Plaintiffs shall be respited, until Mrs. Jevon shall have putt-in a sufficient & perfect Answer to their Bill of Complaint. ibid.
9. The further Answer of Sarah Jevon Widdowe, to the said Bill of Complaint. fol. 40.
Mostly like that of Mr. Overbury; but now she owns that she hath some of the Tithe-books & Rentals, but not all, she not having been able to gett some of them out of his Hands. She denies all Combination, obliterating or defacing the old Books, or making of New ones, excepting some to collect by.
10. An Order of the Court, whereby Mrs. Jevon was obliged to deliver-in all her Tithe-books, to be perused by the Plaintiffs, for one Month; which expired, Mr. Scudamore might proceed.
11. Record of the Oath taken by Mrs. Jevon, 19 Aug. ann. 30 R. Caroli II. that she had deliver'd-in all her Rentalls, Terrars, & Books of Rates, relating to the Tithes of St. Dunstons Parish, without altering or defacing the same. fol. 46.
12. Memorandums made by Samuel Grant, touching Mrs. Jevon's bringing-in the said Books; and of their being consulted at several times. fol. 46.
13. The Answer of John Grant, Clerke, to the Bill of Complaint before-mentioned. fol. 48.
This was Sworn-to by the said Mr. Grant the new Vicar, the 6th of December, 1678. who chimes-in directly with his Patroness Mrs. Jevon; and charges the Plaintiffs with keeping & concealing several of the Parish-Tithe-books from him, who ought to have the Custody of them; and of raising all this Dust with intent, under that pretext, to deteine in their Hands the Rightes & Dewes belonging vnto the said Church, & soe, for a time to Suspend, if not absolutely Avoid the Payment thereof to either of them.

Num. 2298. — 2299.

14. The Replicacon. of Sir Francis Pemberton, &c. Plaintiffs, to the Answer of Sarah Jevon Widdowe, & John Grant Clerke, Defendants. Term. Mich. ann. 30 R. Caroli II. fol. 57.
Justifying the several Allegations in their Bill of Complaint, against the Defendants Answers; and offering to prove the same.
 15. An Order of the Court, made the 26th of November, 1678. for taking the Depositions of Witnesses on both Sides; and for hearing the Causes of the Plaintiffs against the Defendants; and that of Mr. Scudamore against the said Defendants, both together. fol. 58.
 16. Interrogatories to be administred to Witnesses, to be produced & examined on the parte & behalfe of Sir Francis Pemberton, &c. Complainants, against Sarah Jevon & John Grant Defts. fol. 59.
 17. Names of the Witnesses who were Sworne, in January 1678-9. fol. 60.
 18. Depositions of the said Witnesses taken before William Mountague Lord chief Baron of the Court of Exchequer, in this Cause. fol. 61.
These were on the Side of the Complainants.
 19. Interrogatories to be administred to Witnesses to be produced, sworne, & examined, on the parte & behalfe of Sarah Jevon Widdowe, John Grant, Clerke, and Niccolas Overbury Esq; three of the Defendants to the Bill of Complaint of Sir Francis Pemberton, & others. fol. 97.
 20. Depositions of the Defendants Witnesses. fol. 99.
 21. Order of the Court, made the 26th of March, anno 30 Caroli II. for the Examination of the Witnesses on both Sides, and for Hearing this Cause the next Terme. fol. 107.
 22. Order of the Court upon a Representation for the Defendants, that they were not ready, because the Complainants did not finish the Examination of their Witnesses soon enough, that the same should be finished within 4 days. Dat. 24 Januar. 1678. fol. 108.
 23. Order of the Court, appointing a day for the Trial; and that the Defendants should bring-in all their Tithe-books; and about the Examination of Mr. Robert Lambert, &c. Dat. 27 March, 1678. fol. 109.
 24. Order of the Court, that these Causes be putt-off untill the Setting-downe of Causes after this Terme, because Mr. Serjt. Maynard & Mr. Attorney Generall, who were of Counsell with the Defendants, could not attend, being concerned in a tryall of the Kings Bench, on his Majesties behalfe. Dat. 7 Febr. 1678. fol. 110.
 25. Order of the Court appointing another Day for the Hearing of these Causes, at Serjeants Inne-Hall. Dat. 24 Febr. 1678. fol. 111.
 26. Cross-Interrogatories to be administred on the behalfe of the Defendants, vnto Roger Lambert, a Witnesse for the Plaintiffs in both their Causes. 4 Febr. 1678. fol. 112.
 27. Copies of all the Records and Evidences produced by the Defendants in the main Cause. fol. 116. to the End.
2299. A Book in folio, being one of those lately belonging to Hugh Thomas the Armes Painter, and written by several Hands, among which his Hand appears to be one. It contains,
1. A large Collection of Welch Pedegrees, especially of North Wales; drawn up chiefly in the Welsh

Num. 2299. — 2304.

Welsh Tongue, and in a confused & intricate Method; to which some Additions have been made.

Preceding this Collection, I find,

2. An Explication of the Letters or Marks used in this, or some other Work.
- 3 A Table of the proper Names of Persons or Places, I suppose herein mentioned, but not so easy to be found out by it.

2300. A book in folio lately belonging to Mr. Hugh Thomas the Armes Painter, written by several Hands, and now damaged by Thumbing, Spittle, &c. wherein I find,

1. A Collection of Caermarthenshire Pedegrees, improved by many late Additions.
2. Pedegrees of Welsh and English Families, mixed; with some Church-Notes & other Observations.

2301. A Book in folio, thus entituled,

Nomenclator Navalis: or, an exact Collection & Exposition of all Words & Tearmes of Art, belonging to the Parts, Qualities, Conditions, Proportions, Rigging, Fitting, Mannageing, & Sayling of Shippes; with other Necessaries to be knowne in the Practique of Navigation.

The Authors name is studiously concealed; and in this Copy (which is pretty fairly written) what is promised in the Title by these Words, Also including so much of the Art of Gunnery, as concernes the Use of Ordinaunce at Sea; by which, I understand a particular Treat or Discourse upon this Subject, is wholly omitted.

2302. A Book in folio, consisting of two Treatises written by different Hands; being,

1. A Replication in further Meintenaunce of Free Will, to an Answere of a Protestant Devyne to the Treatise in that behalf first made by a Romish Catholicke Priest: by one . . . Burne another Popish Priest.

This Copie is in many Places Corrected and Enlarged, perhaps by its Author.

2. At the beginning, is a Note of certaine Contents of this Discourse.

Next follows,

3. A Treatise imperfect at both Ends, written in Answer to some other Book against the Being or Existence of Witches: perhaps that published by Reginald Scot. fol. 57.

2303. A Book in folio, fairly enough written, but by several Hands; wherein is contained,

A sort of Ecclesiastical History of England, from before the Mariage of K. Henry VIIIth, with Anne Bullen, to the Execution of Mary Queen of Scots; by a zealous Roman Catholick Lawyer, who promised to add another Volume to this Work; which Volume I have not yet seen.

At the End, are the Contents of the 12 Chapters whereof this First part of the Work consists.

At the Beginning, is an Epistle Dedicatory to the late K. James II. by H. Tichborne who was not the Author.

This Book being bound in blue Turkey, gilded on the Edges, &c. may have been that designed for a Present to the said King.

2304. A thinish Book in folio, wherein is contained,

An Extraitt from, or Part of the Journal of the House of Peers, during the Parliament holden 2306. A Book in folio containing a Collection of Authorities setting forth the Privileges of the Barons of England; collected out of the Parliament Rolles & Journalles, Patent & Close Rolles, Plea-Rolles, Crowne-Rolles, Proceedings of the English Courtes att Westminster, The Registers of the Archbishop of Canterburie, and of the Delegates, Yeare-Bookes of the Common Lawe, Statuts, and other good Authorities; and in such Sorte, that frequentlie the Wordes of chiefe Testimonies are transcribed, least the freedome of the Readers Judgement might be otherwise prevented by shorte Collections.

These Privileges concerne our Nobilitie, either as they are one Estate together in the Vpper Howse: or as everie of them is privately a Single Baron.

As to those of the first Kind, the Compiler reduceth them into the following Heads:

1. Of Proxies of the Lords of Parliament. fol. 3.
2. Priviledges in Suites, as well for their Followers as for Themselves, during the Parliament. fol. 7.

3. Noe Peere of the Vpper Howse to be called to Answer in the Lower Howse onely. fol. 8.

4. The Jurisdiction of the Lords of Parliament, in Matters of Offences not Capitall. fol. 9.

5. Judgements of Offences not Capitall. fol. 18.

6. Judgments vpon Writts of Error in Parliament. fol. 57.

7. Bills passed, and Judgements giuen, without assent of the Lordes Spirituall. fol. 59. b.

8. Their appointinge Judges oute of themselves, for Examynation of Judgments in other Courts. fol. 63. b.

9. Their Tenants of ancient Tenances beinge discharged of payinge the Charges of Knightes of the Shire. fol. 65.

Then follow, Priviledges, or specialle Rightes that concerne the Barons that haue Place in Parliament, as they are, euerie one, single in their owne Private Estates, viz.

10. Touchinge Oathes, & Protestacon vpon Honor. fol. 66.

11. Their Assertory Othes in Cases of Triall by 12. or 24. fol. 67. b.

12. Barons being Wittnesse. fol. 68.

13. Barrons answering to Billes, as Defendants. fol. 69. b.

14. Examined as Plaintiffs in Actions of Debt, vpon Arrerages of Accompts. fol. 72.

15. Of the Forme vsed in Swearinge of Spirituall & Temporall Barons. fol. 72. b.

16. Triall by Peeres. fol. 73. b.

17. Scandala Magnatum. fol. 82.

18. Process against them in English Courte, proceeding by Bill & Answer. fol. 82. b.

Num. 2306. — 2310.

19. Their number of Chapleyns qualified. fol. 84.

20. Their Retayneinge of Strangers. fol. 84. b.

21. Clergie. fol. 85.

22. Their Lybertie of Huntinge in the Kinges Forestes. fol. 86.

23. Amerciaments. fol. 86. b.

24. Noe Proces, in Civill Actions, to be awarded against the Bodie of a Baronn. fol. 88.

25. A Knight to be restored vpon euerie Pannell, where a Baron is Partie. fol. 90.

26. No Daye of Grace against a Baron. fol. 90. b.

27. Making Deputies in places of Truste committed to them. fol. 91.

Now comes an Observation endeavoring to evince

28. That Bishopps are only Lords of Parliament, but not Peers; because they are not of Triall by Nobility. fol. 92.

2311. A Book in 8vo. written by the Hand of a pious Gentlewoman Mrs. Anne Cromwell; who at the Beginning hath putt her Name to it, thus, Anna Cromwell 1656; and lower, thus, Now Anna Williams 1660.

I making some Enquiry after Her about 5 years agoe, received the following Account from her Husbands Kinsman Henry Cromwell Esq; who may be still living for ought I know. “Ann Cromwell” was the Wife of Henry Cromwell Esq; of “Ramsey, who was the Son of Coll. Henry Cromwell, the son of Sir Oliuer Cromwell, who were, all three, Royalists. And in the year. 60. Henry Cromwell of Ramsey changed his Name to Williams, being a Courtier: and from thence She wrote her Name Ann Williams. They died without Issue; and the Estate of Ramsey was Sold to Colonell Titus. Sir Oliuer was the Head of the family: Oliuer the Protector was a Nephew to Sr. Oliuer; Mr. Cromwells father was a Newhew to Sir Oliuer; He (I suppose means himself) has seen this Mrs. Ann Williams; She was an excellent Lady.”

In the front She hath prefixed this Title, A Booke of severall Deuotions, collected from good Men, by the Worst of Sinners Anna Cromwell 1656. To make prayer sweete unto God, five things belongeth, Knowledge of him, Zeale towards him, Loue to him, Feare of his wrath, and Hope of his Loue.

This premised; I proceed to give the Contents thereof more particularly, thus,

1. A Prayer to be sayed, as soone as one comes into the Church. pag. 1.

81. Of St. Hieroms little book, consisting only of four Leaves, which he constantly carried about him. pag. 376.
82. His Description of St. Paula's Funeral. pag. 380.
83. St. Ambroses Prayer on the day of Judgment. pag. 384.
It seems that this devout & religious Lady, as well as her Husband, was desirous of Issue, as appears in the pages 265. 266. & 207. which God did not grant unto them. Who can say that if they had had Children, they would not have proved Rebellious, Wicked, & great Afflictions? Note, that all from page 367, seemeth to have been written by some female hand different from Mrs. Cromwells.
2312. A Book in 8vo. handsomly bound in red Turkey, gilt & adorned with the Armes of Sir Kenelm Digby on the Cover, & with his Cypher on the back: wherein I find,
1. A Prayer for the Church Catholick. fol. 1.
This seems to be written by a female hand; and, as I conjecture from the following Tract, by the Lady Frances Villiers Vice-countess of Purbeck.
 2. Sir Kenelme Digbies Treatise upon this Question, What Faith & Religion is the True one, to bring us to æternall Happineffe? fol. 4.
This is the Original of his own Hand-writing, written in 3 days; & dated at Paris, 13 Jan. 1636. for the use, & gaining over to the Church of Rome of the Lady above-mentioned; who was daughter of Sir Edward Coke Lord Chief Justice, & Wife of Sir John Villiers (an elder Brother to George Duke of Buckingham) who was created Viscount of Purbeck A. D. 1618. In prosecuting this Discourse, Sr. Kenelm seems to argue more like a Philosopher than a Divine; nor doth his Work carry such a Conviction with it as he would pretend.
 3. A short Tract written also by Sir Kenelm Digby Concerning the Operations of the Soule. fol. 94.
 4. A Prayer for the King & State. fol. 102.
This seems to have been written by a devout Female, of the Romish Religion, as appeareth by the Conclusion. She, after lamenting the National Crimes, prayeth for the Restauration of K. Charles II.
2313. An Oblong book in 8vo. opening like a Music-book, and beginning at both ends; wherein I find, Brief & cursory Notes taken in the Commons house of Parliament the 26th 27, & 28 of March 1627, as I take it: and then beginning again at 31 August 1627, carried on for a much longer space of time.
2314. A Book in 8vo. formerly belonging to one Mr. Edward Beaver; who seems, at first, to have been preferred in Cambridge-shire; afterwards, to have been Parson of Wickham in Hamshire; with which Church, he held a Prebend in Chichester; and, keeping both these, became a Steward or Bayly to the Lord Powerscourt. Hereinto, at various times, he Entred his Accompts, Receipts, & other Memorandums, confusedly enough; among which, I shall mention only these few Particulars that follow: vizt.

1. Notes taken at Mr. Sherwoods Lecture in Westminster-Abbey, against Rebellion. fol. 2. b.
2. Some other short Notes taken at other Sermons. fol. 8.
3. Diagrams of some Constellations, as they stand in the North-Hemispher of Heaven. fol. 9. b.
4. Notes taken from the Court-Sermons of the Lent-Preachers, A. D. 1673. fol. 16.
5. Two Epigrams; one against Purgatory, the other against Transubstantiation. fol. 30.
6. Particulars, as to Mr. Beavers Receipts & Disbursements at Wickham, &c. fol. 30. b.
Here are likewise some other Notes taken from Discourse, as well as from Books.
7. His Receipts & Payments in the Lord Powerscourts Business, from A. D. 1691. fol. 70. b.
8. At the other End of the book is some Writing; but nothing of Moment.

2315. A Book in 8vo. containing only two short Traëts, written upon 44 leaves: vizt.

1. Short Memorials of some things to be cleared, during my Command in the Army. fol. 1.
This is Signed at the Beginning & End with the Monogram F; nevertheless, I cannot from hence affirm that it is the Original, written by Sir Thomas Fairfaxes Hand. Herein, he apologizes for his Actions during his Command over the whole Parliament-Army (denying some things done under Color of his Name & Authority) untill his Commission was taken from Him.
2. A short Memorial of the Northern Actions, during the Warr there: from the yeare 1642, till 1644. fol. 14. (Written by the same Hand) and, at the End subscribed F.
I am apt enough to believe, that in this Relation Sir Thomas Fairfax hath sett-down matters relating to his Father & to Himself, impartially; and, the rather, in that he writing how his Lady (in the fight between Bradford & Leeds) was taken by that illustrious Hero William Cavendish then Earl, afterward Duke of Newcastle, hath these Words. fol. 33. "And (not many dayes after) the Earle of Newcastle sent my wife
"back againe, in his Coach, with some Horse
"to guard Her: the which Generosity gained
"more then any Reputation he would haue
"gott in detaining a Lady Prisoner vpon such "terms."

fabulosæ sive Legendariæ, ex alijs Auctioribus de-sumptæ, quibus nonnunquam Anglica verba permixta leguntur. fol. 53.
56. De Miraculis Beate Virginis Mariæ. fol. 58. b.
2317. A Book in 8vo. seeming to have been written in the time of K. James 1. by some Popish Priest, belonging to some of the noble Family of Talbot;
as being with other MSS. bought out of the late Duke of Shrewsburies Library. Herein, I find,
1. Notes of the Six Ages of this World. fol. 1.
2. Notes out of the ould Bible (i. e. Old Testament; & perhaps, according to the Vulgate, or Doway-Translation.) fol. 2.
Many of these Notes are Collected as proofs against the Doctrine of the Church of England: some are Collected from St. Augustin, &c. and in fol. 2. b. is an Observation, becoming a Popish Priest, upon the Arch-bishops of Canterbury; as in fol. 9. b. is such another about the Kings of England.
3. Like Notes out of the New Testament. fol.
19.
*Here are more quotations from St. Augustin, Ambrose, Hierom; and fol. 24. b. are the Collectors Notes whereby to know the true Church, i. e.
the Church of Rome.*
4. A Note of Herreticks, & their severall Herresies. fol. 41.
Among these, are four of modern times; of whom the Collector writeth thus, Luther, died suddänly after feasting. Swinglius, slaine in the warr against the Catholiks. Carlostadius, slaine by the Diuell. Caluine, eaten with wormes.
5. Ecclesiastical Ordinances appointed by sundry Popes.
fol. 43.
Among these, are mentioned some others by St. Jer-rom, St. Ambrose, & St. Bonaventure.
6. Falsifications of Scripture. fol. 45.
Here, the Collector taxeth several Editions or Translations of the English Bible; Right, or Wrong.
7. That the Tolleration of the Stewes, is an allowance of vnchast Lyfe, or vnlawfull. fol.
47.
This is a Defence of the Popes, in reference to the licensed Bordellos at Rome.
8. Notes of the death and Martyrdome of the Apostles & others. fol. 49.
9. Historical Notes out of Hooker alias Vowell, a Protestant Cronicler. fol. 50.
Then follows in another hand, more incorrect than the former,

Num. 2317. — 2320.

10. A Prayer of some young person, or Novice; for Grace to prepare himselfe to receaue the blessed Sacrament worthily.
2318. A book in 8vo. whose Cover is adorned with the Badge used by Queen Anne Boleyn; & the Inside written by two Hands; where I find,
1. A frughtfull Exhortation to a Sicke Person, to prepare against his End: made by Docter Willet of Barle, and by him sent to Sir Arthure Capell in his long sicknes. fol. 1. b.
 2. A Prayer for one that is sick. fol. 8.
 3. Some pious Ejaculations & Prayers to God. fol. 11.
 4. A Morning-Prayer. fol. 14.
 5. A Confession of Sins. fol. 15. b.
 6. Devout Meditations. fol. 16. b.
 7. A short Catechisme. fol. 18.
 8. Other Ejaculations. fol. 22.
 9. The Glory of a Christian. fol. 23.
This is a short Passage taken from Boltons works, about opposing the Growth of Sin; and is written (like as the ensuing Treatise) in a smaller, but more incorrect Hand.
 10. The Linckes of breeding Sin: another Paragraph, perhaps, from the same Author. ibid.
 11. A Treatise setting-forth what happened in the Council summoned by K. Philipp III. of Spain, to which Count Gondamar being purposely recalled from England, was to make a Report of his Intrigues here. A. D. ni 1618. fol. 24.
I hold this to be a forgery, and to have been minted by a Puritanical Workman. I have seen it elsewhere, both in Manuscript, & in Print.
2319. A thin book in 8vo. seeming to have been copied, in-correctly enough, by some Lawyers Clerk, toward the End of King Charles the Seconds Reign. It is entituled,
Mrs. Babylons Looking-glass: or, a breif description of the doings in Satans Sinagoge, otherwise called the Church of England, which is mounted upon the Beasts, and a-going with Speed in the wide way of Destruction: and many clear truths laid togather worth your Observation. Written by a Servant of Christ, whose name is written in the Book of Life.
The name of this un-worthy Servant of Christ doth not appear; but his silly performance shews him to have been a Quaker, and dwelling not far from Hitchin & Ecclesford: vid. fol. 38. 39. 43. & 44. The Work, such as it is, is all in doggrel Rhymes, as scandalous as wicked. He endeavors to ridicule the holy Sacrament of Baptism. fol. 32. Episcopal Visitation. fol. 37. Confirmation. fol. 41. Both Universities. fol. 44. and our reverend Bishops & Clergy, almost every where. I could be more particular in describing these scandalous Ballads, but I really think they do not deserve more Time or Pains.
2320. A parchment-book in 8vo. much damaged, but long since; wherein I find,
1. An imperfect Latin Calendar, beginning in May; but yet damaged by Moisture. fol. 1.
 2. An Astrological Tract, fairly written in old English (as the others are which follow) seeming (in fol. 6) to have been Translated from the Destnary of pe hye sotulle Astronomoure Bartholmew. It gives prognostications, of the Personages, Conditions, Fortunes &c. of both Men & Women, according as they happen to be born under the
VOL. II.

Num. 2320. — 2321.

- Dominion of any of the 12 Signs of the Zodiac. fol. 5.*
In the principal Letter is the Effigies of the Author or Translator, as Praying: and his Invocation begins with these Words, Fader riztful, enformyng rechelesse, ech in on, nedefully acceptynge.
3. An Astrological Poem, teaching when to Buy & Sell; to lett Bloud or Surgery; interpretation of Dreams; when to Build; go to Sea; Childrens Fortunes, &c. all from the Day of the Moons Age, if the Author or Translator may be believed. fol. 31.
In the principal Letter, he is represented as Sitting at his Study; his Work beginning thus,
He þat wol herkyn of Wit
þat ys witnest in holy Wryt;
Lyftenyth to me a stonde,
Of a Stori y schal zow telle;
What tyme ys good to byen & to sylle,
In bok as hyt ys y-fownde.
4. Directions for making many Sorts of Laces, which were in Fashion in the times of K. Henry VI. and Edward IV. such as Lace Bascon, Lace endented, Lace bordred on bope sydes, yn o syde, þykke Lace bordred, Lace Condrak, Lace Dawns, Lace Piol, Lace couert, Lace couerte doble, Lace compon couerte, Lace maskel, Lace cheyne brode, Las Cheueron, Lace oundé, Grene dorge, Lace for Hattys, &c. fol. 52.
In the principal Letter, is a damaged figure of a Woman sitting, & making of Lace.
5. Two Medicinal Receipts; but not said what they are good for. fol. 70. b.
6. Litera Dominicalis; or, Prognostications from the Dominical Letter. fol. 72.
7. Two Receipts for the Mother. fol. 72. b.
2321. Codex membranaceus in 8vo. min. partim Latine, partim Anglice scriptus; quo continentur,
1. Sermo Francisci de Märonis de Indulgencijs: scil. in illud, Quodcunque ligaveris super Terram, erit ligatum et in Celis; et quodcunque solveris super Terram, erit solutum et in Celis. fol. 1.
 2. Sermo de Indulgencijs, presertim de Indulgencijs Monasterij de Syon. fol. 17.
This long Sermon is upon the Text Tibi dabo claves regni Celorum; Matth. xvi. being part of the Gospel for the festival of St. Peter ad Vincula, commonly called Lam-mas-day. It is written in English, & treateth largely of the Nature of Pardons & Indulgences in general, and of those impetrated at the Court of Rome, for the Birgittin Monastery of Syon in Midelfex, by Father Thomas Fysheborune (f. leg. Fyshebourne) in particular.
 3. Hou the Pardon of Affyse was graunted to S. Fraunceys, by the Pope of Rome Honorius III. fol. 62. b.
In the preceding Discourse, frequent mention is made of this Pardon; and the like was procured for Syon for every fourth Sondag of Lentone, or Lent.
 4. B. Augustini Sententiæ tres, notatu dignissimæ; aliena, & recentiori manu. fol. 64.
De Damnatione certa omnium Paganorum, Judæorum, Hæreticorum, atq; Schismaticorum, nec non pravorum Catholicorum.

BIBLIOTHECÆ HARLEIANÆ.

Num. 2324. — 2326.

2324. A Velum-book in 12mo. containing a Theological Treatise, written in old English, and entituled A Lanterne of Litz. It is divided into 13 Chapters, which bear the Titles following,

1. The Prolog, or Introduction. fol. 1. b.
2. Of Appeticioun. fol. 4.
3. What is Anti-Crist in general; wip Six Conditiouns. fol. 5. b.
4. What is Anti-Crist in special; with hife pre Parties. fol. 13.
5. What is Anti-Crist in special; with fiue Conditiouns. fol. 16.
6. What is þe Chirch oonli propprid to God?
wip hir Names, Lickneffis, and Condiouns.
fol. 20. b.
7. What is þe material Chirche; with hir Ho-nourmentis. fol. 33. b.
8. Of Good & Yuel comyng to þis material
Chirche. fol. 41. b.
9. Off Discrecioun, to knowe þe Good from þe Yuel. fol. 45.
10. How þe Good of þe secounde Chirche acorden with þe firste Chirche, fol. 69. b.
11. Of Joye in Tribulacioun. fol. 72.
12. Of þe Fendis Cautels, in which he pursueþ in hife Membris þe Kepers of Goddis Heestis.
fol. 76.
13. What is þe Fendis Chirche; with hir Propur-tees. fol. 119. to the End.

*The Author was a Lollard, as plainly appeareth in fol. 10. & 94. b. He complaineth of the taking away of the Books of Scripture, then translated into English, from the Laity, & for punishing those who did read or quote the same. fol.
17. b. & 93. b. He bitterly inveiyeth against the Pope as Anti-Crist; against Bishops, and Clergy both Regular & Secular, and their Officers. As to the Author, from the Nature of the Work it self; the Way of Handling it; the Style; & the Authors or Books cited by him; I am of Opinion that it might be JOHN WY-CLYFFE: although I have not now Bale at hand to consult; and find that he is omitted (as having been an Heretic, forsooth!) by partial Pitts; that Leland mentions but few of his Writings; and even Mr. Hen. Whartons Account of them is sometimes dubious, and (in the main) imperfect.*

2325. A book in 12mo. easily known by its remarkably-bad Hand, to have been (for the most part) written by John Lord Robarts, afterwards Earl of Radnor & Lord Privy-Seal. It contains,

1. Some loose Notes relating to our Parliaments,
&c. fol. 1. 2. b.
2. Qua ratione Galli amiserunt Libertatem suam, et Bonorum proprietatem. fol. 2.
3. Notes collected from the Journal of the House of Peers, of ann. 3 Caroli 1. fol. 4. b. 51. b.
4. *Some Notes from the Lords Journal of ann. 1
Caroli 1. fol. 6. 11. 13. 40.*
5. Turning-up the other End of the book; I find,
6. More tumultuary Notes taken by the same Lord from Journals of Parliament, Statutes, & some other Books, for his own use.

2326. A book in 12mo. fairly written; or transcribed by some Writing-master, as I suppose. It contains,

A Treatise of the Duty of a General or Commander in Chief; compiled by Tristram Tyrwhyte, for the particular Use & Help of Robert Dudley Earl of Leicester, who solicited Qu. Elizabeth

Num. 2326. — 2327.

for the Command of an Army in the Netherlands. The Authors Dedication is dated the sure. fol. 43.

Toward the Beginning & End, are some other scraps of Authors scribled by a Schole-boy.

2327. A Popish Book in 8vo. wherein I find the following Tracts.

1. The Maner how to make our Confession.
fol. 1.
This also includes a method of previous Examination.
2. The manner of the preparing of any one vnto the receiuing of the most holie Sacrament of the Eucharist. fol. 27. b.
3. Concerning the holie Office & Service of the Masse. fol. 36. b.
4. A forme & manner of profitablie hearing the Word of God. fol. 42.

inge at Bed-tyme. fol. 63.
12. A Forme & Manner of Ryfing in the Morninge. fol. 64.
13. Other Directions, Prayers, & Meditations for the vnlearned Sort. fol. 65. b.
Then follows what is here called The Second book of Godly & Christian Institutions; treating of
14. Remedies vnto the keeping of the Catholike & Christian Faith. fol. 84.
Here (at fol. 88.) the Author owns that he wrote this book A. D. 1576.
15. Remedies against the Custome of Swearing.
fol. 92. b.

26. Meanes unto Patiens. fol. 108. b.
27. Meanes to obteyne the true Joye of Hert.
fol. 110.
Then follow, in different Hands,
28. A Tract endeavoring to prove against the Protestants, that the Roman is the true Church.
fol. 112.
29. The Rule of the Socyetye of the most Blessed Vyrgyn Mary. fol. 121.
This Article contains likewise some other matters relating to the Society of the Rosary.

Num. 2328. — 2330.

2328. A Book in 12mo. seeming to have been written by the hand of some Female. It consists of Scripture-passages, ranged under certain Heads; perhaps by Order of some Judge, or other Magistrate; given to his Daughter, in order to keep Her, for some time at least, well employed. The said Heads are,

1. Judex. pag. 1.
2. Judicium. pag. 21.
3. Jus. pag. 67.
4. Jus Regium. pag. 75.
5. Jus Gladij. pag. 78.

2330. A parchment-book in 12mo. written (as I suppose) by one of those people, who were formerly called LOLLARDS. In it are contained the following Tracts,

1. A Tretijs þat Seynt Austyn made an Eerl clepid Julian, consisting of 17 Chapters. fol. 1.
Beginn. A! my dere broþir, if þou coueitist to wite (þouz I wite not) how moost parfijt & fullest Ritzwisnes is for to love God. I find not this Treatise in the List of St. Austins works given by Dr. Cave, who indeed mentions what he wrote against Julian the Pelagian, being different from this.

2. Þe book of Seint Austyn of Cristin Lijf, to his Sistir a Wydowe. fol. 66. b.
Beginn. þat I Synner, & þe laste, & vnwifer þan opere, & moore vnlearned þan alle. fol. 66. b.

This Tract is noted in the M.S. to be extant in the 9th Tome of St. Austins Works, at Col. 888. of the Basil-Edition, as I suppose. But Dr. Cave, seems upon the Authority of Lucas Holstenius, to ascribe it rather to Fastidius a Britan.

3. A Sermoun of Austyn; How Man is maad to the Ymage & Likeness of God his maker, of nouzt. fol. 976.

Beginn. How greet is þe dignyte of Mannus making!

This is also noted to be extant in the 9th Tome of St. Austins Works, at col. 1178.

4. The XII Abusiouns or Mis-usis, as reherfip Seint Austyn. fol. 100. b.

Beginn. Þe firste Abusioun is a Wise Man without gode Werkis.

Some ascribe this Treatise to St. Cyprian, as well as to St. Augustin; and it is printed by Sr. James Ware under the Name of St. Patric of Ireland.

Num. 2331. — 3333.

2331. A thin book in 12mo. beginning at either End; wherein are Entred, Particular Phrases or Expressions observed in reading the Works of Corn. Tacitus the Roman Historian, explained in English.

It is not unlikely but that this Reading of Tacitus might have been made to the Great William Cavendish Duke of Newcastle in his younger Years, by some one of his Governors or Tutors.

2332. A Velum-book in 12mo. by its former owner the late Dr. John Covel, called an Almanack; and by him thought to have been written in the beginning of King Henry the 14th's Reign. It contains,

1. A Calendar, with a Table for Ecclesiastical Computation, throughout the Year; with very Rude Pictures shewing the Works or Exercises proper to each Month; the Signs of the Zodiac peculiar to each; with the Festival Days. fol. 1. b.

2. Another Table, wherein the Dominical Letter is expressed by A. fol. 13. b.

3. Tables of the Solar Eclipses, which (I suppose) were to happen; beginning with A. D. 1411. fol. 14. b.

Here the Names of the Months are not Written, but expressed by rude Symbols.

4. Like Tables of the Lunar Eclipses; beginning with the year 1406. fol. 15. b.

5. Part of an Astronomical Diagram; where the Zodiacal Signs, & Months, are expressed by the Authors, or Workmans rude Symbols. fol. 17. b.

6. A rude Sketch of a naked Man standing, and affected in the proper parts by the several Signs of the Zodiac, expressed by Symbolical figures. fol. 18.

7. Tabula ad sciendum in quo Signo fuerit Luna omni die. fol. 18. b.

This is expressed in like Symbols.

8. Another, perhaps, hinting at the Labors of the Year, & the Lucky or Unlucky days for them. fol. 19. b.

9. Rude Heads of our Kings from the Conqueror to Richard II. both included, with the number of years that each of them reigned. fol. 21.

10. A Table, as it seemeth to me, for Calculation of the Prices of Bread, or of Bread-Corn. fol. 21. b.

Then followeth, in a newer hand,

11. The Statwete of Wenchester, touching the Syfe of Bred, of what Grayn of Corne so euer that it be. fol. 22.

Lastly, cometh, by the first Hand,

12. A Diagram for calculating the Moons Motion, as I take it, fol. 23. b.

2333. A Paper-book in 12mo. written, as I suppose, by one of those Friars who, in times of Popery, used to inveigle people to saunter, & squander away their time & money in unnecessary Voiages to Jerusalem; leaving these Thieves behind with the Government of their Wives, Families, & Estates; to their great Loss, if not Destruction. It contains the following Tracts,

1. Of that most blessed Viage to the hooli Citee of Hierusalem. fol. 1.

2. Peregrinations of the holi Cite of Hierusalem. fol. 10. b.

3. Peregrinations of Bethleem. fol. 21. b.

4. Peregrinations that beth in the Montaynes of Jude. fol. 23. b.

5. Peregrinations of Hume Jordan. fol. 24. b.

6. Other

Num. 2333. — 2334.

6. Other blessed Peregrinagis within the Holi Lande, and there-about. fol. 26. b. & fol. 7. b.
7. Peregrinationes in Ecclesia S. Marie Bethleem; i. e. Ordo Precum inibi recitandarum. fol. 37. b.
8. Preces, &c. recitandæ in sacratissimo Monte Syon, et in circuitu Hierusalem. fol. 40. b. & 65. b.
9. Processio Pregrinorum in Ecclesia S. Sepulcri Dni nri Jesu Cristi, cum precibus. fol. 59.
10. Preces, Hymni, &c. recitandi ad diversas Peregrinationes in Hierosolymis, Palæstina, & Syria. fol. 62. b.
- Then follows, in English,
11. Of the Building & Destruction of Jerusalem, the Riches of the First Temple, and Miracles wrought by the Cross of our Savior, brought thither by the Emperor Heraclius. fol. 79.
- This is imperfect at the End; but Mr. Knott (or Canutus, as he calls himself) writes that it is extant in Paratu Sermonum de Sanctis, in festo Exalt. S. Crucis, paucis mutatis.
2334. A book in 16to. consisting of Miscellaneous Collections; to which, a Table was prefixed in the year 1662. The Subjects of these Collections may be gathered from the Titles following;

 44. Off the American Ilands. fol. 88.
- I suppose that most of the Geographical part of this book was taken from Dr. Peter Heylyn's Geography.
2335. A parchment-book in 16to. from the Beginning of the Prologue commonly called the POOR CAITIF, and by Mr. Henry Wharton, under the Title of PAUPER RUSTICUS, is ascribed to John Wycliffe. The Tracts herein contained are not altogether in the same Order with those described in the M. S. No 2322. which wanteth the Prologue (in like manner as several other Copies do) which in this Manuscript doth thus beginn, This Tretis compild of a Pore Caitif, & nedi of goostly Help of all Cristen Peple. The Work is here distributed into the following Tracts. vizt.
1. An Explication of The Bileue. fol. 1. b. Beginn. The Ground of al Goodnesse is stedfast feip oþur Bileue.
 2. A comment on þe ten Hestis. fol. 13. b. Beginn. A man askide of Crist what he shulde do, for to haue þe Lijf þat euere shal laste.
 3. Another on þe Pater noster. fol. 50. b. Beginn. Crist seip, who þat louep him shal kepe his Comaundementis.
 4. The Councel off Crist. fol. 63. b. Beginn. Crist not compellynge, but freli counceylunge ech man to perfit Lijf.
 5. Of vertuous Pacience. fol. 66. Beginn. But who þat is verily fed with þat Breed þat cam down fro Heuene.
 6. Of Temptacioun. fol. 68. Beginn. Whanne þou art temptid eþer troublid.
 7. þe Chartir of Heuene. fol. 69. Beginn. Everi Wise man þat cleymep his Eritage.
 8. Armer of Heuene. fol. 74. Beginn. Almyzti God seip bi hooli Job.
 9. þe Name of Ihesu. fol. 80. b. Beginn. Whoso euere þou be þat araieft þee for to loue God.
 10. Off Mekenesse. fol. 87. Beginn. To ony degree of verri Love of Jhesu, mai no Soule atteyne, but if he be verili Meke.
 11. Of Mannes Wil. fol. 89. Beginn. Everi dede perisable eþer repreuable of Mannes Will.
 12. Of actijf Lijf. fol. 90. b. Beginn. Crist louede moche Marie & Martha hir Sister. This treateth also of contemplatif Lijf.
 13. Of Chastite. fol. 92. b. Beginn. Prolog. I write þis Tretis in fine short Chapitris, to hem þat wolen lyue Chaaft. Beginning of the Tract. This Myrrour of Maidens loke ye þerinne, as follower of þe mekeft Maide. In this Tract are 3 or 4 Legendary Stories related; the author (as it plainly appeareth) living in a strict Communion with the Roman Church, when he wrote it. This, however, did not hinder Mr. Wharton from branding what he meant well, with the following Censure, Speculum Castitatis; quod putidissimis fabulis repletum, Wicfeso cum primis indignum videtur.
2336. A parchment-book in 16to. containing another Copie of the POOR CAITIF; wherein some of the Tracts do not follow in the same Order as in the preceding Copy, and some have not the same Titles. v. gr.

CATALOGVS LIBRORVM MSS.

Num. 2336. — 2337.

1. The 4th Traēt above, hath here the Title off Perfit Lijf. fol. 79.
2. The 5th is here entituled (perhaps erroneously) Off Temptacioun. fol. 82.
3. The 7th is here called þe Chartre of oure heuenli Eritage. fol. 86.
4. The 8th is here styled Off goostli Batel. fol. 93.
5. The 9th is here said To loue God, or Jhesu. fol. 102. b. and the 10th is as a part of it.
6. The Title of the 12th is only of Contemplatif Lijf. fol. 116.

7. At the End is a remarkable Note or Inscription, which I shall not grudge to putt down here, although such Matters are not the business of this Catalogue. This book was maad of þe goodis of John Gamalin for a comyn profite; þat þat perfoone þat hap þis book committid to him, of þe perfoone þat hap power to committe it, haue þe us þerof þe terme of his lijf; preyinge for þe soule of þe same John. And þat he þat hap þis forseid us of commissioun, whan he occupieth it not; leene he it for a tyme to sum oþer perfoone. Also þat þat perfoone to whom it was committid for þe terme of lijf; vnder þe forseid condiciouns deliuere he it to anoþer, þe terme of his lijf. And so be it delyuerid & committid fro perfoone to perfoone; man or womman as longe as þe book endurip.

8. I must not conceal another Note which I find in a spare Page at the beginning, Dixit Episcopus Cicestrensis quod Frater Minor compilavit hunc librum in suo Defensorio. I doubt not but that this Bishop of Chichester was Reginald Pecok; who was thought to favor the Lollards, and was openly persecuted & deprived, as guilty of Herefy.

2337. A book in in 2omo. designed for the Pocket; wherein are Noted-down

1. Many excellent Rules & Observations necessary to be putt in Praēctice by him who would endeavor to become Eminent or Excellent in the business of a Pourtrait-Painter; indigested as to Methodical Order; and so incorrēctly, as that I doubt whether it were not a Copy too hastily transcribed by some Face-Painter's Apprentice.

Herein, Van Dyck, Dobson, Wilson, Watson, Fuller, & the Authors Master are mentioned; & mostly wilth applause. The Author repeats many of his Masters Lessons; whom also, in some Respects, he compares with Titian; and indeed, seems to have taken almost the whole from his Instructions. Among other things, he relates how justly his Master found fault with Old Faithorns Print of Mr. Stanley prefixed to his Lives of the Philosophers, which came out (if I mistake not) A. D. 1655. By this and by the Flemish terms of STETT and STETTING, I am apt to conjecture that Sir Peter Lely, was the Master, & Mr. Ryley the Disciple; and the Hand-writing, a Running Secretary, was in common use in the Reign of K. Charles II.

2. A Medicine to draw Milke out of a Womans Breasts, that is newly brought to Bed.

At the other End, I find

3. Some few Aphorisms, in Morality, & Painting.
4. A Sketch, with a Pen, of a man's Head; perhaps from that of Sir William Dugdale before his Warwick-shire.

Num. 2338. — 2339.

2338. A parchment book in 16to. rudely illuminated, wherein is contained,

1. An Old English Poem upon our Blessed Saviors celebrating the Passover with his Disciples, his Passion, Death, Burial, & Resurrection.

Beginn. Cum esset plenitudo temporis, misit Deus Filium suum factum.

Comyng þe gret tyme of Mercy,
Whan þe Fadir sent his Sone from on hyz
Off a Mayden he wolde be born,
To saue Man-kynde þat was for-lorn.

2. Prophetia Regis Anglie. pag. ult.

This is silly and imperfēt, beginning thus,

Whanne m.cccccc. togidir be knet
And xxx. & vi. with hem are met,
As Merlyn sayth in þe story of Britayn,
Of Kyng Hary of Ynglond certayn.

At the End of the main Poem, (pag. penult.) is the following Note written by a later Hand, Finis Passionis Christi, auctore Thoma Breus, 1422. which seems to be a Mistake, and perhaps a wilful one. For the Name Thomas Breus which appears in the first Page, written in large Text-Letters of Red and Black Ink, is of the very same Inks that the whole book is written with, and that (as we see above) maketh mention of the year 1536: so that 'tis much more likely that this Breus was only the Possessor of it.

2339. A parchment book in 2omo. not ill written; and consisting altogether of Theological Matters, divers whereof are Translations from the Latin. They are here putt-down in the following Order,

1. The later part of a Prayer to our blessed Saviour Jesus Christ. fol. 1.

This wants the first Leaf, which (without doubt) was torne-out for the sake of the Illumination.

2. An Orisoun (or Prayer, from ORATIO) in mynd (i. e. Memory) of Jhesu Cristis Passioun. fol. 2.

3. An Orisoun made by Seynt Austyn þe Doctour, (i. e. Bp. of Hippo). fol. 3.

Beginn. Domine Jhu Xpe qui hunc Mundum, &c.

4. An Orisoun to be seid to oure Ladi, and to Seint Joon þe Euangelist. fol. 6.

Beginn. O intemerata, & in eternum, &c.

5. A precious Orisoun for him þat loveth þis nam Jhesu. fol. 8.

Beginn. O bone Jhesu, &c.

6. þe Rule of oure Ladies Lijf; according as she reveled it to a deuout Woman Seruaunt of God, Seynt Elizabeth, Joon Baptists Modir. fol. 10.

Beginn. Aboute þe glorious Maiden of whom oure Lord Jhesu Crist took Fleisch & Blood.

7. þe Writynge of Seynt Jerom, about the Life of the blessed Virgin. fol. 13. b.

Beginn. Seynt Jerom writip of Hir Lijf on þis wife.

Then follow certain Paragraphs, whose Rubrics are

8. How euery Man may lerne to make him redy to God euery day. fol. 17.

9. þe Malice of Synners. fol. 19.

10. That we moun lerne how we schulden Wake þe Hours of oure Soule fro vndirmynnyng of þe Feend bi Synne; & to be redi whateuere tyme we ben callid for to Answer for oure good Deedis and yuel. fol. 22.

11. Of Emperour & Kingis Office; and of her Ministris. fol. 26.

15. How Crist schal appere at Domesday. fol. 38. b.
16. Hou we schulen go' with oure Enemye; & how we schulden zeue & lene (i. e. lend) and how Men moun lawefully be chastisid for Synne. fol. 41. b.
17. Of vertues (i. e. virtuous) Virginite; and of Yuel. fol. 47. b.
I am apt to conjecture that these several Paragraphs make but one Tract.
18. A profitable Mirrour for synful Men & Wymmen to biholde ynn. fol. 49.
Beginn. For þat we ben in þe weye of þis failynge Lijf.
At the End, this Tract is called, þe Myrrour of Synners; and, perhaps may be that which Dr. Cave (or rather Mr. Wharton) ascribes to John Wycliffe, Hist. Litt. pag. 54. App.
19. A Tretis of pre Arowis pat schulen be schot on Domesday to hem pat pere schulen be dampned. fol. 62. b.
Beginn. Whoso wole haue in mynde þe dredful Day of Doom.
This Tract is also ascribed to John Wycliffe, in the place above cited.
20. How ech Man & Woman may lerne to Love & Serue God, ech in his Degree; takynge Ensaumple bi þre Foulis. fol. 72. b.
21. þe Swetnes of þe Loue of Jhesu. fol. 78.
Beginn. Jhesu þi Swetnesse who myzte it fe,
And þereof to haue a cleer knowynge;
Al erþeli Loue bitter schulde be,
But þin aloone wipoute Lesynge.
22. þe Complaynt of God, of euery synful Man & Woman, in Verse likewise. fol. 81. b.
Beginn. Oure gracious God, ful of Pite,
Whos Myzt & Goodnes neuer bigan.
23. þe þre Argumentis pat þe Deuel wil putte to Man, in his Dijnge. fol. 100. b.
Beginn. The firste Argument þat he wole make is, þis.
24. A litil Tretys azens þe Opynyoun of sum Men, þat feyn þat no man hap power for to chaunge þe Saboth fro þe Satirday to þe Sonday. And here is pleyntly proued þe contrarie, by Holli Writt, & Doctouris Sentence accordynge þerwip. fol. 104. b.
Beginn. Sum Men douten, siþ no man hap leue for to chaunge þe ten Commaundementis of God.
25. þe x Comaundementis of God; in Verse, as are all that follow. fol. 116.
26. þe vii deedly Synnes. fol. 116. b.
27. þe vii Vertues azens þe vii deedly Synnes. fol. 117. b.
28. þe vii Werkis of Merci bodily. fol. 118. b.

 9. The Praier of quene Ester, for help agaynst her Enymyes. fol. 27. b.
 10. The Praier of Sara the daughter of Raguell, whan She was flaundred. fol. 28. b.
 11. The Praier of Judith for the Victorie of Olyfernes. fol. 29.
 12. The Praier of Iessus the sonne of Sirake. fol. 29. b.
 13. The Praier of the 3 Children that were delyuered from the hote burnyng Fire. fol. 32.
 14. The Praier of Manasseh King of Juda. fol. 35. b.
 15. A Prayer for Grace to believe & trust in Iesus Christ. fol. 38.
 16. A Prayer for Assistance against many of the Authors Infirmities. fol. 30.
Amongst others, he mentions Pollinge of poore people; & Crabbednes agaynst those that were with Him in Howseholde.
 17. A Prayer to the blessed Treenyte. fol. 42. b.
 18. A Prayer to God for Delyuerance from the power of all his Enemyes, and from all theym that consented to his Destruction and Pardic'one. fol. 44.
 19. A Prayer against the Temptations of The Fleshe, the Worlde, & the Deuyll. fol. 45. b.
 20. A Petycon or Prayer for (i. e. against) all the Evylles of Paynes & Punishments. fol. 48. b.
Here the Author says, Kepe vs from thy moste greuous Strokes, the Pestylence, Frenche Pockes, Falling Sikenes, & suche other Deseases: for in those days, it was believed that the Pox might be communicated to a man by Breathing; as witness, the Articles against Cardinal Wolsey.
 21. A deuoute Prayer to Criste the seconde Person in Treenyte, our onely Redemer, God & Man. fol. 49. b.
Here, at fol. 57. he desires forgiveness for particular Sins.
 22. A Peticion & Praier to oure Lorde. fol. 59. b.

Num. 2342.

- This is for Delyuerance from his Enemyes.*
23. Ejaculations collected from the Psalms, & other Scriptures, beseeching the diuine Assistance, in the Authors extreme Misery. fol. 62.
 24. The Songe of Austeyn & Ambrose. fol. 74. b.
 25. Saynt Jeroms Deuocion oute of Dauyds Saulter. fol. 77. b.
Here, some Verses seem to intimate as if the Author had met with the Deliverance he so much prayed for.
 26. A Praier to the Father. fol. 106.
 27. A Praier to the holy Goste. fol. 107.
 28. A Praier to the Treenyte. fol. 107. b.
 29. A Prayer to Iesu Christe. fol. 108. b.
 30. The Lords Prayer, followed by many holy Ejaculations. fol. 109. b.
These are suitable to the Condition of a Person in Tribulation: yet some of them do seem to import a Deliverance.
Now follow, by another Hand,
 31. A Prayer in Trobil. fol. 137.
 32. A Prayer for the lyghtenyng of the holye Ghoste. fol. 138.
 33. A Prayer in Aduersite & greuous Distresse.
 34. A Prayer for Strengthe of mynde to beare the Crosse. fol. 140.
Here, the Petitioner seemeth to despair of human Help.
 35. A Prayer of the faythful person in Adversite. fol. 143.
I will not affirm that this Manual was written by the Direction of Edward Seymour Duke of Somerset & Protector of England, upon his first Commitment to the Tower of London, and that the last five Prayers were added after his second Commitment, which ended in his Execution. But if this were so, 'tis easy to apprehend how it might come into the hands of that noble but unfortunate Lady, the Lady Jane Grey; whose Marriage with the Lord Guilford Dudley, fourth Son to the ambitious Duke of Northumberland cost them all their Lives. But that this Book was in the Lady Janes Hands or Possession, and was also looked into by her Husband, appears by the 3 following Notes, written in the lower Margins.
 36. Your louyng and obedyent son wisshethe vnto your Grace long lyfe in this world, with as much joy & comforte, as euer I wyshte to my selfe; and in the world to come joy euerlastyng. Your most humble son tel his Dethe C. Duddeley. fol. 59. b.
 37. Forasmuche as you haue desired so simple a woman to wrighte in so worthy a booke, gode Mayster Lieustenaunte, therefore I shalle, as a frende desyre you, and as a Christian require you, to call vpyon God, to encline youre harte to his lawes, to quicken you in his waye, and not to take the worde of trewethe vterlye oute of youre mouthe. Lyue styll to dye, that by deathe you may purchase eternall life; and remembre howe the ende of Mathusael, whoe as we reade in the scriptures, was the longeste liuer that was of a manne, died at the laste. For, as the Precher sayethe, there is a tyme to be borne, and a tyme to dye; and the daye of Deathe is better then the daye of oure birthe. Youres as the Lorde knowethe as a frende. Jane Duddeley. fol. 74. b.
The Gentleman this was written for, seems to haue been Sir John Gage Lieutenant of the Tower of London, when she was Prisoner therein.

38. The

Num. 2342. — 2344.

38. The Lorde comforte your Grace, and that in his worde, whearein alle creatures onlye are to be comforted. And thoughe it hath pleased God to take away 2 of your children: yet thincke not, I most humblye beseeche youre Grace, that you haue losse them; but truste that we by leaſinge this mortall life, haue wunne an immortal Life. And I, for my parte, as I haue honoured youre Grace in this life, wyll praye for you in another Life. Your Gracys humble daughter Jane Duddeley.

None of these 3 Notes or Epistles are mentioned by any of our Historians, that I now remember.

Init. Domine Deus Omnipotens.

By the preceding long Rubric, it may be easily ſeen, that the Secular Clergy also condescended to use little Tricks & petty Rogueries, whereby to milk the well-meaning people of the Laity, of their Money.

1. Archeion; or, Of the high Courtes of Justice in Englande; and especiallye of the Chauncerye-Courte, and of the Lord Chauncelor that judgeth there.

Considering the Writing & Binding of this Book, it seemes likely that it was the Authors Present-book. The Authors Name is omitted, but the person was Mr. William Lambard, some time (as I think, Recorder of London) and Keeper of the Records in the Tower. At the End of the Treatise, is a neat Flourish done by Command of Hand, wherein are the Letters P. B. which shews that this Copie was written by the Hand of Peter Beales the then famous Writing-Master of London.

1. þe boke of Pyris Plowman. fol. 1.
Beginn. In a Somer seysone, whan softe was þe Sonne.
At the End, is this Note, Hic explicit Visio Willelmi de Petro Plowman. Now among the several persons to whom the Poems of Piers Plowman have been ascribed, I remember not any William; so that if Geoffrey Chaucer was the man, he disguised his name for fear of the Clergy, who are bitterly inveighed against in these Poems. And to shew that the preceding Note, and another that will soon follow are of some moment, I produce these Verses, extant in fol. 7. b.

2377. A parchment-book in 4to. imperfect at both Ends; many also of whose Leaves are transposed through the Ignorance of its former owner. It contained a Theological Poem, divided into Seven parts, the Authors matter being collected from sundry books of Scripture, Fathers, &c. Who he was I know not; but he quotes Bartholomæus de Proprietatibus Rerum, in foll. 1. & 44. which writer flourished, A. D. 1360. that is, not long before this Copie was writt.
What remaineth, begins towards the Conclusion of the
1. Second Part, which treated of the Worlde's Vnstabulnes, &c. fol. 1:
 2. þe þridde part of this Boke, þat spekep of Dep. fol. 2.
Beginn. þe Depe is most dredful þing þat es.
 3. þe ferþe part, þat spekep al of Purgatorye. fol. 16.
Beginn. First whan God wolde make alle þinge.
 4. þe fyft part; þat is, of þe day of Dome, and of þe Tokenes þat byfore shul come. fol. 34. b.
Beginn. þe fyft part is of þe day of Dome.
Here, the Leaves being transposed, the Reader must turn-over to fol. 67.
 5. þe sexþ part; þat is of þe peynes of Helle. fol. 99. b.
Beginn. Many man here spekep of Helle.
Here, when the Reader is gotten to the End, he must turn-back to fol. 35.
 6. þe seuenth party; of þe blys of Heuene. fol. 43.
Beginn. Many men þe blys of Heuene coueytes.
Thus this imperfect Work endeth after fol. 66.
and by another imperfect Copy here, as well as by Mr. Wharton's Appendix to Dr. Cave, Pitts, &c. appears to be Richard Hampoles Prikke of Conscience.
2378. A Pharmaceutical book in 4to. written, by various hands, upon parchment; partly in old English, and partly in Latin; of which, since the multitude of Receipts therein is great: I shall give only the following Account,
1. A sort of Table to the ensuing Collection, made by the late Dr. John Covel Master of Christs College (its last Owner) who studied Physic, before he Entred into Holy Orders. In two paper-leaves, now bound with the rest.
 2. His short account of the Contents of this MS. on the first parchment-Leaf.

the Family of Goodrick, together with the names of the Godfibs who promised at their Baptisms; being, for the most part, of the Suffolk-Gentry. In the next page; & in fol. 1. & fol. 1. b.

I now proceed to the old Work, whereof the first Article is a large Collection of Medicinal & Chirurgical Receipts, &c. among which, I shall mention only these that will here-under follow. vizt.

4. A Refeyte for Dying of blac Threde; secundum Nicholaum Spaldynge. fol. 1.
5. Unguentem Alabaſtri, Nardi, Pistici preciosi, quod Romani de Jerusalem deportabant, eo tempore quo Dominus noster Ihesus Xpus crucifixus fuit & vinctus, &c. pag. 3.
6. The booke of Ypocras. In his book he techyt for to knowe be Planete, Seknesse, Lyf & Deth, and the times therof. pag. 5.
7. De Solsequio, et alijs quibusdam herbis. pag. 15.
8. A Note touching the great Plague which almost destroyed Europe A. D. 1348. (or 7) of which Boccaccio hath given a large Account in the Preface or Introduction to his Decameron. This shews how much mistaken Dr. Covel, when he gessed (perhaps above 40 years agoe) that this book as it is, written at various times, & by different Hands, was then at least 400 years old. pag. 21.
9. For the Eyere of Helle. pag. 37.
This seems to have been some Cutaneous Distemper; perhaps, what is now called St. Antonies Fire.
10. A goode Entret, that is callide Gracia Dei. pag. 41.
11. Unguentum viride. pag. 43.
12. For Man or Womman that is blisted with the wikkede Spirits; to do away the Ache, & abate the Swellyng. pag. 46.
13. For the Elf-Cake. pag. 47. & 57.
14. For the Fallyng Yuel. pag. 49.
This is an idle Charme, yet defaced by somebody who thought it might be efficacious through the Devils power. Doctor Covel, in a Note at the top, hath endeavored to give some Light into it.
15. For to maken a Drynke that men calle Dwale; to make a man slepen whylls men kerve hym. pag. 55.
16. For a man that spekethe in his Sleepe. pag. 70.
17. Unguentem album. pag. 87.
18. To make Grene Entrete. pag. 94.
19. For man or wommane that hath the perliouſe Cough. pag. 95.
20. For the Cough that is called the Kynke. ibid.
21. For a Womane that leſeth hire Barne-tem, for default of Mañ, and takethe euile perethurgh. pag. 104.
I doubt not but that in this Tract there may be many excellent Recipes which I understand not. At the End is the Authors name Specified in the following Note, Secundum Dompnum Nicholaum de Spaldynge, quod S. D. C.
22. Some other Medicinal Receipts, written in English, or in Latin, by various Hands. pag. 112.

25. Nomina Herbarum, alphabetico Ordine disposita; Latine & Anglice. pag. 213.
26. Medicinal & Distillatory Receipts, written by various Hands, some in Latin, others in English. pag. 221.

Num. 2378. — 2379.

Among these are,

27. Modus conficiendi Aquam Vite perfectissimam. ibid.
28. Orison, per Sanctum estranger. pag. 223.
29. Pulvis Walteri. pag. 228.

Then follows,

This Tract seems to want a Leaf or two, at the End; but in some vacant spaces in pag. 258. &c. some other Receipts are inserted; as also the following Notes,

This is a Legendary Tale of a Squier who had amassed a great deal of Wealth by Oppression and fraudulent dealings; who had but an only Child, whom (at his own Request) he putt Apprentice to a Merchant in Bristol. The Squier lying upon his Death-bed, sends for his Son, who conjures him to appear unto him a fourtnight after his Decease, & certifie him of the Condition his Soul would then be in: which proving to be horribly bad, the young Man sells all his Fathers Effects; his own Clothes, even to Nakedness; and his Body to be his Masters Bond-man for ever. With the Sums thus raised, he satisfies all whom his Father had injured; and delivers his Soul from the Torments of Purgatory to heavenly Bliss. This being, at length, made known to the Master; he makes the young Man his Partner; and dying, in proceß of time; left him his whole Estate, which was not only lawfully acquired, but much larger than that so wickedly raked-up by the Squier.

The author of this Work (whose first part consists of 93 Chapters as the second does of 46) does appear to be Walter Hilton the devout Canon of Thurgarton in Notinghamshire; and it hath been divers times printed. Among the MSS. of it (as may easily be perceived in looking into those extant in this noble Library) are vast differences in the Readings, as there is also in the Title; especially if the Scala Perfectionis, Liber Contemplationis, De Vita Contemplativa, & De arte bene Vivendi, which are all ascribed to this Author, should prove to be the same book. (It is also called The Reforming of Mannys Soule.) vid. 100. c. 27.

This is in English, and very imperfect.

2392. A book in 4to. written partly upon Parchment, but mostly upon Paper; wherein is contained, Geoffrey Chaucers Poem of Troilus & Cresseida.

2393. A paper-book in 4to. consisting of two Treatises only; vizt.

1. A Poem Historical, Political, & Moral; imperfect at the End, as wanting all after the 352 Stanza. Its main Subject is the unfortunate Reign of King Edward II. whose Ghost is introduced as relating his Actions & Disasters. It is written to Queen Elizabeth, as plainly appears in several places, particularly by these Stanzas, 9. 242. 243. & 305. where she is named.

The Work seemeth to bear the Title of Edward the Second; and beginneth thus,

Whie should a wasted Spirit spent in Woe Discloze the Woundes receyv'd within his Brest?

Is't not ynowgh that Fortune proves his Foe,
 In whose sad Frownes is foulded his Un-rest?
 Is't not ynough to knowe himselfe distrest?

Oh noe! furcharged Hartes must needs complayn;

Some Eaz it is, though small, to tell our Payn.

2. The same Poem revised & corrected by many Alterations, Additions, & Omissions; being now fitted-up for the perusal of King James I, as may appear by the Stanzas, 6. 259. 260. 326. &c. and, in the whole, consists of 581 Stanzas, as does another Copie of it in this noble Library, now inscribed 40. D. 8. The Author, at the End, calls himself Infortunio; and, perhaps, might have been Mr. Edmund Spenser, who is said to have lived long, & to have died in very low Circumstances. This revised Copie begins,

I singe thy sad Disaster, (fatal King Carnarvan-Edward) Second of that Name:
 Thy Mynions Pryde; thy States ill mannage-ing;

Thie Peeres Revolt; the Sequell of the same.
 Thy Life, thy Death, I sing; thy Sinne, thy Shame;

And how thou wert deprived of thy Crowne;
 In highest Fortunes cast, by Fortune, downe.

2394. A paper-book in 4to. (not altogether destitute of parchment-leaves) much corroded at the beginning, by Mice or Rats; wherein is contained, An old Theological Poem in the Northern English Dialect, divided into 7 parts; imperfect at the beginning; and renewed at the End, by a later & modern hand.

This I take to be Richard Rolle the Hermit of Hampole's Stimulus Conscientiæ, or Prykke of Conscience; of which there are other Copies, with his Name to them, in the Libraries of both our Universities; not to mention here what is said of it by Mr. Wharton, Pitts, & others.

Toward the End of the Prologue are these Lines,

VOL. II.

Num. 2394. — 2395.

It pryks here Consciens within,
 And of þat may a Luf begyn.

2395. *An imperfect paper-book in 4to. written by several Hands, as being an Original. It contains part of the Parish-Registre of STEVENTONE; but in what County that Parish is situate, for want of proper Helps, I now cannot tell. I believe it is not the Town of that Name in Hamshire.  He yefe ows welle to þe
 A lytyl wyle þat ye wylle me hyre.

Upon the Margin of fol. 48, still remain these Letters, I. Bow . . . scrip . . . hoc ue . . . rum (according to his Latin;) and here Mr. Knott calls him Bower, or Bowier. But at the End, is this Rubric, Qöd D'ns Johannes Architenens, Canonicus Podminie, et natus in illa Deo gracias.

In the Margin of fol. 58. are some counterfeit Runic Letters; for the Cornish used them not.
 In the margins of fol. 58. b. are some Heraldical Marks & Armes: the latter, for want of proper colors being become as unintelligible, as they are rudely delineated.

This idle Poem is merely Legendary, and not grounded upon the Proto-euangelion falsely ascribed to the Apostle St. James the Less.

11. Videte quomodo homo Sapiens dicit: an imperfect Poem, wherein a Father is introduced as instilling prudential Maxims into his Son, then about 15 years of age. fol. 61.

 wherein I find,

1. A great part of the Psalter; imperfect both at the beginning, & in the midel. fol. 1.

2. The Prayers of the Byble. fol. 30.

These are not the Cantica Sacra which usually follow the Latin Psalters; but another Collection made for the use of those, who afterward were called Puritans. At the end are these Words, Fynys; God saue Kynge Edwarde vi. so be it.

3. A Treatise of Confyrmacyon, comenly called

VOL. II.

Num. 2400. — 2403.

2402. A book in 4to. written upon Paper; partly in Latin, & partly in old English: wherein is contained,

A Grammatical Treatise, now imperfect, about the various Significations of many Latin words. It seems to have been compiled by some old Schole-master of Experience; and may now be of good Use.

2403. A parchment-book in 4to. compiled by some Secular Priest for the Instruction of his Parishioners, out of the Golden Legend, and other Treatises. He calls it LIBER FESTIVALIS; although his Collection of Homilies, herein contained, be tam de Tempore quam de Sanctis. These Homilies, of which (I think) here are other Copies in this noble Library, are sett down in the Order following,

1. Without a Rubric. fol. 1.

93. The Duke to the King, that he does not wait on his Majesty, because the Spanish Ambassador has been with him, which gives distrust to the People; and desires him plainly to answer, whether if the People do give him a royal assistance, he will not accept it & their Counsel to break off the Match, with the other Treaties; &

Num. 6987.

& whether he may not assure some of them underhand of so much, because it is fear'd, when his Turns are served, they will not be called together again: And that he will resolve once constantly to run one way, for so long as he wavers between the Spaniard & his own Subjects, to make his advantage of both, he is sure to do it with neither, &c. No Date. f. 109.

94. The Duke's Heads of a Speech for the King to make in Parliament, relating to the royal assistance, & applying it to the recovery of the Palatinate; recovering a right understanding between him & his people, & being in love with Parliaments for making good Laws, & reforming Abuses. f. 110.
95. The Prince to the Duke, shewing the King's approbation of his Dispatch, and agreeing that the safest way of landing the Troops is in Holland, and so to go through the Bishops Countries, but not near Breda; & that the King thinks it fit the French King should hire our Merchant Ships to transport their Horse; and that Secretary Conway renew his strict Command to the chief Commanders of his Subjects in Count Mansfield's Army, that they observe these Rules set down, & leave Mansfield if he presume to lead them any other way. The Prince likewise advises him to leave off his Physick, & come down in the Country to them, &c. without Date. f. 111.
96. The Prince to the Duke, that this Day the lower House has given the King a Subsidy, & design to entreat him to end the Session before Christmas, with his Opinion thereupon, especially that his Majesty would command them not to speak any more of Spain, whether of that War or his Marriage: also of a Letter he received from Sir Edw. Cecil to be employed in a War for defence of the Palatinate, but he would not have him put over Sir Horace Vere's head, &c. No Date. f. 112.
97. The Prince to the Duke, that Bristol stands upon his Justification, & will by no means accept of his Counsels; the King in haste to have him come to his trial; wishes the Duke to be with them to help charge him, or he may escape with too light a Censure; but not to come sooner than he may with safety of his health, &c. No Date. f. 113.

26. Lord Hunfdon to Secretary Walfyngham at the ſame time in his own hand, extolling the E. of Angus as the moſt reſolute & conſtant Man of his Promiſe, & of ſo great power & friendship in Scotland, that for his ſake many will take part with him for the E. of Morton, who would not otherwiſe ſtir a Step: is conſulted by the ſaid E. of Angus what to do; has therefore referred him to Mr. Randolph: delivers it as his Opinion that the E. of Angus ſhould declare that he would take counſel from the Queen of England, & that Mr. Randolph ſhould likewiſe declare to the King & Council that the Queen will be an Enemy to the E. of Lenox, & all that give him any countenance, aid & aſſiſt him, which would ſend him packing, there being not a Nobleman to take his part except Argyle.
27. Lord Hunfdon to Secretary Walfyngham, that every thing done by Mr. Randolph is frivolous, that there were no occaſion for him & the E. of Huntingdon to march thither with all their Troops, but to the Queen's Diſhonour; & if they be diſbanded without letting them feel the Smart, it will ſet this proud Nation the Scots into ſo great a Pride, as they will not care what Injury they offer her Majeſty. Berwick 11 Feb. 1580.

Num. 6999.

28. E. of Huntingdon to Secretary Walfyngham, expreffing his Diſlike of the Contents of a Letter from Lord Harris, fearing that the fair Speeches of the Scots are only to gain time, & till they have better prepared themſelves; & therefore he will write to Mr. Randolph, that at the great Convention on the 20th there will be a fit opportunity to make a Party. Alnewick 14 Feb. 1580.

32. Secretary Walfyngham to Lord Hunfdon, ſending him a Copy of a Letter from Mr. Randolph decyphered, that he may perceive the different Advertisements concerning the Queen's party in Scotland, that Orders were ſent to Mr. Randolph to communicate a Cypher to his Lordſhip for their better Correſpondence, & it is recommended that a truſty Meſſenger may be diſpatch'd to Mr. Randolph for Conference. Beſides Mr. Randolph is required at the Aſſembly at Edinb. on the 20th to explain the End of his being ſent thither; a Copy of the Project ſent him for that purpoſe being incloſed, that upon the peruſal thereof ſuch alterations as he deem'd meet to be made, might be tranſmitted to Mr. Randolph. Whitehall 15 Feb. 1580. A Copy.
33. Lord Hunfdon to Secretary Walfyngham, with an Account of a Letter from Mr. Randolph, importing that the Lord Seaton was to be ſent to the Queen; his Caution with regard to ſo dangerous a Man, whoſe only Intent is to practice ſome matter by the way with the Scottiſh Queen, & being there with the French & Spaniſh Ambaſſadors, & ſome of our Papiſts, &c. ſo that he ſhould ſuffer neither Seaton nor any other till he heard from him. Berwick 16 Feb.
34. Mr. Tho. Randolph to Lord Hunfdon, deſiring his Advice of what courſe he ſhould take, if Lord Seaton, or any other ſhould be ordered to be ſent to the Queen; had conferred with the King alone, & plainly remonſtrated to him his Obligations to the Queen; & tho' young, he wanted neither Words nor Answers: & he finds will not do otherwiſe than Lenox adviſeth. Edinb. 14 Feb. 1580. A Copy.
35. Lord Hunfdon to Mr. Randolph, with an Answer to the Council of Scotland touching the Bill of Heatepoole, that they may ſee he underſtands what belongs to his Office of Warden better than they can teach him. In answer to his Letter touching Lord Seaton he thinks him the worſt Perſon they can ſend, & will be unwelcome to her Majeſty; & as for ſending any other it will be only on a frivolous Errand, till Daubenys Forces can be brought over from France, for as he was her Majeſty's Ambaſſador, they might ſufficiently explain themſelves to him. Berwick 15 Feb. 1580. A Copy.

Lord Hunsdon to Secretary Walsyngham, thanking him for his Advice how to behave upon the Death of his Son; acknowledging her Majesty's favour in bestowing the keeping of Launson Castle upon one of his Sons; sending a Letter of the King of Scotland & another of Mr. Randolph to him, whereby may be seen what her Majesty is to expect, & hopes she will act accordingly, now that they are preparing & levying Forces against her; relating the sad condition of Timmouth Castle, the only place for Men to land at in all these northern Parts, the Governor whereof (Pullen) is gone into France or Spain; & mentioning a Report of a Ship's arriving at Aberdeen with the Bp. of Ross, &c. Newcastle 13 March 1580.
39. Mr. Tho. Randolph to the Lord Hunsdon, sending him a Letter from the King of Scots to be transmitted to the Queen without any alteration of his mind; the Council are resolute in the same way as hitherto, tho' there is no Concord among themselves: No other Appearance but open War, tho' few Soldiers offer themselves to be enlisted: Much ado to get Money: The King designs a new Coinage: In the Conclusion, he says he hopes to hear of his Revocation. Edinburgh 11 March 1580.
40. Mr. Tho. Randolph to Mr. Secretary Walsyngham, that now he may see the End of his Negotiation here, only this is won, viz. the Fury of Morton's Enemies is appeased: It only remains to enter upon open War; but then they must come like themselves without depending upon any here, tho' there be who wish well: A Letter from her Majesty to the King noting his Ingratitude may do good; & another from the Council to the Council here, noting their abusing of the King in his tender Years: If Commissioners be appointed, none more fit than the Lords Lieutenants & Mr. Bowes, as for himself rather desires to be excused because of his Age. Edinb. 11 March 1580.
41. Mr. Randolph to Mr. Secretary Walsyngham, in hopes that some Good may be done by Commissioners, tho' wilfulness over-rules them. However there are great Numbers who will not suffer their Religion to be overthrown; &c. Great Part of the Letter is in Cypher. Edinb. 13 Mar. 1580.
42. Mr. Tho. Randolph to the E. of Huntingdon in Cypher, wishing that matters might be advantageously concluded without War: If Commissioners are appointed, all may be well; or War may be then entered upon with more advantage. Edinb. 13 March 1580.
43. Extract of Mr. Randolph's Letter decyphered, signifying that it might have been a prudent Step to have had D'Aubigny: Lord Hunsdon & Mr. Bowes inclined to push matters, led on by Mr. Archibald Douglas, who ever hath had delight to fish in troubled Waters.

44. Mr. Robert Bowes to Secretary Walsyngham, that the Effect of appointing Commissioners will be to accept the Excuses & Offers of Lenox to the dissatisfaction of Angus & his Friends. Newcastle 14 March 1580.
45. Secretary Walsyngham to Lord Huntingdon, concerning her Majesty's & the Council's approving of his Advice:—Mr. Randolph is ordered to repair to Lord Hunsdon at Berwick to confer upon a Composition, which seems proposed merely to gain time.—In another Letter from Secretary Walsyngham to Mr. Randolph, He is sorry to find so great difference in Opinion between Lord Hunsdon & him, & therefore recommends his repairing to Berwick for a Conference. 15 Mar. 1580. Copies.
46. Secretary Walsyngham to Lord Hunsdon, that her Majesty defers coming to a Resolution till a Conference has passed between him & Mr. Randolph: that this day an Order was given to convey to him 3000 l. Likewise that the Parliament was prorogued this day. Whitehall 18 March 1580. A Copy.
47. Secretary Walsyngham to Mr. Randolph, desiring him to specify in writing the particular good Effects that might be produced from appointment of Commissioners more than could be obtained by his own audience from the King: & answering such Objections as might be made against the passing the Borders with the Army. 18 March 1580. A Copy.
48. Mr. Tho. Randolph to Lord Hunsdon & the E. of Huntingdon, giving the Heads of his long Conference with the King at his Audience of Leave for repairing to Berwick. In the P. S. He mentions that Geo. Flecke had yesterday night the Boots, & is said to have confessed that the E. of Morton was privy to the poisoning the E. of Athol. Edinb. 16 March 1580. A Copy.
49. E. of Huntingdon to Secretary Walsyngham, thanking him that he is likely to have a larger Allowance: & expressing his Satisfaction at the Court's Dislike of a Composition. Newcastle 19 March 1580.
50. Lord Hunsdon to Secretary Walsyngham, that Mr. Randolph's Departure from Edinburgh is deferred; that Angus & his Friends are discovered, so that of necessity they must enter into some open Action; that the Lord of Whittingham & others were apprehended; that he is against the appointing of Commissioners; that he was as loth as any man to advise the entering into a War, but things were come to that Pass as rendred it unavoidable. Berwick 20 March 1580.
51. Mr. Tho. Randolph to Lord Hunsdon, that the Commendator of Donformlin, Newbottle & the Clerk Register had been with him from the King, but they ended their Conference dissatisfied with each other; by reason of indisposition he was obliged to put off his Journey to Berwick; that a Minister was arrived from the Prince of Orange upon the affair of the imprisonment of the E. of Morton; that all the Clans belonging to Morton & Angus have offered their service to the King; that the Laird of Whittingham had the Boots, but without Torment confessed every thing he could charge any Man with, that he might secure himself. Edinb. 18 Mar. 1580.
52. Lord Hunsdon to Secretary Walsyngham, inclosing a Letter from Mr. Randolph, by which

- it appears that his former Advice ought to have been followed. Berwick 21 March 1580.
53. Mr. Randolph to Lord Hunfdon, concerning the Discovery made by the Laird of Whittingham; & a Proclamation againſt the E. of Angus, and requiring all from 18 to 60 years of Age to be in readineſs for the King's Service within 8 days warning.—Some Notes concerning the poisoning of the E. of Athol—of the Deſertion of the Clans.—Recommends Commiſſioners as the beſt Step.—Soldiers marching for the Siege of Dalkeith. Edinb. 20 March 1580.
54. E. of Huntingdon to Secretary Walsyngham, that if Morton be juſtly accused, fiat juſtitia; that now he comes into Mr. Randolph's Opinion for the meeting of Commiſſioners. Newcastle 22 March 1580.
55. E. of Huntingdon to Secretary Walsyngham, ſignifying that he had written, as he had adviſed, to the Lords of the Council concerning the enlarging his allowance; & deſiring that he may not be a Commiſſioner in the Scotch Affairs. Newcastle 23 March 1580.
56. Lord Hunfdon to Secretary Walsyngham, that the Court at Edinburgh has been in fear of themſelves; that by a Perſon from thence it is affirmed that Whittingham has not confeſſed any thing againſt Angus, either of an Intention for ſurpriſing of the King or killing any of the Noblemen; & that the Charges of the new Forces are above 3000 l. per Month. Berwick 24 Mar. 1580.
57. Mr. Randolph to Lord Hunfdon, with an Account of Whittingham's Confeſſion, whereby he appears the erranteſt Knave, Villain & Coward that ever was: which he had repreſented to the King in the preſence of ſeveral of the Council, eſpecially in the Affair of Letters from the ABp. of Glaſgow, which he had alledged to have been forg'd by his Brother Mr. Archd. Douglas; & had therefore inſiſted upon his being recommitted to Priſon, in order for a thorough trial of the Truth of what he had advanced, which if he were not able to juſtify, that his Pardon might be revoked, & he might be hanged as a Traitor, Slanderer & Liar. He likewiſe told the King & Council of the private Injuries done himſelf, ſo that he required Leave to depart to Berwick to attend her Maſteſty's pleaſure: upon which he received many good Words, &c. Edinb. 23 March 1580.
58. Lord Hunfdon to Secretary Walsyngham, that by a Letter from Angus it ſeems the Surpriſe of Dunbarton which had been intended, could not be undertaken without peril to Morton, till they had gathered all their Forces together, to which end they were this day to meet at Stirling. In caſe they ſend to him for aſſiſtance, he deſires direction in the part which he is to act: In the Court there is ſuch Diſtruſt of one another, & there are ſuch Fears of the City of Edinburgh, that it is much queſtioned where they will find any to make head againſt them. It is intimated in the P. S. from Melvin, that the King of France has promiſed to ſend them Forces; & that it is rumour'd that a Rebellion is deſign'd in England. Berwick 25 Mar. 1581.
59. Mr. Bowes to Secretary Walsyngham, further concerning the Examination of Whittingham, & the Deſigns of Angus & his Friends. Berwick 25 Mar. 1581.

Num. 6999.

60. Lord Hunfdon to Secretary Walsyngham, deſiring to know whether he ſhould let an Ambaſſador paſs, if the Scots ſhould ſend one: thinks that it requires great Conſultation what ſhall be done with her Maſteſty's Forces here: informs that Monſr. D'Aubigny would by no Means quit Scotland, except the Scottiſh Queen ſhould deſire it: & ſpeaks of the danger Mr. Randolph was in from a Perſon's firing his Piece at him, as he ſat writing in his Cloſet, two Bullets piercing through the Window hard by him. Berwick, 26 Mar. 1581.
61. Draught of a Letter from Secretary Walsyngham to Mr. Randolph, concerning the appointing of Commiſſioners, & the Heads to proceed upon at their Meeting; viz. that there be no Alteration of Religion: that there be no attempt for transporting the King out of the Realm without the Aſſent of the three Eſtates of Scotland & the Privy of her Maſteſty: that they do not proceed to any Treaty of Marriage for the King without her Maſteſty's knowledge: that all Proceedings againſt the E. of Morton be ſtaid, till the Charge againſt him is laid before her Maſteſty, &c. 26 Mar. 1581.
62. Draught of a Letter from Secretary Walsyngham to the E. of Huntingdon & Lord Hunfdon, concerning the appointing Commiſſioners, & diſcharging ſuch part of the Forces as they might find convenient, 26 Mar. 1581.
63. E. of Huntingdon to Secretary Walsyngham, delivering his Opinion that ſome of the Clans might be tampered with, & brought over to her Maſteſty, which he was the more encouraged to think, ſince by Mr. Randolph's Letter there were ſome who had already taken up Arms. Newcastle, 26 Mar. 1581.
64. E. of Huntingdon to Secretary Walsyngham, concerning D'Aubigny's deceitful Dealing, & the Advantage which may accrue to her Maſteſty from their Quarrels among themſelves. Newcastle, 27 Mar. 1581.
65. Lord Hunfdon to Sir Fra. Walsyngham, that if her Maſteſty would cut off all Traffick with them by Sea & Land, it might bring them to reaſon: expects daily to hear of Angus & Marr effecting ſome Enterprize: mentions the Deſign of bringing Morton to a Trial, & then no doubt they will have his Head, which will not be long a doing. Berwick, 29 Mar. 1581.
66. Lord Hunfdon to Secretary Walsyngham, giving an Account of what Answer he ſent back to a Letter received from Angus & Marr for aſſiſtance, that now Mr. Randolph was with him, in whoſe Opinion it was too late to treat by Commiſſioners. Berwick, 29 Mar. 1581.
67. E. of Angus & Mar to Lord Hunfdon, deſiring aſſiſtance from him. Stirling, 23 March 1580.
68. Mr. Randolph to Secretary Walsyngham, advertiſing his Arrival at Berwick, & the Little Good to be done with the King & Council; fearing what will become of the 3 Noblemen Angus, Mar & Glencarn, the only ones her Maſteſty hath to depend on; that he had hoped for an Accommodation by Commiſſioners, but as to that they intirely trifled, & Morton's Caſe muſt have been altogether neglected. Berwick, 29 March 1581.
69. Randolph to Walsyngham, that the alteration of their Minds gave him Cauſe to alter His - Opinion in regard to the meeting of Commissioners; with some few more private Matters. Berwick, 30 March 1581.

70. Lord Hunsdon to Secretary Walsyngham, that since Mr. Randolph's Departure from Edinburgh they had begun the Fortification of Leith; that her Majesty should give them up clearly & forbid all manner of Traffick with them by Sea or Land; & begin with them now in their great misery & poverty, & she may do that with them for a Pound, which she may not do afterwards for an Hundred; which he had always delivered as his Opinion. Berwick, 30 March 1581.
71. Draught of a Letter to the E. of Huntingdon & Lord Hunsdon, signifying how loth the Queen is to use open Force, if there can be any other Remedy found out, 31 Mar. 1581.
72. Draught of a Letter to Lord Hunsdon, that when it is known what Assistance is wanted by Angus & his Associates who have taken the Field, that they may enter into Scotland with this Declaration, that it is only to take away such Men from the King's Person, who are endeavouring to destroy the Amity that has continued these 20 Years between the two Realms, 31 Mar. 1581.
73. Lord Hunsdon to Secretary Walsyngham, expressing his Surprise at her Majesty's Commandment to discharge the new levied Forces. Berwick, 1 April 1581.
74. Mr. Randolph to Secretary Walsyngham, that whatever his Opinion may have been, he finds now that it will be to no purpose to appoint Commissioners, &c. Berwick, 1 April 1581.
75. Mr. Randolph to the Lords of the Council, giving his Reasons for the alteration of his Mind with respect to appointing Commissioners. Berwick, 1 April 1581.
76. Mr. Bowes to Secretary Walsyngham, about the allowance to the Companies that are ordered to be discharged. Berwick, 1 Apr. 1581.
77. E. of Huntingdon to Secretary Walsyngham, giving his Opinion of the Measures to be taken with the Scots, that may most tend to the Queen's Honour. Newcastle, 2 Apr. 1581.
78. E. of Huntingdon to Secretary Walsyngham, that the E. of Angus is either in Arms or coming to England for Succour; that it is feared the E. of Mar is snared by Lenox, &c. Newcastle, 4 Apr. 1581.
79. Lord Scrope to the E. of Huntingdon, that the E. of Angus was come to Loughmaben in these Western Marches of Scotland to the Laird Johnston. Carlisle, 3 Apr. 1581.
80. Lord Hunsdon to Secretary Walsyngham, acquainting that according to his direction he had written to the Lords of the Council for some allowance to himself, 4 Apr. 1581.
81. Lord Hunsdon to the Lords of the Council, informing them that Angus is left alone, the E. of Mar & others having come into the King: that a Proclamation has been made forbidding any Scotchman to have any Trade or Traffick with any part of England, &c. and craves an allowance for himself. Holly Island, 4 April 1581.
82. Secretary Walsyngham to the Lord Hunsdon, about discharging some of the Troops. From the Court of St. James's, 5 Apr. 1581. The Draught of a Letter.
83. The E. of Huntingdon to Secretary Walsyngham, desiring to be excused his Attendance at Court; & laying before him the Proceedings of

- the Scots who had made Proclamations against England, wishing that the end of this action may not imbolden them to do Us more harm, than We are fit in honour to sustain, &c. Newcastle, 8 Apr. 1581.
84. Draught of a Letter to Lord Hunsdon, signifying how much her Majesty was moved at this new & strange Step taken in Scotland: however because of the great Charges she was not willing yet a while to raise more forces, or prevent the Discharge of those which had been already ordered to be disbanded. From the Court at St. James's, 10 Apr. 1581.
85. Draught of a Letter from the same Person (probably from Walsyngham) to Lord Hunsdon, that since the closing up of the former he had received Order from her Majesty in the presence of the Lords of the Council to be given to his Lordship for the Discharge of the 500 also which before were appointed to be reserved, except his Lordship saw great Reason for the Stay; & thus giving a View of their good Husbandry he humbly takes his Leave. From the Court at St. James's, 10 Apr. 1581.
86. Lord Hunsdon to Secretary Walsyngham, that He had discharged 500 Horsemen, who being Borderers were to be raised again upon immediate Warning; recommends the supplying Yorkshire with Arms: that he had received News that Sir John Seaton designed to be with him that day, who being the King of Spain's Servant, he thought, was a very unfit Messenger to be sent to her Majesty, & therefore would detain him till he knew her pleasure. Berwick, 10 Apr. 1581.
87. Lord Hunsdon to Secretary Walsyngham, with an Account of the Arrival of Sir Jo. Seaton, who was the most proud & vain glorious Beast he ever saw in his Life: that he should not furnish him with a Passport, till he heard from Court. Berwick, 10 Apr. 1581.

- Man, & that it is better to shew strangeness to that King. Harrington near to Durham, 14 Apr. 1581.
95. E. of Huntingdon to Secretary Walsyngham, recommending the Detaining of the Ambassador; & concerning the report of hard Dealings in the Country, he requests that they may write to any in the Country to certify what has been done. Harrington, 14 Apr. 1581.
96. Lord Hunsdon to Secretary Walsyngham, that he had forwarded his Letter to the E. of Lenox concerning the Trial of the E. of Morton, with some Remarks of his own, wishing that the Queen had writ to the King, &c. wishes the Queen knew how idle he was there, that he might have leave to return. In the P. S. he desires his Interest to procure Mr. Bellamy to be Dean of Durham in the room of Mr. Wylson deceased. Berwick, 30 May 1581.
97. Sir John Foster to Secretary Walsyngham, with an Account of the Trial of the E. of Morton on Thursday, & his being adjudg'd to be hang'd, drawn and quartered on Friday; that the Messenger who brought him the Advice saw him standing on the Scaffold; that it was thought the Accusations against him were very slender; & that he died very stoutly. Alnewick, 4 June 1581.
98. Lord Scroope to Secretary Walsyngham, that the E. of Angus was coming to Carlisle with others of his Friends, whom he should receive, but would immediately upon their Arrival send a Messenger to the K. of Scots to acquaint him with it, & desires further Advice for his own behaviour. Carlisle, 5 June 1581.
99. Lord of Hunsdon to Secretary Walsyngham, concerning the Trial, &c. of the E. of Morton, which was preceded by a Proclamation made with Sound of Trumpet, that no Man upon pain of Death should stir out of their Doors, or look out at their Windows till 6 a clock at night, saving Noblemen & their Servants & Soldiers: No Good to be expected from the King towards her Majesty, while this Council is about him: Scotch Merchants trading to Yarmouth denied to be furnish'd with Corn: All Englishmen going to Edinburgh are strictly examined: English Merchants spoiled by Scotch Pirates: The Imprisonment of a Messenger from Mr. Randolph. Berwick, 5 June 1581.
100. Names of those which were upon the Affize of the E. of Morton.
101. Lord Hunsdon to Secretary Walsyngham, that he is denied any Answer from the E. of Lenox; Great Broils are like to be shortly in Scotland among themselves: that the King is better vers'd in the art of Diffimulation now in his tender Years than others 40 Years elder than he is: Danger of Loughlevin and Weatherburne, &c. going the same Way with the E. of Morton: Notwithstanding the Orders of the Council Ships daily pass with Corn for Scotland, 6 June.
102. Lord Hunsdon to Secretary Walsyngham, concerning the probability of a Marriage now Monsieur was come to Court: Notwithstanding the last Advices he had received a Letter from the E. of Lenox, who still persists in the sending Sir John Seaton Ambassador to the Queen: An Account of the Points in Morton's Trial, upon which the Judgment turn'd against him, with his own Remarks thereupon: thinks himself hardly dealt with, that he is not suffered to return
